EADERS in finance, business an politics gather at the White House on Tuesday night, at the invi-tation of the President, to discuss a program for restoring confidence and checking deflation.

Wall Street hears of the conference on TUESDAY MORNING, and the stock market surges upward in a spectacular advance that restores five billion dollars to security values before the conference itself actually

WHAT is this program which so restored the confidence of security buyers that they bid up security values to the extent of five billion dollars before the conference at which It.was proposed was held?

Well, it falls under three main

1. Formation of a new credit or ganization to thaw out frozen assets 2. Broadening of the facilities of the federal farm loan board.

3. Liberalization of the rediscoun provisions of the federal reserve sys-

IF YOU are just an ordinary citizen not a financier, you may ask this question: "What is a frozen asset?"

Here, in reasonably simple terms, is the answer: "A frozen asset is any asset that has FUTURE value, but the trouble disturbing the far east cannot at present be realized upon."

SUPPOSE you own a note that is however. due, and the maker of the note can't pay it, and if you foreclose and ession of the property that secures the note you can't sell it for these loans that cannot be paid can be carried without foreclosure, until budness conditions improve, making payment possible.

It is specifically mentioned that the amount of additional capital needed for federal farm loan banks is $60,000,000.

Now for No. 3—the "liberalization of the federal reserve system."

If you are just an ordinary citizen, not up on financial terms, this will leave you hazy.

The banks loan money for shortime commercial purposes, taking the borrower's notes. These notes are known as "commercial paper."

If the banks need more money, in order to take care of the business of their communities, they take these notes, known as "commercial paper," to the federal reserve and "rediscount" them, which is another way of saying that they borrow money on solving that they borrow money on bluejackets besides its regular crew.
