Ninety Guests Hear Program at Social Affair of Rebekahs

A large number of members of the Rebekah order held a social meeting in the I.O.O.F. hall Monday evening. After an interesting business meeting the following program was given:

Orchestra selections, Roger Westfield, Nelson Flory, Arant Visuche, Allen and Louis Rogers. Reading, Mary Roseberry. Negro play, Mrs. Kingsley and Mrs. Garrett.

Arizona Wranglers, Christine Fearson, Geneva Mills, Evelyn Mills, Agatha Buchanan, Doris Rose, Lucile Shirley.

After the program Mrs. Ethyl Weed and committee served refreshments to 90 guests.

The tables were decorated with spring flowers and green candles. Entertainment is being planned for each month by the officers of the lodge.

At the next meeting delegates will be elected to attend the assembly to be held in May in Eugene.

Lutheran Ladies Aid Has Meeting The English Lutheran Ladies' Aid society met in the church parlors, Thursday, March 24, with fifty-one present.

This meeting closed the contest that has been on since January 28. During that period 17 new members were received, making a total of forty members in the society.

After the business meeting delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. A short program led by Mrs. Kabele followed.

Golden Link Club Meets With Mrs. Cope The Golden Link Club met in business session at the home of Mrs. H. F. Cope, 24 Quince street, Thursday. Nineteen members were present.

Mrs. M. L. Daily presented the Bible lesson on "Precious Promises in the Bible." After the business, a social hour was enjoyed, during which several interesting games were played.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. H. Eaton and Mrs. N. A. Mead.

Friends Plan Farewell Party for Roberts Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Roberts will be feted by a group of friends this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Fisk on Griffin Creek.

Bible Class Elects Officers for Year At Spring Luncheon

The Women's Bible class of the Presbyterian church met Tuesday for annual luncheon and election of officers. The following members were chosen to head the class for the coming year: Mrs. McCollum, president; Mrs. Phipps, vice-president; Mrs. Oliver, secretary; Mrs. Morrow, associate secretary; Miss Detweiler, treasurer.

Covers were arranged for 50 at the luncheon table and the dining room converted into a spring garden through a lavish display of blossoms. Wild flowers in shades of yellow, pink and orchid, were much in evidence. Small tables with individual color schemes were arranged about a center motif, consisting of a large basket filled with fruit blossoms and forsythia and draped with garlands of honeysuckle. Tapers in harmonizing colors completed the decorations.

A short business session and program was held in the class room with Mrs. McCollum opening the meeting with devotional taken from the 12th chapter of Romans. Mrs. Fischer entertained with a solo, "Nailed to the Cross," which was much enjoyed.

The luncheon committee for the affair was composed of Mesdames Ganett, McMath, Wright, Loomis and Davis. Decorations were in charge of Mrs. Phipps, Mrs. Dodge, Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Remington.

Anyone interested in Bible study is invited to meet with this class every Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock. Mrs. E. K. Warner is the teacher, but Easter Sunday Mrs. Iversen will bring the class a special message, concerning the meaning of Easter to Christian people.

Local Unit Women's Oregon Association Discusses Products

The Medford unit of the Women's Greater Oregon association met in the Medford Hotel Tuesday afternoon. A membership of twenty thousand members throughout the state was reported.

The association is but twenty months old. D. O. Frederick of Slinger's Dairy was the principal speaker and gave some very interesting facts concerning this southern Oregon industry.

He explained the great benefits of the dairy industry in southern Oregon where 23c a pound is paid the farmer for his cream. He explained why local butter put up in sanitary tins is better than the imported butter which is simply wrapped.

Sixty thousand pounds of this cheery butter is sold in Medford monthly, while about one hundred thousand pounds is shipped to other points by local dealers. The valley can support more cows which would mean larger checks to the farmer and made here were used instead of butter from other sections, then every one in the Rogue River valley would be benefited.

The meeting adjourned to meet again in two weeks when another speaker will be present to explain another local product. A larger enrollment and attendance is desired.

P. E. O. Chapter Has Meeting Mrs. L. E. Williams was hostess Wednesday afternoon to members of the local chapter of P. E. O. sisterhood. The business session was followed by tea.

Granger Kenly, Easter Guest in South Granger Kenly, young son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Corning Kenly, is spending Easter in the south as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Hill at Ross, Calif.

Guests of Heckman's Return to Pennsylvania Mr. and Mrs. D. McBride of Greensboro, Pa., who were guests for the past two weeks of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Heckman, left Friday night for their home.

D.A.R. Notes The National Society of D. A. R. was organized in 1890 by eighteen members and the last available report gives the present membership as 172,947 distributed practically throughout the world in 2440 chapters.

The work is divided into committee work, well organized with national, divisional, state and local chapter committees.

Crater Lake chapter, organized in 1919, has a membership of sixty-three active members and with chapter chairman carrying on the work of each national committee, and at the recent state conference the work of this chapter was outstanding and received very encouraging endorsement from all state officers.

The primary purpose of the Better Film committee of which Mrs. R. J. Earl is local chairman, has been to encourage the production and showing of the best films.

The conservation and thrift committee work, well organized with national, divisional, state and local chapter committees.

Mrs. Effert Arrives for Easter Holiday Mrs. Rose Effert arrived yesterday from Portland to spend Easter with her daughters, Mrs. Edna Effert and Mrs. E. H. Eldredge. She will be in Medford several days before returning north.

April Fool Dance Announced by Lodge The Pochontas Lodge will give an April fool costume dance in the lodge hall Friday evening, April 1, with members and friends. A prize will be awarded the wearer of the most comic costume.

Home Plate Returns To Sacramento Today Home Plate is returning today to resume his work at Sacramento Junior college after spending the spring holidays with his parents and friends.

Activities of Legion Auxiliary

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will not be held Monday evening, as the Easter Monday ball is scheduled for that date. However, the Auxiliary is invited by the Legion to attend the program, which is to be held at 8 o'clock preceding the regular business meeting, after which it is hoped that everyone will go to the Oriental Gardens to attend one of the liveliest dances of the season, the Easter Monday ball.

An address of special interest to all Auxiliary members was given last Sunday evening by Mrs. W. A. Holloway on the subject, "The American Legion Auxiliary, How It Benefits a Community." The speech, in part, reads:

"One of the main objectives of the American Legion Auxiliary is community service. I do not wish to boast of the things we have done—as they seem so small in the face of so many greater needs before us—but only so that you may realize that we are cognizant of needs and are striving, as best we can, to meet them."

"We gave $5 to the room for crippled children at the Washington school; "Gave money and sponsored a Girl Scout troop; "Donated to the community chest; "Gave money to the library for the Girl Scout book shelf."

"We aided in the drive to put over the Muncie plan for unemployment, and it was with no little pride that on February 22 we witnessed the unveiling of a beautiful plaque, 'The Spirit of 1917,' our gift to the new high school."

"That same 'spirit' portrayed not only by the patriots of '76 or '17, but that has been evinced by patriots or good citizens during every crisis of our country, is needed NOW—as greatly as it has ever been needed. There are forces that call for greater courage than war—if left to run rampant can only mean destruction."

"One of these great forces is hunger. Can you realize that, approximately 600 heads of families in Medford (unemployment is at its peak now) are jobless and in desperate need of at least one week of employment immediately?"

"It is time for us to share if need be what we have. We should help men to help in home and office, whenever possible, even though we ourselves could do the. These unemployed are not asking for charity."

What the Girl Scouts Are Doing By MRS. J. D. WILLSON Back home again—and how glad I am to be here again among the Medford Girl Scouts. My trip down south was most pleasant for I was able to meet Miss Gladys Schrotka once more, and also Mrs. Edey, the national president of Girl Scouts. Mrs. Edey is a very charming and interesting person of many talents. As an additional reminder of this I brought back with me an autographed copy of her book of poems "Butter Money," and I know you'll all enjoy reading it.

I know the thing uppermost in your minds is concerning the next court of awards, isn't it? Well, plans have shifted and changed around, trying to keep up with the weather, and since we want this court to be an out-of-door affair, with maybe eats 'n' everything, probably April 9, will be the date. How would you like a campfire court?

Junior Hi Troop No. 4 are planning for a candy sale this next Saturday under the direction of their captain, Miss Margaret Kerr. They are hoping for enough from the proceeds to assist in welfare work in supplying milk to needy families.

We are sorry to lose Miss Marion Van Scoyoc, who has been a most efficient captain of the Roosevelt troop, but we know she will return to her university work this term. Misses Vera Humphrey and Leda O'Neal will continue with the troop.

JIM ALLEN GETS WRITEUP IN BIG CITY NEWSPAPER

The following article regarding A. C. ("Jim") Allen of Medford appears in a recent issue of the Oregon Journal in the feature column "Oregon Folks": Albert C. Allen Jr. is county fruit inspector in Jackson county. "I was born near Medford on March 20, 1906," said Mr. Allen. "I attended grammar school at Medford for three years and attended high school for four years, after which I put in a fifth year in high school to do a little extra work. Though my name is Albert C. Allen, I have always been called Jim. My friends consider me a crank along the lines of conversation, for I hate to see waste of any sort and it absolutely hurts me to see the needless destruction of our natural resources, for man, in spite of all his ingenuity, cannot replace nature. My father, Albert Cooper Allen, is the author of a number of books and of numerous stories. My father was born in Nashville, Tenn., in 1875, served in the Spanish-American war and came to Oregon in the spring of 1904. Like my father, I enjoy writing. I write under the name of James Albert Allen. You may have noticed some of my short stories in the national magazines. Right now and for as long as I can remember, my hobby has been gasoline engines. I not only enjoy driving a car, but I like to care for one. I have a yen for motorboats, but I lack the wherewithal to acquire a racing motorboat. I enjoy the thrill of hearing the roar of a powerful engine, but my interest in airplanes is confined to their motive power. I am having too much fun on the ground to go up into the air just yet. For years I played basketball in the high school. The out-of-door life is not a hobby with me—it's my regular job. I never held down a steady position at the Rocky Point resort in Klamath county. I was paid $35 a month and tip.

"On July 10, 1929, I was married to Eva Mae Jester at Harriman Lodge, on Klamath lake. We have named our son Albert C. Allen III."

BODIES OF PAIR REMAIN IN SNOW Prospects of locating, before May 1, the bodies of Edwin C. Brown and wife, believed to have lost their lives in a blizzard that raged over the Dead Indian area January 11, are considered small by neighbors of the unfortunate pair. Thawing of the snow and ice in the district where the Browns are thought to have perished, has been slow and from the bottom, and it is given as a probability that the story of their fate will not be known until early in the summer. Cursory searches in the past ten days have failed to reveal any traces.

Brown and his wife, homesteaders, were visitors at the cabin of A. H. Cooley and attempted to reach their own place in the teeth of a raging storm. That was the last seen of them. Kin of the missing pair live in Palo Alto, Cal., and in Montana.

New Krispy Cracker Delivery

To meet the increasing demand in southern Oregon for Sunshine biscuits and to facilitate the service to dealers featuring this well known product, H. R. Prentice, Medford representative for the Loose-Wiles Biscuit company, is driving a smart new Mr. Prentice standing beside his Sunshine delivery car and lower view showed the generous capacity of the attractive truck.

With his swift delivery car Mr. Prentice is able to offer improved service to grocers in this territory who serve the southern Oregon trade with delicious Sunshine "Krispy" crackers, fresh from the thousand window bakeries of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit company.

First Hotel in Medford at Riverside and Main (Ed. Note: Medford history compiled by members of Crater Lake Ter. D. A. R., continued from last Sunday.)

CHAPTER 5. The first hotel was the Torrey House, on the corner of Riverside and Seventh street, where Hubbard Bros. store is now located. It was run by John Praxler, but within a very short time it was remodeled into a saloon called the Roxy an saloon. The next hotel to be opened was the Cunningham hotel, built on the present site of the Jackson County bank.

The first brick building to be built in Medford was a one-story building of two rooms, built where the Nash hotel now stands. It was commenced May 4, 1884, and the corner room was rented at once to Bill Kinney and Ham Walters for a saloon. The south room was used as a public hall for meetings and dances. This corner was later built up into a hotel and destined to become one of the social centers of the community, and a landmark for many years to come.

In 1892, when M. Purdin and Harris leased it, it was known as the Grand Central hotel, and under different management the hotel changed its name often, being known as the Ridge House, the Grand and Medford hotels. In 1895, Capt. Nash bought the property, remodeled it and since then it has always been known as "The Nash."

The Western hotel, on the present Jackson County bank site, with the name changed later to Commercial and Glendon hotel, opposite the present location of Weeks' furniture store, were other well known hotels. The present Medford hotel was built in 1911, and the Sacred Heart hospital the same year. The Holland hotel was built in 1912, and the Jackson hotel in 1927.

In August, 1886, fire equipment was ordered and it is interesting to note that this equipment consisted of three dozen pails, two good ladders and two hooks and 200 feet of manila rope. In 1890 the Protection Hose Co. No. 1 was organized with G. L. Webb, president, and February 5, 1893, company No. 2 was organized with H. N. Butler, president. Equipment was kept in various convenient places until in 1903 a hose house with fire bell was erected on Sixth street. In 1908 the fire hall, corner Sixth and Front streets, was built a team and wagon purchased, and Amann installed as fire chief. In 1930, the new fire hall was built on the corner of Fourth and Front streets. Late in 1901, an ordinance was passed dividing the city into three wards, this division being the same as it is today.

A. A. Davis came to Medford in 1889 and built the first and only flouring mill. This was on South Front street, and was burned only a few years ago.

The first Sunday school was held in the little schoolhouse on South Central. Afterwards it was held in different halls, one on Front street, one about where Strang's store is now, and the last place was in Howard's hall, the present location of the First National bank. Mr. Williamson was the first Sunday school superintendent and George Webb the second and last, for this was a union Sunday school, and as the different church denominations were organized, each formed its own Sunday school.

Before any church denomination was organized, Father Williams, a Presbyterian missionary, and Father Peterson, a Christian minister, held church services here on alternate Sundays, in a public hall, October 31, 1857. Rev. M. A. Williams came to Jacksonville. He had been a missionary in South America and at the time of his arrival in southern Oregon until his death, he gave 41 years of service as a home missionary.

March 29, 1885, he was organized, under the direction of the Presbytery of southern Oregon, the First Presbyterian church of Medford. The charter members were Dr. E. P. Geary and wife, Sarah L. Williams, Walter S. Gore, Mrs. C. A. Gore, Mrs. Lizzie Johnson, Peter Simons and wife and Dr. Martin Vroman. Of these, Walter Gore, who was also the first white child born in Jacksonville, is now the only member of this church left of the original charter members.

COLLEGE BAND IN CONCERT PLEASURES AUDIENCE AT HIGH

(By Irva Fewell) Opening the concert with a stirring march, "Spirit of Oregon State," by Thos. Stevenson, the R.O.T.C. band of Oregon State college presented a pleasing group of numbers before a large crowd in the senior high school auditorium Friday evening.

Grand selection from Wagner's "Tannhauser," was played with wonderful tone quality and was well interpreted. Gordon Finlay played the trumpet solo, "Polka Brillante Le Secret," by Hozel and his perfect time with the increasing movement of the number was remarkable.

Going from Dreda's "Serenade" into "Yankee Doodle" by Alfred the group, under the direction of H. L. Beard, played "Dance of the Serpents," a descriptive composition by Boccalari. A Humoresque number arranged by Conductor Beard, was greatly applauded.

"The Stars and Stripes Forever," given as an encore number, was repeated after thunderous acclamation. With the accompaniment from behind stage, Alvin Davidson sang the tenor solo, "Give Me the Open Road," by Ambrose, followed by "One Alone" from the Desert Song.

A feature congregation for saxophones was played by Clarence Bates, Dale Cowen, Holbrook Galloway and Leonard Hayssen. The quartet returned to present "Dina" as an encore.

F. Wilson Wait, director of the Medford high school band conducted the college band and the high school group when they played the march "The Western World," by Price.

At the conclusion of the concert, moving pictures of college life were shown.

The group played for a concert and dance in Klamath Falls last evening, and today will give a concert of sacred music in the same city.

The personnel of the band was: Eb clarinet, G. C. Bates, Dale Cowen, Holbrook Galloway, Glen Simkins, Robert Sanders, George Cottrell, Clinton Kelley, Gilbert Bidder, George Pope and Hollis Dole; horn, clarinet, Bryce Allingham; Eb clarinet, Martin Cooney.

Piccolos, Wallace Ayers, Tom Dodge; oboe, Lewis Wallen; bassoon, Raymond Carl; saxophones, Leonard Hayssen, C. M. Hill, T. G. Britton; trumpets, Rowland Rose, Gordon Finlay, Byron Miller, David Longtin, Max Rohrbaugh, George A. Day, horns, Cyril Bots and Harold Hulse, Bruce Trombones, Wesley Hulse, Bruce

FLOOD DUTY FOR MEDFORD AIRMAN

When the flood was at its height in Eugene last week, Harold Sander, chief pilot for the Hobi airways, was kept busy making twelve trips during the day.

Early in the morning a trip was made to take a man above the Springfield section to see if his relatives were safe. Two were made to help a bakery, and fire journeys were made for the Red Cross.

Sander made one trip to deliver papers for the Eugene Register-Guard and another flight took him above the Leaburg power dam. Before the day's work was completed, he also made three trips for passengers to view the flooded area.

Harold Sander is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sander of Medford, and formerly made his home in this city.

CORONER CONGER CANDIDATE AGAIN

H. W. Conger, incumbent, filed today for the Republican nomination for county coroner. He will be opposed in the race for the nomination by Frank Peri, local mortician, who filed a short time ago.

Mr. Conger announced this morning that he would adopt no slogan for his campaign but point to his past record in office to invite the vote of the Republican ranks.
