OLD WEDDING RING OF SOLID GOLD FOUND IN SHANGLE PHOTO STUDIO

No reflection of the romance it culminated, no stories of the life it has led—are revealed today in the polished surfaces of the gold wedding band, found a short time ago by J. Verne Shangle, local photographer, in his studio in the Medford Center building. But the initials within its unmarred edges, he feels, will lead to the discovery of its owner, so he is searching his files for the name.

Tests made of the ring by Leland Brophy, local jeweler, showed it composed of solid gold, believed to be virgin and to date back to the early mining days at Jacksonville. No inquiries have been received by Mr. Shangle regarding a lost ring since the wedding band was found.

responsibilities—lucky devils, weren't they?

WHEN the wanderlust seethes in your blood, when the far places call, when the itch is in your feet and the yearning to be where you are not will not be denied, but when stern necessity limits your horizons by denying you either the cash or the time—or both—with which to wander into the far distances, get out and see your own state of Oregon, or at least a part of it.

You will find it a fascinating place.

Do Your FEET DRAG?

Do Your NERVES CRY OUT?

Does Your STOMACH REBEL?

Do You LIE AWAKE NIGHTS?

SELECT ENGINEER TO MAKE SURVEY MEDFORD SEWAGE

council to order two barns, built flush on Nantico street be done away with, was granted. The complaints asserted that these barns were noxious, unsightly and a detriment to that part of the city.

The petition related that both barns were built years ago in defiance of a city ordinance.

The council voted to do away with the T. L. Colwell barn by declaring it a fire menace which must be removed, and to begin condemnation proceedings against the W. J. Predenburg lot and barn.

Some minor ordinances relating to individual property matters, and other business of minor nature was also considered by the council.

Chamber Report Adopted. Following is the report of the Chamber of Commerce special committee acting in conjunction with the city council health committee in recommending a course of action to be followed by the city in the solution of its sewage problem, after holding a series of meetings in discussion of the problem, which was approved by President O. O. Alexander, president of the chamber, and adopted unanimously by the city council last night:

"It is the opinion of your committee that the city of Medford should prepare immediately to employ a sanitary engineer for the purpose of making a complete survey of the sanitation system of Medford, and the problem of sewage disposal as well as that of sewage collection and disposition. The engineer employed should make complete recommendations to the city for a long-time program of sanitation for the city of Medford, including recommendations for the type of disposal plant to be used and cost estimates for its construction. The committee believes that on the basis of a complete sanitation program for this city, the people of Medford can be educated to the point where they will authorize the financing necessary for the solution of this problem.

"Your committee sent letters to a number of sanitary engineers, inviting proposals on this matter, and by correspondence and by personal interviews, contacts were made with the following sanitary engineers: W. J. Roberts, Tacoma; P. S. Currie Engineering Co., San Bernardino; L. R. Stockman, Baker; Pearce, Greeley and Hansen, Chicago; C. C. Hockley, Portland; Harry N. Jenks, Berkeley; Lee R. Cook, Eugene; Burns, McDonald and Smith of Los Angeles and Kansas City; Stevens and Koon, Portland.

"From this list of sanitary engineers, the committee recommends that Mr. Samuel A. Greeley of the firm of Pearce, Greeley and Hansen of Chicago, be employed by the city of Medford to make the above-mentioned survey, in accordance with his proposal submitted on March 9, 1932, the original of which is attached to this report.

"There is no doubt in the minds of this committee but that the firm of Pearce, Greeley and Hansen are eminently qualified to accomplish the program laid down by his committee. They have had extensive experience in the installation and operation of many sewage disposal plants, and their reputation as consulting engineers is beyond reproach.

"The committee wishes to express its gratitude to the members of the city health committee and to the city engineer, Fred Scheffel, for their valuable service in formulating this program.

"It is our recommendation that the report be adopted by the board of directors, and submitted with the endorsement of the chamber to the city council for final action, and that this committee be discharged.

"Very truly yours,
"SEWAGE DISPOSAL COMMITTEE.

Loretta Young in Holly Film

Fresh from her triumph in "The Hatchet Man," Loretta Young is now appearing at the Holly theater in "Play Girl." She is featured with Winnie Lightner in the story of a girl who tried anything once—even marriage. The excellent short subject program is headed by a baseball reel featuring Babe Ruth, entitled "Perfect Control." Also in the bill is the April Horoscope, a McNamee news reel and a clever comedy, "Shake a Leg," featuring Thelma White and Fanny Watson.

Joan Blondell Has Part In Comedy At Craterian Theatre

(By Jack Retlaw.) Most everyone today is familiar with the famed Three Musketeers and their extraordinary exploits of history. How may, however, are familiar with the Three Musketeers of feminine land, whose exploits pale even the original trio's adventures into insignificance?

We refer, of course, to that trio of blonde "gals"—Joan Blondell, Ina Claire and Madge Evans, who enact the screen roles in that rip-roaring picture, "The Greeks Have a Word for Them," showing today and tomorrow at the Fox Craterian theater.

The title of "Three Musketeers" for three girls, however, is rather a misnomer. Rather, it should be the "Three-Must-Get-Thems!" And how! These golden tressed maidens start out in life as working girls and end up working men. What they don't do to millionaires and their "rolls" is nobody's business. In the end, however, they manage to "get ahead"—and what battles they do put up for the do-ry-me!

"The Greeks Have a Word for Them" was produced strictly for laughing purposes—and surely achieves its aim. Rear after rear follows as the girls adventure here and there among the Wall Street play-boys.

A clever added hit on this program is the Al St. John comedy, "All Sealed Up." It's a scream from beginning to end.

LIONS OVERFLOW WITH OPTIMISM AT LUNCH MEET

Optimism reigned today at the luncheon of the Lions club at Hotel Holland, from the opening song to the leading address given by C. T. Baker, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who assured the Lions that the year 1932 is going to bring increased business if each man will put his shoulder to the wheel.

Signs of a good year crop, hope of raising necessary funds for launching it, prospects for increased travel in the Pacific northwest, and opening of new industries here, were listed by Mr. Baker as justification for his stand.

In voicing an intelligent farewell to the year 1931 and the need for an optimistic attitude on the part of all American citizens, he referred to an article by the editor of Nation's Business and a recent editorial by Robert W. Ruhl in the Medford Mail Tribune.

Plans for organizing an agricultural credit corporation here were explained by Mr. Baker, who informed the Lions that negotiations are now underway to obtain from the Southern Pacific a loan of $25,000, necessary to form the corporation through which the $250,000 necessary to insure production of the local fruit crop can be borrowed.

The Olympic games and numerous conventions to be staged on the Pacific coast this summer will bring many travelers through Oregon, and Jackson county along, with other regions is prepared to acquaint these travelers with the resources, scenic wonders and ideal living conditions offered here, Mr. Baker stated.

The opening of the Huber packing plant, expected within the next few weeks, Mr. Baker listed as one of the outstanding business events scheduled for the year.

The musical entertainment for today was furnished by Miss LaMure Beck, soloist, and her instructor, Mrs. Roberts Ward Bebb, who accompanied her at the piano. Both numbers, a vocal solo and musical reading, were enthusiastically received by the Lions.

Walter Abbey, who is opening the Nash agency in this city, and Dr. C. I. Drummond, new county physician, were elected to membership by the Lions at today's session and a meeting of the board of directors announced for tomorrow noon.

It will be at least a month yet before Mr Roberts will have full use of his right arm, and fortunately the injury will leave no permanent effect.
