RIP'S PIGEONGRAM TELLS OREGONIAN
A pigeongram addressed to the Oregonian was received yesterday from the Rip Van Winkle club of Medford. The message was sent by carrier pigeon from the football field at Medford Saturday and was received at the Sperry Flour company mill.

The message carried by Princess Wheat Hears announced that Medford was again on the football map. It read, in part:

"The Rip Van Winkle club of Medford hereby serves notice to all of Oregon that Medford is again on the football map. We have the team and the coach, and that old Medford spirit that brought 3000 Medford fans all the way to Portland to see the Medford-Benson game has been strengthened by our two bad years."

Ken Maynard Star Rialto Westerner
Ken Maynard, popular hero of the western dramas, is coming to the Fox Rialto theatre Friday and Saturday in his latest picture "Alias the Bad Man," a story of the early days of the west when cattle rustlers flourished and when a six-gun was the law.

Today is the last day of the romantic comedy drama, "Many a Slip."

'POP' UNSURPRISED BY RESIGNATION OF H. B. VAN DUZER

C. E. (Pop) Gates of this city, former member of the state highway commission, before leaving last night to attend a meeting and hearing of the state highway commission, expressed no surprise at the resignation of H. B. Van Duzer.

"I knew it was coming," said Gates. "The governor has had a hook under him for months. When I was on the commission, Van Duzer and I had an agreement that if either was forced off the other would resign. Van Duzer was ready when I was ousted, but reconsidered, when the governor agreed to cease wild charges and threaten investigations. The governor did, but Spaulding kept on, and that brought things to a head."

The retirement of Van Duzer came as a shock and surprise to county officials and others interested in road development. He was a strong friend of southern Oregon on the commission.

"J. C. Alsworth, named to succeed Van Duzer, is a strong and competent man, and I believe will help southern Oregon whenever he can," is the view of Gates. He said Alsworth has been interested in highway development for years, and has made many trips with the highway commission on tours of inspection in the last ten years.

ROGUE RIVER BOYS FACE GUN CHARGE

Melvin Burnett, Walter Jones and Ira Dice of Rogue River, all boys of 18 years, were arrested last night in the Sams Valley district for hunting from a public road, with lights at night. They will probably be charged with carrying a loaded gun in an auto, a recent change in the Oregon laws, about which the press of the state has had much to say in the past month.

The trio were arrested by state police, who allege they were trying to kill deer. It was the first arrest in this county under the "loaded-gun-in-auto" law.

Other arrests for the same offense, committed the past week, are expected to be made.
