Hay-Wire Telephone Line Between the station and our office.

"It was great stuff, but telephone bells hadn't been invented yet, so there was no way to call the fellow at the other end of the phone. We got around that by fixing up a schedule, and at certain exact hours of the day we'd go to the phone and talk."

REMEMBER, this tale was told by a man still in his useful business years. These modern conveniences of ours aren't very old.

Turn on the light so that you can see better and take a look at the telephone on your desk, or on the wall. If you are a business man, take another look at your typewriter and your adding machine. If you are a housewife, glance at your electric washing machine and your vacuum sweeper.

If you are a manufacturer, look at all the complicated machinery that turns out your product. If you are a laboring man, look at all the machines that save the drudgery of your back.

Do this, and you will begin to realize what this modern world owes to men like Edison who had BRAINS and the will to use them.

HEALTH WORKERS CONSIDER MENACE OF TUBERCULOSIS

Tuberculosis is the leading cause of deaths in Oregon between the ages of 15 and 24 years, Sadie Orr Dunbar, executive secretary of the Oregon Tuberculosis association, informed health workers of southern Oregon yesterday afternoon in her address before the health institute, which opened at the Y. W. C. A. building to continue through the week. Repeating the message of President Hoover, gleaned at the welfare conference in Washington, to which she was a delegate, she added, "There are in the United States over 3,000,000 undernourished children, 131,000 children under 10 years of age, who have never seen their mothers. They died when they were born."

The need for continued effort on the part of all health workers to combat tuberculosis and to lower the infant and maternity death rate, was emphasized by Mrs. Dunbar. She chose as her main subject, "Educational facts relative to tubercular and public health work." Tracing the history of the campaign against tuberculosis, she said it began in 1904. In 1907 in the United States, seal sales amounting to $3000 were made. Last year the total was five and a half million dollars.

"Child health does not know depression," she continued, "and a special effort must be made to preserve it during this trying period."

Dr. Estelle Ford Warner, now of the United States public health service, Washington, D. C., arrived last night to be speaker at this afternoon's program. She will also address the health workers at 3:00 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Miss Mildred Carlton, president of the Jackson County Public Health association, announced last night. Dr. Warner has been loaned the local institute for the two days through the special request made the health service by Mrs. Dunbar. She will review for her audiences her trip through the states in the interests of a lowered maternity and infant death rate.

Friday noon the health workers will be entertained at picnic lunch at the Ashland civic house with the Ashland health workers as hostesses.
