

NEED OF HARBOR TOLD IN ARTICLE BY FARM EDITOR

Once again southern Oregon and northern California are given widespread publicity, this time in the October issue of the Oregon Farmer which reached this city this morning. The well written story comes from the pen of Fred W. Clemens, editor of the Pacific Northwest Farm Trio, Spokane, Wash., who paid a visit to Medford sometime ago and conferred with officials of the Northern California-Southern Oregon Development association.

The article covers resources of this section and goes into detail regarding the high freight rates which exist here. The program of the Northern California-Southern Oregon Development association is outlined and particular reference is made to the Crescent City harbor project which would provide the Mid-Pacific empire with a water outlet for its available resources.

A note of warning is struck in the story that citizens of this section must not be too hasty in expecting big developments to be established overnight and in this connection Mr. Clemens states: "Development of this character is a slow process. As a rule, things worth while grow slowly. Only mushrooms mature overnight, and not good mushrooms at that. The Mid-Pacific empire will not see its dream come true this year or next, nor all of it even in this decade."

The article is illustrated with a map of northern California and southern Oregon, a photograph of President O. E. Gates and a cartoon of a bottle full of natural resources with a hand marked "Single Transportation System," pressing down a cork called "High Freight Rates," and the cartoon is headed "Millions in natural resources are bottled up in this country by high freight rates."

WEATHER ENTICES MANY ON OUTINGS

Hundreds of Medford people enjoyed automobile outings on the Pacific, Redwood and Crater Lake highways and other roads yesterday, to take in the beauty of the autumn scenery in ideal weather, and a number of them reported today that the changing verdure of the forests and trees along the roads, with their mixtures of green, semi-green, russet and red, intermixed, made delightful pictures.

Crater lake drew quite a number of local people, some of whom say they were fairly enraptured with the beauty of the national park and lake in the crisp air. The visibility was wonderful, they say. There was a large number of visitors to the lake from various points, mostly from the Pacific coast section, and cars were coming and going all day.

LEGION AND AUXILIARY INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

All plans have been completed for the big annual event this evening—the joint installation of officers of the local American Legion post and the Legion Auxiliary. A dinner will be served in the armory at seven o'clock, and the installation services will be followed by dancing. Music is to be furnished by a seven-piece orchestra.

Several members of the G. A. R. will be taken into Legion post No. 18 this evening, Chester A. Arthur post having given up its charter.

EGGS STRENGTHEN, PRICES UNCHANGED

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Trade in the butter market is showing little, if any, material change locally. On the open market a clean-up of supplies is reflected with the market apparently holding its own.

Further showing of strength is reflected in the market for eggs here, with prices generally well held but unchanged from the high point recently established by the poultry producers.

Very poor quality of some of the dressed turkeys now arriving is hurting the price list, according to some of the leaders of the trade. Best young toms are now generally listed $2-$3.50 lb.

Generally maintained demand is reflected in the market for live chickens along the wholesale way.

WALL STREET CLOSED TO OBSERVE HOLIDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Wall street had a holiday today and the stock market was closed. Except for that and a few commemorative celebrations, New York observed Columbus day quietly.

WEST AND SOUTH STRONG SUPPORT IN ENFORCEMENT

BALTIMORE, Oct. 12.—(AP)—In a copyrighted interview by H. L. Mencken, the Baltimore Evening Sun today quotes Bishop James Cannon as saying the west and south dry no longer doubt that prohibition can and will be enforced.

"Prohibition," the Southern Methodist churchman is quoted as saying, "is now in its third stage. In its first stage the wets said, 'they can't enforce it.' In its second stage they said, 'they shan't enforce it,' but now, in its third stage, we drys are doing the talking and what we say is, 'we will enforce it.'"

"Never before had I seen such enthusiasm as I encountered lately in the far west and south. I know, of course, that I was among Methodists, but that is immaterial. They represented fairly the general body of drys. The old doubts and hesitations are gone."

The "thrill" the drys experienced at President Hoover's message to congress with the Wickersham report, and the "heavy and defiant" report of the rich, the bishop said, accounted for the change. "The president's message * * * turned the tide."

valued at $25, was actually worth $1. The Robbins, according to the statements, made a trip to Marshfield for furniture to place in the small four-room house.

Wright, according to the state police, admits that he was "the torch" and instructed the others in arson activities. He also confessed similar tactics in other parts of the northwest, including the setting of a fire at Sedro-Woolley, Wash., and the collection of insurance money. His partner, he claims in this enterprise, decamped with the money

COUNTY OFFICES SHUT ON HOLIDAY

The county health unit functioned as usual today and the sheriff's office was open, ready to respond to emergency calls, but the other offices in the court house were closed because of this being Columbus day. The only city offices closed today were the city treasurer's and city recorder's and the banks and courts were also closed because of Columbus day being a legal and non-judicial day in Oregon. Otherwise business went on in Medford as usual.

Because of the city and justice of the peace court being closed number of persons arrested over the week-end for various offenses had to wait until tomorrow to be arraigned, or have their trials.

There was no formal observance of the day in Medford.

WIRE ASKS ROLPH TO VISIT MEDFORD

An invitation has been wired Governor James Rolph, Jr., of California to meet with representatives of Ashland, Medford, Grants Pass and other southern Oregon cities here for Thursday dinner or luncheon Saturday, it was announced today by A. H. Banwell, secretary of the Northern California and Southern Oregon Development association.

The meeting is planned as an expression of appreciation of Governor Rolph's support of the Crescent City harbor project. He will be a guest in Crescent City Friday, and it is hoped will accept Medford's invitation to include this city in his itinerary. He will make the trip north by plane.

EXTRA CHARGE ON SHASTA ROUTE TO BE DISCONTINUED

SAN FRANCISCO. — (Special). — Making it possible for tourists to see the entire Pacific coast without additional travel cost, the Southern Pacific company today announced plans for removal of the extra charge for rail travel between California and eastern points via the Shasta route through Portland.

Effective with the annual offering of reduced transcontinental round-trips next May, the equalization of fares will culminate years of effort by Southern Pacific to bring about this travel boon in cooperation with connecting lines. It was stated by E. W. Clapp, general passenger traffic manager for the company.

The announcement, Clapp explained, means that summer travelers next year will be able to use the Shasta route in making a circuit of the country, either going or returning, at the price in effect over other travel
