STREET CLEANING FORCE EXPANDED TO RAKE LEAVES

Beginning tomorrow the street maintenance and repair department of the city will be restored to normal, with six men who were laid off about six weeks ago back to work again, and more frequent sweeping of streets in the residence district.

Due to the six weeks economy program in that department because of six less men on the payroll and the cutting down of sweepings of the residence streets, approximately $1000 was saved the city, City Superintendent F. W. Scheffel said today.

It was intended by the city council and Superintendent Scheffel to have the reduced program only enforced until fall, but the falling leaves and rainy weather necessitate more frequent cleaning of the thoroughfares and a larger number of employees.

It is expected that removal of fallen leaves from the streets will be in full swing by next week, and citizens who desire such street refuse for fertilizer hauled to their lots should make application at once with the city superintendent's office. Already a number of such applications are on file.

It is costly to operate the street sweeper because its brushes wear out fast and cost so much. In normal daily operation the main brush alone wears out every five nights and has to be replaced.

It was this cost of operation that caused the city council six weeks ago to have the residence streets swept less often during the remainder of the summer.

BARNUM TO EDIT PAPER AT JUNIOR HIGH DURING YEAR

Although no decision has been reached concerning the name of the junior high school newspaper, the first issue for this year will be off the press October 9, according to school officials. Mrs. Hilding Bengtson is faculty advisor. Last year the paper was known as the Junior High Broadcaster.

At a meeting of the student council yesterday afternoon, the list of staff members for the publication was approved. Billy Barnum will be editor-in-chief, assisted by John Snider. Donald Gray will be in charge of the school news, and Laurel Morris, assisted by Dwight Short will handle the club news.

Anne Dean and Jack Nelson have been named literary editors, and Poyllis Nelson was named to head the music and art department. Boys' athletics will be written by Frank Brown, and girls' athletics by Irene Alcock. Lee Bullis is to report for the Boys' league, and Betty Thorndike for the Girls' league. Bob Rind is joke editor, and Theodore Taylor, George Cook and Edward Cariton, staff reporters.
