

FLOUR ADVANCES 20 CTS BARREL PORTLAND MILLS

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Flour prices were generally advanced 20c per barrel during the day by local millers. This followed late advances in the wheat market. It is the second of a late series of flour advances.

There was no change at all in the market for eggs for the week's opening. Prices were held intact by the local co-ops and while there has been much talk of higher prices by outsiders and private firms, no confirmation is available. In fact buying prices were reduced a couple of cents for the week.

In general there is a very good demand ruling in the market for live chickens. Practically all lines show the improved call and some late betterment in the price.

In the market for dressed turkeys, there is still a rather good call for birds weighing 12 lbs. and more but few of these are arriving. Smaller stuff appears more or less neglected at prices ranging 25c up.

There is a weaker tone generally in the market for country killed hogs as a result of additional price declines for livestock at North Portland. Veal and lambs are unchanged.

SHRINERS RETURN TIRED BUT HAPPY FROM RENO TRIP

Tired and happy, after a joyous pilgrimage to Reno, Nevada, 150 Shriners returned to their home river valley homes today after participating in one of the most colorful and successful Shrine conclaves in the history of the Nevada metropolis. The Hillah 19-car special train, bearing the members of the red top and their wives, arrived in Klamath Falls at 8:00 o'clock this morning.

A bright Nevada sun, which bathed the sage clad mountains near Reno in its warm glow, added its touch to the warm hospitality of Kerak Shriners and the friendly people of the gay little city. Never before have Hillah Temple members enjoyed finer entertainment and a finer, more friendly welcome than furnished by the people in Nevada, according to returning Shrine nobles.

Following a colorful parade, in which Hillah's Arab patrol, newly organized band and drum corps participated, the southern Oregon Shriners attended the griddon battle between Fresno State and the University of Nevada. Attractively decorated floats and various marching bodies entertained the football fans before the game and Hillah's patrol won the enthusiastic approval of the crowds in its drill on the Nevada stadium.

J. Hill and H. Hill, members of the University of Nevada team, made a rare hit with the southern Oregon Shriners. The two Hill boys, although not Shriners, played outstanding games for Nevada and contributed materially to U. of N.'s decisive defeat of the Californians. Bacolini and Glenn of Fresno State showed good offensive work but the lighter and weaker California squad was no match for the Reno aggregation.

In the evening a great banquet was enjoyed in the Oddfellows hall of Reno followed by a night parade. The joint program of Kerak Temple and Hillah Temple was then held at the Reno high school auditorium with Hillah's "wrecking crew" presenting the second session. After the night session the Oregonians had a glimpse of Reno's night clubs and gambling halls where the goddess of chance reigns supreme. Nevada's lenient legislation makes Reno's night life full of gaiety and glamor.

One of the high spots of the Shriners' visit to Nevada was the caravan to the famous old ghost town, Virginia City. Here, in the hey day of mining activity when the world-famous Comstock lode poured fourth silver and gold running into the hundreds of million dollars, countless fortunes were made. Now the old ghost city, built over a veritable mountain of waste, stands as a silent witness to the passing of a great era.

At Virginia City a banquet was served in the ancient Masonic Temple where the spark of Masonry was kept alive in the rough and rugged days of the gold and silver rush. From Virginia City the Shriners were taken to Carson City where the Nevada state penitentiary was visited and the old Nevada capital glimpsed. After a brief stop in Carson City the caravan journeyed to Lake Tahoe, high in the mountains above Reno.

An old-fashion Italian dinner at Tucano's, Reno's touch of old Italy, was the climax of two days of incomparable entertainment. Here the southern Oregon Shriners and their wives dined and danced until the Hillah special train sounded its warning whistle and the visitors gathered at the Reno depot for the homeward journey.

It is the consensus of opinion of southern Oregon Shriners that the Reno pilgrimage marks a new red letter day in Hillah Temple's history.

FOOTBALL SQUAD GETS GLAD HAND FROM KIWANIS

A rousing football rally with all the trimmings was staged by the Kiwanis club, under the direction of Walter Fraser Brown, program chairman, in honor of the Medford team at the Hotel Medford this noon.

Coach E. K. Burgher, Backfield Coach E. M. Kirtley, Principal Charles O. Smith and 40 high school players were the guests of honor. A sumptuous turkey banquet was served, with the long tables specially arranged and decorated in high school colors and motifs by members of the Girls League. The head table, seating President John Mann, the principal and the two coaches, was elevated above the rest, and its white surface represented a football field with red and black goal posts at either end.

Lively songs and brief talks by the guests filled the scheduled time and proved highly entertaining. Among the members who played football in the "old days" and were called upon to contribute talks were: W. J. Warner, Olin Arnsperger and Dr. F. G. Thayer.

Principal guest speakers were: Coaches Burgher and Kirtley, Principal Smith, "Dutch" Zumburner, Bill Cunningham and Bill Walker.

North Dakota tests have shown that feed cost is about half the total cost of producing milk with the average dairy cow.

For Deep Coughs You Need the Safest Help

Cremulsion is not the cheapest help for coughs or colds. It is made to do the utmost whatever the condition. It combines in one prescription seven of the world's best help. It is made in particular for coughs and colds which hang on. There is where one dare not risk a help of lesser value. But it is wise in any cough to trust a less effective help? Cremulsion is in it, blended, emulsified and tasty. In an ideal way it presents the supreme help for soothing membranes and combating cold germs. But there are also white pine tar, wild cherry bark, menthol, ipecac, etc. Each is best for some coughs.

Here we combine all major helps to fight coughs to the limit from the start. Because of this expensive combination, Cremulsion costs a little more than lesser helps, but your druggist guarantees it. He returns your money if you ask for it.

A three-day cough is a danger signal. There you must use Cremulsion to be sure. But it is wise to trust any cough to lesser help when the utmost is at your command? You never know where a cough may lead. Treat it with the best men know.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—(AP)—French financial newspapers said today that smaller banks and business men who have been withdrawing credit balances from the United States have taken new confidence in the dollar as a result of the conference between President Hoover and Premier Laval.

One outcome of those meetings, the papers agreed, is that the European signatories to the Young plan, probably under the leadership of France, must confer regarding any alteration of that plan affecting German reparations payments, for it is not thought likely now that the Hoover moratorium will be extended and relief under the Young plan is Germany's only recourse.

In some quarters the belief was expressed that the Franco-American conversations have only begun and that some way may be found to rescue credits frozen in Germany by some new form of economic relief.

LAWS OF MEXICO FORCING CHINESE OUT OF COUNTRY

By A. E. Harris
NOGALES, ARIZ.—(AP) Uncertain paths of two great streams of people closely related by economic conditions but divided by the barriers of nationality have crossed at this international border city.

One is made up of Chinese fleeing Mexico because of federal mandate and the other of Mexicans repatriating from southern California.

Both movements are linked together. Legislatures of many northern Mexican states passed laws prohibiting Chinese from conducting business after repatriating. Mexicans returned to find choice valley lands occupied by Orientals and village shops guided by celestial hands.

Hegira Unsolved
The Mexican hegira remains unsolved, but a combination of economic conditions, love for home lands and discrimination against them has been suggested.

Behind both movements there lies the despair of peoples torn suddenly from their homes in lands of their adoption. Officials estimated 60,000 Mexicans have left southern California since January, many of whom have died by the wayside as they crossed rugged mountain ranges and waterless deserts.

Suffer Hardships
Similar stories of hardships and despair have come out of the remote Mexican valleys as Chinese, fearing for their lives after the mandate against them, dropped their tools and fled for the border where new perils awaited them.

Hundreds of farms are idle. Crops have withered and died. Mercantile establishments, cafes, brokerage houses—all operated by Chinese prior to the mandate—have been abandoned.

Mexicans have refused to purchase the properties at half their value. O. K. Wong, Chinese vice consul, said, as he placed the loss in Sonora at $10,000,000.

Fleeing Chinese accused Mexican immigration authorities of charging them prohibitive prices for permits to cross the border, although official denials have been issued.

Unlike Mexicans who sought to return to Mexico in ancient automobiles, broken wagons and skeleton-like horses, wealthy Chinese posted their $500 bond with United States immigration authorities for their safe transportation to San Francisco and thence by ship to the Orient.

But the poorer Chinese, like Mexican peons who died from hunger and thirst when their ancient automobiles broke down under a blazing desert sun, have fled border jails.

Free booklets of "by air mail" labels are being issued by the British postoffice in a campaign to increase the use of air mail service.

MORE RAIN COMING WEATHER FORECAST

PORTLAND, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Increasing cloudiness today and continued rain tomorrow was forecast by the weather bureau here today. Slightly higher temperatures were expected in the western part of the state.

The storm brought more than a half inch of rain to Oregon City. Portland got .33, Albany .28, Salem .20, and Medford and Roseburg .22 of an inch.

A North Carolina master farmer obtained a yield of 43 bushels an acre from 60 acres of wheat.

JENKINS' COMMENT

who wanted your product, and you would have to take what he offered, unless some buyer would offer more.

That, as you can readily see, would mean a buyers' market nearly all the time.

There are abuses in the system of speculative trading on the exchanges, of course, and these abuses frequently bear down on the producer. But in the long run the system probably results in much better markets for the producer than if each producer had to wait before he could make a sale until he found someone who wanted his product for actual consumption.

All that said, the fact that in a couple of weeks a third of a billion dollars has been added to the value
