

OFFICIALS PLAN INTENSIVE HUNT FOR RANCH PAIR

Plans for the further hunt for the bodies of Edwin C. Brown and wife, homesteaders who lost their lives in a blizzard that roared over the Dead Indian area last January, will be made at a meeting this afternoon between Sheriff Ralph Jennings, the county court and Coroner Conger.

Searchers, headed by William Lindsay and William Taylor of the Dead Indian district, have made a thorough survey of the terrain over which the Browns are supposed to have traveled in their efforts to reach their own cabin, without success. The hunt has been under way for three weeks.

Sheriff Jennings conferred with Lindsay and Taylor at Ashland this morning and the two asked that the county give financial aid in the final effort to recover the bodies. They desire that a posse be sent into the rough country to the east of the Brown cabin, under the supervision of the ill-fated pair traveled in that direction. The other routes would have taken them close to ranches and roads.

According to Lindsay and Taylor the snow has melted in the timber and they believe the bodies will be found in some deep drift that remains.

PLACE LIMESTONE ON COURT HOUSE

Work of placing the first layer of Indiana limestone on the exterior of the new county courthouse started this morning. It is expected to take six weeks to complete the work. The Indiana limestone was secured at a "bargain," being approved by the courthouse advisory committee, county court and citizens of the county generally. Work of installing the jail equipment has started and the skyline of the structure is beginning to take shape. The chimney for the "hog fuel" burner has been completed. The interior work is also well under way, and plasterers will soon start.

The forthcoming offer of "sentimental" transportation, scheduled from April 28 to May 1, inclusive, will be of special benefit to May Day excursionists. It was pointed out by A. S. Rosenbaum, district freight and passenger agent for the company.

Persons planning long trips, Rosenbaum said, will have time to complete their journeys within the dates of the low-fare excursions. May 10 has been fixed as the final return limit, according to the announcement.

As before, it was stated, the round trips have been authorized between all points on Southern Pacific's lines in six western states.

GIRLS' GYM CLASS PLEASE AUDIENCE AT HIGH SCHOOL

The first demonstration presented by girls' gymnasium classes in the Medford schools was enjoyed by a large and enthusiastic audience at the high school gymnasium Friday night. Directed by Miss Carin B. Dagermark, supervisor of physical education, the demonstration offered much of beauty, as well as an expression of the high type of training the department is featuring. One hundred girls participated, voluntarily.

The girls' athletic association of Medford is organized for the purpose of stimulating interest among girls in sports and athletic games, and of providing wholesome recreations and social contacts for its members. The demonstration Friday showed what has already been accomplished in view of this aim in the physical education department.

One of the most colorful elements in the evening's program was the garden dance, in which the girls appeared in pastel frocks and hats to dance under lights, shaded by fluttering colors.

The tennis racket drill was also very impressive. 75 girls, clad in white sport tops, appearing in the exhibition. In "Pyramids," black costumes and colored lights were used to achieve an equally pleasing effect.

Other high spots were the Russian dance "Kamarinskala," the demonstration of "Quotients," game recently introduced here by Miss Dagermark, which is proving very popular, and clown stunts by little Sally Lee Russell.

As finale to the program the Southern Oregon Archery club gave a demonstration, shooting a round of 30 arrows each, at a distance of 30 yards.

Other numbers on the demonstration program were: Overture, meditation of popular airs, by Four Aces orchestra.

Grand march by girls in gymnasium costumes.

Scotch dance, Highland fling, games and relays.

Exercises on the balance beam.

Negro clogs, "Liza Jane" and "Plantation."

Volley ball game—Reds vs. Blacks.

Frances Arnsperger was captain of the Reds in the latter event, Mana Hedges, captain of the Blacks; Miss Marjorie Kelly, referee; Catherine Chaney, scorer, and Leona Conger, time keeper.

The Intra-mural Athletic league in the girls' physical education department provides competition for seasonal sports, beginning with speedball in the fall and finishing with baseball in the spring. In this league all girls in the physical education department are given an opportunity to learn the fundamentals of various sports, to gain skill in playing them, and to enjoy competition with the many other

SALMON ANGLERS ENJOY GREAT DAY AT SAVAGE RAPID

Yesterday was a big day for fishermen who cast their lines into the Rogue at Savage Rapids dam. A rainbow bow 14 inches in length leaped into one man's boat and 40 salmon were taken from the river during the day, 13 between 12:30 and 2 o'clock, according to reports brought in last night.

Harry Hansen, well known local sportsman, who has been more successful with the gun than with the rod in the past, landed his first salmon Sunday. It tipped the scales at 20 pounds but is expected to double that weight before the telling of the story is completed today.

One day last week a San Francisco tourist with but one hour to devote to fishing at Savage Rapids felt his first strike before the first 10 minutes had elapsed. With the aid of Rainbow Gibson he landed the fish. He broke his line during the process, however, and got the fish only by a helper grabbing the string as it started to swim back to freedom.

Another story from the fishing haunts tells of an angler tiring of the sport and swimming to the bank, unmindful of the snow water flowing in the Rogue. One woman was being landed trout with ease in numbers, doubling those of her male competitors.

Fishing at Squaw Lake is reported best for trout. The roads are rough but passable, and many limit catches have been brought in from there since the opening of the season.

STORM CONCEALS CRATER'S BEAUTY; NEW SNOW FALLS

Because of the stormy weather prevailing almost all day at Crater national park the 150 persons visiting the park Sunday did not get to see the lake, but greatly enjoyed themselves with the deep snow sights and in playing in the snow.

Following the fall of snow on Friday and Saturday it snowed almost all day in the park Sunday, the total fall amounting to 14 inches, which made the total for the year so far at the park in excess of 58 feet. The year of 1927 at the park saw a total of 58 feet, and about 15 years ago the total was 60 feet.

Late Sunday the snow depth at the park was 14 feet at the rim, 12 feet and four inches at government camp, and eight or nine feet at Anna Springs camp. The snow mass at the park has been settling down fast, especially at the lower levels—the Klamath and Medford entrances.

The park snow plow crew, despite the falling of fresh snow, is keeping the park roads cleared from the Klamath entrance to the rim, and also is working at clearing the Medford entrance between Anna Springs camp and the west entrance.
