

Medford Gun Club to Stage Mail Tribune Trophy Shoot Nov. 7-8

ANNUAL EVENT TO DRAW GUNNERS OF WIDE REPUTATION

Chester W. Wood Will Have Charge of All Events in Two-Day Program—Lampert Wins First Leg

The annual Mail Tribune trapshoot, premier tourney of the southern Oregon, northern California clay pigeon destroying fraternity, will be staged on the Medford Gun club grounds, November 7 and 8, with gunners from many coast points participating.

Authority has been received from the Pacific International Trapshooting association for the registered shoot, with P. I. T. A. rules to govern and records to be published in the official scores appearing in January, 1932.

The Mail Tribune trophy was first won in competition in 1930, and is to be shot for each year over the Medford Gun club traps at 100 targets, 16 yards. The trophy was won last year by Ed Lampert of Medford, after a shoot-off with S. O. Mendenhall.

In addition to the Mail Tribune trophy championship, there will be additional events with a large lineup of each and cups.

Chester W. Wood of Prospect, president of the club, will be in charge of all events and gunners of national repute will participate, including Frank Troeb, of Portland, O. N. Ford and Dr. Bradford, of Del Monte, Cal., and two full squads from Portland. In addition there will be entrants from Klamath Falls, Roseburg, Grants Pass, Ashland and practically all surrounding towns of the region.

Shooting will start at 10 a. m. each day and ideal conditions are promised for the tourney, gunners facing the north with a perfect background.

Lincoln and Grant played a scoreless tie in the Portland intercollegiate league. Lincoln had a chance to score in the second period, but lost the ball on a fumble on the 4-yard mark.

Jefferson and Washington continue to lead the league in the percentage column with Benson and Lincoln tied for second honors.

SALEM, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The Woodburn high school defeated Independence yesterday afternoon by a 6 to 0 score. The game was anybody's contest during the entire period.

WILLAMETTE SWAMPS IDAHO COLLEGE, 20-0

SALEM, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The Willamette University football eleven opened its Northwest conference schedule here last night with a 20 to 0 victory over the College of Idaho. The Bearcats scrimmaged their way to victory against a hard-fighting team from Caldwell, which for a time looked dangerous with its passing attack.

Walter Erickson, the star player of the season, so far, for Coach "Spec" Keene, made four touchdowns during the game, but only two of them counted. Penalties brought the other two back.

My WINNING PLAY

By CHARLES E. DORAIS (Head Football Coach, University of Detroit)

DETROIT.—(AP)—As in most systems, the off-tackle shot is my basic play. It is and always has been one of our strongest plays.

Against a normal defense, the play, with conditions equal, is constantly successful. When the opponents maneuver to stop it, avenues are opened for other plays which are built to look like it, but end differently.

Some off-tackle plays depend for their success on power and others on deception. Mine has a judicious mixture of each and for that reason suits me best.

Power is there because we can throw in the half, the full, the quarter and the guard ahead of the runner to pave the way. Deception is added principally by the ball-carrier's threatening to attack a different spot from the one he does eventually attack, thus maneuvering the end into position to be handled more easily by our blocker.

Robert "Rocky" Parsaca, left halfback, carries the ball in this basic play, while John Hackett, end and captain of the team, is the "key" man. He takes out the opposing tackle to wreck the defense of the line. If he fails, the chances are the whole play will fall.

Parsaca is a good broken field runner. He has short strides but covers the ground fast. Hackett is a strong man on defense, a good tackler and a good charger. His part in the off-tackle play is just as important—if not more so—as the ball carrier.

If he fails, the ball carrier will not reach the scrimmage line. This is the last year at the University of Detroit for both players, and new men for the play must be trained for next season.

Because Parsaca and Hackett have had two years' experience with the play, they should be at their peak this year, and the play should reach its maximum efficiency.

There is nothing unusual or spectacular about this play. It is one of the oldest in football. Its effectiveness depends altogether on the precision and speed with which it is carried out.

Every team is drilled for offense against an off-tackle threat, but if executed fast and accurately there is little in the way of defense to stop it.

The play doesn't have to go the same way each time. If the ball carrier sees the defense massed on one side, he can cut through another sector. For this reason, Parsaca has made a good ball carrier in the off-tackle play. He is a good side-stepper and has a frequent change of pace.

The University of Detroit football team went through the season of 1928 undefeated, and this basic play, effectively worked under the leadership of Lloyd Brazil, was greatly responsible.

Starting October 15, 1927, the team won 23 straight games in three seasons before meeting defeat late in 1929 at the hands of the Oregon Aggies. Brazil, who was the key man during that time, now is coaching the backfield at the University of Detroit.

Public Enemy For one, two and even three games, stars have shone, but none ever sustained the pace of Martin at bat or on the bases. It was no wonder they labeled him "Public Enemy No. 1" in Philadelphia, though they cheered the youngster vociferously there as well as in St. Louis.

Martin's exploits are the closest I have ever seen to those of Ty Cobb, at the Georgia's best, but Ty never was the world's series terror that Martin has been," commented William Harridge, now president of the American league, during a breakfast chat.

Is John Leonard (Pepper) Martin the second Ty Cobb that we have been looking for all these years? Is he the ball player destined to furnish the popular, personal appeal that has so long been dominated by Babe Ruth?

Is he the real goods, in other words, or just an inspired youngster who happened to start the world's series at top speed and kept it up? I heard these questions debated all the way from St. Louis to Philadelphia, and back again, by some of baseball's oldest and best known observers. No doubt it was the talk of the cross-roads as well as Broadway while the big battle was on between the Cardinals and the Athletics.

Men who have seen every inter-league war since 1903 never saw the world's series of Martin. Babe Ruth has gone on a greater long distance hitting rampage than any one else. From Mathewson to Earnshaw, pitchers have held the spotlight.

Laughing Through Life Pepper has a good sense of humor, which will take him a long way. He exchanged pleasantries with Mickey Cochrane between socks at everything the A's pitchers served to him.

BROUILLARD WINS WELTER TITLE BY NOD OVER CHAMP

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Louis Brouillard, 20-year-old French Canadian youth from Worcester, today occupied the welterweight throne.

The rugged youngster beat Jack Thompson, who had gained the title from Jackie Fields two years ago. A furious barrage of left hooks dropped the Negro champion twice during last night's 15-round bar in the Boston garden and the title passed by unanimous decision.

The championship bout, the first held in this state in 11 years and the first such welterweight contest since Honey Melody, Boston, defeated Joe Walcott, drew a capacity attendance of 18,500. Boston Garden officials estimated the gate receipts at $55,000. Thompson's contract called for 50 per cent of this amount and Brouillard received 10 per cent in addition to the championship.

Thompson allowed himself to be chased about the ring during 12 of the 15 sessions, Brouillard pounding his head and body with lefts as he gracefully digested but few of the many straight rights aimed at him. The negro was beaten to the canvas in the 10th and 13th, staying down for nine in both rounds.
