

CALLISON CHOICE SUCCEED SPEARS UNOFFICIAL WORD

Job 'In Bag' For Former Medford Mentor—Higher Approval Necessary—Formal Action Monday.

EUGENE, Ore., April 2.—(AP)—The selection of a head football coach at University of Oregon, to succeed Dr. Clarence W. Spears, resigned, will be made Monday, it was announced today by Hugh Rosson, graduate manager, and Brian Minnaugh, president of the Associated Students.

While neither would comment upon the probable choice of the executive committee of which both are members, it was understood from those close to the committee that Prince G. Callison, freshman coach, will be selected.

The recommendation of the committee must be approved by Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the university, and by the state board of higher education.

Spears resigned to become head coach at University of Wisconsin. His contract here still had three years to run. Spears was receiving $11,500 a year, but part of this was for his work in the physical education department and as physician. His successor, it is agreed, will be paid a substantially smaller salary.

Medford yesterday hailed with joy the announcement that P. G. (Frank) Callison, former high school coach here, its most popular idol, had a strong chance to be named head football coach at the University of Oregon.

Old grads yesterday expressed the opinion that Callison, "if the campus politicians don't get too strong," would bring new football glory to Oregon, with his genius for coaching, aided by long experience.

Press dispatches stated that Callison's main contender was William Reinhart, also known here. Reinhart had the edge until he retired. Reinhart was backed by "long experience and tradition." Reinhart once refereed a football game in this section and is well known here.

LENHART UPSETS DOPE ON SEKYRA

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—(AP)—Fred Lenhart, a virtually unknown heavyweight from Tacoma, Wash., basked in the limelight today as a result of a stunning 10-round victory here Friday night over Joe Sekyra, blonde Bobemian of Dayton, Ohio, and one of the high ranking members of the profession.

Tough, strong and a stiff puncher, the squatly Tacoma bailed Sekyra all over the ring to win eight of the rounds handily. Sekyra's record and reputation as a wily ringster meant nothing to Lenhart, who settled down to business with the opening round and proceeded to whack his rival's face and body with husky wallop that earned him the referee's decision without question.

FIELDS STOPS BAKER IN NON-TITLE BOUT

BOSTON, Mass., April 2.—(P)—Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, scored a technical knockout over Leslie Baker of Watertown, in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round bout Friday night and at the same time overcame the "jinx" that has pursued him in Boston for three years.

It was a non-title bout with Fields at 140½ and Baker at 151.

KID BERG GETS DRAW WITH SAMMY FULLER

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP)—Far from being "all washed up," Jack (Kid) Berg of England still must be reckoned with in any discussion over leading contenders for Tony Cannonieri's lightweight championship.

DOC SPEARS UNMOURNED IN UNIVERSITY CIRCLES

An interesting insight on the resignation of Coach Spears at Oregon university is given in the following Eugene Register-Guard editorial:

The Great Spears Myth Comment on the Portland papers on the Spears episode reveals a certain lack of understanding of the situation. It is true the state board's constant tinkering with the system of higher education has been a disturbing influence, seeming to threaten the chance for any coach to make a good record here.

For a time Dr. Spears had the entire sympathy and support of everybody in these parts. Graduates and friends of the university literally went down the line for Spears. They found that Governor Meier was entirely friendly to athletics in all the schools. They found that very few members of the board had any thought of wrecking the traditions or customs of the schools. From every part of the state Dr. Spears received assurances that he would have whole-hearted support in the program he was supposed to be building here.

When Dr. Spears again entered into negotiations with Wisconsin he took upon himself the major responsibility for the break. He wanted to leave. People here who had tried to look tolerantly upon his constant complaining as the peculiarity of a genius began to realize that the man had never felt any real obligation under his contract with Oregon. It was "Me Meier" with Spears, even to the extent of abandoning dozens of young men who had staked their college courses on his training. People who had viewed his shopping around for other jobs as a nervous eccentricity were forced to admit they had been too tolerant.

There is no mourning for Dr. Spears in these parts. Spears is still admired as a great football trainer and strategist, but the myth of Spears, the inspiring leader of young men, is gone. There is no desire to hold him here against his will. Oregon can do a better job of character-building without him. Wisconsin's practical tactics are not appreciated but Wisconsin is welcome to the general doctor.

There is, however, an issue that ought to be settled for the good of a great collegiate sport. Dr. Spears, with his flair for personal publicity, has left the impression that his exit is a generous effort to save the university from embarrassment with the state board. This implication is essential. The contract of Dr. Spears was with the Associated Students. It was not in any way affected by curtailment programs. There never was any move to cut Dr. Spears' pay or support. It is only necessary to point to the McEwan case to prove that the Associated Students fulfill their part of any contract to the last letter. Dr. Spears' glib statement is only a thin veil for his attitude that a contract is a one-way scrap of paper for the protection of a coach only.

If Dr. Spears escapes legal action to enjoy his services at Wisconsin or heavy damage actions. It will be only because such a course is held unworthy of the sport of the university. After all the great damage is not to the University of Oregon but to the ideals of honor in intercollegiate affairs and to the tradition of sport as a character builder.

If the Intercollegiate Coaching association has any idea of establishing coaching on a really professional basis it will not ignore the flagrant conduct of a man supposed to be one of the nation's outstanding leaders. If the Intercollegiate Athletic associations have any real moral force they will not pass lightly over the University of Wisconsin's brazen disregard of the first principles of ethics in sport or business.

If the Intercollegiate sport is to survive the rising storm of protest it must purge itself of practices which are only one cut above "black-esteering."

MCKECHNIE LOOKS FOR ADDED POWER FROM NEWCOMERS

Braves Manager Says Team Better Than Last Year—Shires Expected To Add Strength At First Base.

By Bill McKechnie, (Manager, Boston Braves.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—I am very hopeful for much better things for the Braves during the coming season. For one thing, I have room for hope. But seriously, I honestly believe I have a better club than last year.

Art Shires, I have every confidence, will strengthen us at first base. He has learned his lesson. I am certain. Everybody knows he has plenty of natural ability, particularly as a hitter, and hitting is our greatest need.

Shires Not Sole Stranger However, Shires is not the only newcomer from whom we expect added infield strength during 1932. At third base I feel I have every right to look for help from Fritz Knothe.

Knothe last year with Seattle made the all-star Pacific Coast league team. He is a fine, fast fielder and a good hitter, and he comes to us with a lot of experience.

Bill Akers, obtained from Kansas City, will get the call at second base. He is a colorful player with high promise.

Younger Infield. These plans, of course, mean that we will have a new infield of young players—always a gamble. However, we have Rabbit Maranville, a wise veteran of years of experience, to add balance, and we feel that the infield gamble must be taken.

Oscar Eckhardt, purchased by the Braves from the San Francisco Mission, shows rare promise. In the Coast league last season he hit .365 and he is one of the fastest men in baseball.

Betts Good Bet. I understand there was some merriment when we drafted "Huck" Betts from St. Paul. But I predict there won't be any laughing when he is seen performing for us next summer. He has uncanny control and the fact that he has got something was demonstrated when he starred in the American association in 1931 and also in the "little world series."

German Cueist Is Champ Again

Mrs. Hoyt Seeks 'Waiver' on Hubby In Reno Courts

RENO, Nev., April 2.—(AP)—The name of Waive C. Hoyt, noted baseball pitcher, appeared on the register of divorce actions here today as a result of a suit filed yesterday by Mrs. Dorothy P. Hoyt.

The former New York Yankee pitching star was charged with cruelty in the divorce complaint. The couple have been separated for more than a year. Their marriage followed a school-days romance.

Attorneys for both said the case will be heard today or Monday, and will not be contested by Hoyt.

MAUREEN'S NERVE WINS GOLF TITLE IN TIGHT MATCH

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2.—(AP)—Sinking putts of more than 20 feet to win the seventeenth and eighteenth holes, Maureen Ocutt, Englewood, N. J., star, overcame a one-hole deficit to defeat Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City, today for the North and South championship. Her one-up victory brought her the crown for the second successive year.

Down from the start, Miss Ocutt forced the play with a chance-taking game all the way. Although she kept the match squared often, she was never ahead until the final hole. Mrs. Hill's uncanny ability to sink long putts enabled her to win several holes which it appeared Miss Ocutt would capture.

To overcome her putting jinx which finally left her on the last hole, Miss Ocutt gambled frequently on long second shots, playing them over traps to the greens.

SPRING TOURNEY AT GOLF LINKS

The annual spring handicap tournament got under way at the Rogue Valley golf links Saturday and will continue for four weeks with one round of 18 holes to be played each week. The H. D. McCaskey trophy is at stake in the tourney with lowest net score after deduction of handicap to carry away the honor.

A point-par tourney is also in progress over the week-end, the players scoring points on all holes negotiated in par or under and losing points for holes over par.

RADICAL CHANGES FOR GAGE RULES EYED BY COACHES

CHICAGO, April 2.—(AP)—Members of the National Association of Basketball Coaches today had for consideration a list of more or less radical suggestions for changes in rules at the final session of their annual meeting.

Along with a proposal to establish uniform interpretation of the rules, six important suggestions for revisions were up for discussion and decision. All the proposed changes centered about an attempt to speed the game up and eliminate stalling. They were:

1.—To limit the dribble in back court to one bounce.

2.—Empower the referee to penalize a team which fails to advance in an attempt to break up stalling by an opponent.

3.—Make all foul shots at the end of the half and the end of the game. Also to "cancel" foul shots and permit the team having a balance to shoot.

4.—Limit the time a player may remain on the ball after taking it off the backboard, before advancing past the middle of the floor.

5.—Call a "jump ball" after a player has held the ball five seconds, regardless of whether he is closely guarded.

6.—Eliminate the tipoff, putting the ball in play from out of bounds.
