

SOLINSKY GUEST OF KIWANIS CLUB HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

E. C. Solinsky, Crater Lake National park superintendent, was among the speakers who spoke before a session of the Hot Springs, Ark. Kiwanis club last week when that organization cooperation with the Hot Springs chamber of commerce, acted as host for park superintendents in annual conference in that city.

In part, the Hot Springs New Era, evening newspaper, had the following to say: "While national park service superintendents are not bashful in exploiting the attractiveness and beauty of their respective charges, they are unanimous in their approval of Hot Springs National park and the hospitality of its people."

"This was strikingly demonstrated last night at the meeting of the Kiwanis club when the national park service men and their wives were guests of the organization."

"Voicing the sentiment of their colleagues, Colonel John R. White, of Sequoia National park, E. C. Solinsky of Crater Lake National park and Thomas Boles of Carlsbad Caverns in short addresses were enthusiastic in approval of courtesies extended them during their visit here."

SCIENCE LECTURE THEATER TONIGHT

BUTTER AND EGGS SLOW, UNCHANGED

PORTLAND, April 12.—(AP)—There was little, if any, material change in the market for butter either locally or generally along the coast for the day. Conditions throughout the country appear steady. There is no further change in the butterfat situation.

There remains a very slow trading tone in the egg market although the volume of business is fairly liberal in a retail way. Demand for cooler operation is slow and receivers are forced to store for their own account.

Unchanged prices continue generally in the market for live chickens.

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP)—While selling was not altogether stemmed in today's stock market, pressure relaxed markedly, and the list closed with a steady tone. There was a mixture of narrow net gains and losses. Transfers approximated 1,700,000 shares.

Short covering, prompted by vague rumors of a bullish announcement impending in Washington, caused a temporary upturn early, which was lost when selling developed in the rails. The list recovered again later, however, notably the industrials and utilities.

DEAD INDIAN MEN FIND NEW TRACES BLIZZARD VICTIMS

Searchers for the bodies of Edwin C. Brown and wife, Dead Indian homesteaders, who lost their lives in a blizzard that swept that district January 11th last, in the last three days have found burnt matches and charred magazine pages, indicating that the storm beleaguered couple, realizing they were lost, attempted to start a fire in the howling gale, and failed. The news was brought to this city last night by William Lindsay, a former neighbor of the Browns, and one of the searchers.

Magazines and a letter found, have been identified by Mrs. A. R. Cooley as belonging to Mrs. Brown. Lindsay and aides are making a desperate effort to find the bodies before they become the prey of wild animals. Fresh bear tracks were found near the stump where the Browns attempted to start a fire.

According to Lindsay, Brown carried a compass and was traveling by it, but missed his bearings near his own cabin and proceeded easterly, into heavy timber.—how far is a matter of conjecture. Snowshoe tracks found a week ago showed the Browns at one time were within 100 yards of their own cabin, but could not see it in the raging snowstorm.

The sheriff said that Lindsay told him, no signs had been found indicating the Browns as they struggled on, had fallen into the snow.

Lindsay expresses the fear that the middle-aged pair stumbled into one of the deep canyons, where it will be more difficult to find their bodies.

The snow on the upper reaches of the Dead Indian country has melted to the level it was when the Browns started on their last journey.

"I'm sunk—see this terrible run. Can you lend me a pair?"

"Sorry—I don't carry extras now—"

... since I've learned about ELASTICITY* my stockings simply wear and wear"

"A friend of mine who works for a large stocking company told me how to make my stockings wear."

"Don't wash away the elasticity of the silk," she said—"because then the stocking threads, instead of giving under strain, break. The least little pull, when you bend, stretch or fasten your garters, and you've got a run!"

"I know Lux is made to preserve elasticity. So I've been washing my stockings in Lux and now even my sheerest ones wear!"

*The Lux Way to save the ELASTICITY that makes stockings FIT and WEAR

Wash after EACH wearing. Perspiration left in the stocking or lingerie will actually rot the silk.

Don't rub with cake soap. It destroys the elasticity of the silk, leaving it lifeless, apt to break into runs, irritating. With Lux there's no rubbing.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens and fades silk.

Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Don't use too-warm water—it fades color. With Lux you use lukewarm water. No hot water needed.

Wash this 2-minute way:

1. One teaspoon of Lux diamonds for each pair.
2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze through stockings, rinse.

For dishes, too Many women use Lux in the DISHPAN to give their hands beauty care. Costs only 1¢ a day.
