JENKINS' COMMENT

provides the largest single share of the highway funds but has had relatively little of the highway money spent in her immediate vicinity. That is true enough, as far as it goes. But while it is true that less than her share of the highway money has been spent in Portland's immediate vicinity, it ISN'T TRUE that Portland has failed to receive her full share of the BENEFITS of state highway construction in Oregon. EVERY MAIN HIGHWAY in Oregon leads to Portland. So every main highway built in Oregon has aided Portland.

SOUTHERN Oregon, which is broad-minded, doesn't object in principle to a THIRD highway from Portland to the northern beaches — although there are two good highways already, both of them paved, to serve the traffic between these points. But Southern Oregon does object to the building of such a highway NOW. It should take its place in a regular and considered program of construction, and that place should be AFTER the existing highway system is completed.

With a deep sigh and tug at his heart, Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, who has just retired from the United States marine corps, put away uniforms and swords. He recently purchased a home at Newtown Square, Pa., near Philadelphia, and settled down to the life of Mr. Private Citizen.

LOCAL DOG LOVES ICE CREAM CONES

If all dogs had tastes like Roger Early's "Teeny," the price on dairy products would go up. For Teeny likes cream and she likes it city style, frozen and in a cone. The depression hasn't decreased her fondness for this dainty, that's the information she yapped to members of the local police force yesterday. Oblivious to her stern surroundings, she seated herself on the station floor and ate her cone yesterday. Rolled her eyes and smacked her lips for more. If the number of cones she has eaten during her six years in this world were placed end to end, her admirers say, "they'd reach far enough to make several thousand children cry for 'em." Teeny is a Shetland collie and ice cream isn't the only fancy dish she likes. She'll eat anything she sees her master eat and deserts are her favorites.

VIRGINIA FOLKS SEEK KIN HERE

Last week before the United States court officials departed from the city for Portland at the end of the court term in Medford, it was learned that the United States marshal's office at Portland had been requested to locate relatives in Oregon for a Virginia woman. Mrs. A. M. Jones of 623 Linden avenue, Portsmouth, that state, wrote to the marshal's office requesting that U. S. Marshal Jack Day help locate relatives whom she believed resided somewhere in Oregon. According to the letter they are Mrs. Estella Hazard Phillips and her grown children, Odessa Estella and Fred Arthur Phillips. The parents of Mrs. Phillips, according to Mrs. Jones, were named Hazard, and members of the family have lived in different parts of Oregon. Radio Plow Has Possibility For Fatigued Farmer

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., Oct. 10.—(AP)—It may not be long now before farmers throughout the country will be doing their plowing by radio. J. J. Lynch of Miles City, Mont., demonstrated this possibility yesterday by plowing around a 30-acre field with a tractor operated by radio. Two hundred expert electricians, radio operators and business men from central states, witnessed the demonstration. He said it was the first time in history that a tractor, so operated, had actually plowed ground. The machine carried three 14-inch plows with a keyboard operated in an automobile 30 feet behind the tractor. Follow the crowd to the French Village Saturday night, Fairgrounds pavilion.

HINDENBURG PUTS FOOT DOWN UPON GERMAN RADICALS

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—(AP)—President Paul von Hindenburg, commander of the German armies in the World war and Adolf Hitler, who served most of the war in the ranks, talked as equals for more than an hour today about the foreign and domestic problems of Germany. It was the first meeting between the gruff 84-year-old president and the comparatively young leader of the strongest opposition to the government—the national socialists who want to repudiate the treaty of Versailles and establish a rule of brown-shirts similar to the blackshirt regime in Italy. The details of their conversation were not made public, but it was understood that the president warned the Nazi leader against any further disturbances by his followers, especially in connection with the national socialist convention to be held tomorrow at Hapburg. A brief communique, issued at the end of the 85-minute conference, said Hitler has made "an extensive report on the aims of the Nazi movement. This was followed by an exchange of views on foreign and domestic political matters." Late in the day police issued orders closing at night a number of meeting places used by the Nazis and other extremists.
