

HUMANE WORKERS HONOR MRS. FISKE, ANIMALS' FRIEND

Minnie Maddern Fiske passed away two months ago after a life devoted equally to the stage and the humane field. This week her praises will be sung over the radio, in the theatre, the press and wherever organized gatherings are held. April 18 was Minnie Maddern Fiske Day and April 17 to 23 is kind to animals anniversary.

During that period in the name of every humane society in the United States and in the name of Minnie Maddern Fiske, pleas will be issued for a more kindly consideration of all animals for the ensuing year.

So outstanding were her efforts to alleviate suffering among dumb animals that she was made director of the American Humane association, with which the Jackson County Humane association is affiliated.

Her first notable campaign was in behalf of the cattle of the western ranges. In her travels from coast to coast she saw the range horror at its worst—the carcasses of cattle, sheep and horses mangled beside the railroad tracks or bloated from starvation. She instituted reforms that were effective.

The outcast dog and cat on the street were her concern. She turned them over to local humane societies or found homes for them. Bull fighting was an obsession with her. The mention of a suggested bull fight brought her hurried protest to newspapers, senators and congressmen.

For many years in her later life, Mrs. Fiske was an indefatigable crusader against the use of the steel-jawed trap in the taking of furs. She worked incessantly to abolish the cruelties in trapping wild life. So sincere was she in her belief that unnecessary cruelty was inflicted in the trapping of furs, she wore only imitations when her stage roles called for fur wraps.

TERRIER'S RECOVERY DOUBTFUL, IS REPORT OF HUMANE WORKERS

The Jackson County Humane society realizes from the numerous inquiries made that the animal lovers of Jackson county are very interested in the present condition of Rough, the little terrier who was so seriously burned by sulphuric acid a few days ago.

Rough is still under the skillful care of Dr. Horr at the humane society shelter just north of Medford. Dr. Horr reports that although there is still some doubt as to the little dog's recovery he is doing nicely. His wounds are slowly healing and if his physical health can be maintained his complete recovery is probable. However even the highest degree of medical skill cannot prevent the scars which Rough will always carry on his little back as a result of the burn.

As this is "Be Kind to Animals" week it seems appropriate to caution everyone again to remember that if you or your neighbor has an animal which is an annoyance to you it is wiser to call and ask the Humane society to take care of the animal and adjust the matter than to inflict a thoughtless punishment which is unnecessarily cruel.

ATTEMPT THEFT RECALL PETITIONS

PORTLAND, Ore., April 21.—(AP)—An attempt by a robber to steal a package of petitions demanding the recall of Mayor George I. Baker and City Commissioners John M. Mann and Earl Riley, was reported to police today by officers of the Independent Political league. The petitions, several sheets of which may be missing, the league said, were partly filled in with signatures.

Dr. J. S. Chalebis, occupant of the building, heard the sound of breaking glass and called the janitor. Investigation revealed the front door of the office had been broken and that the rooms had been ransacked.

MOST FURNITURE PER POPULATION PURCHASED HERE

Medford leads Oregon in volume of business done by retail furniture stores, being one of the latest Granges organized in Jackson county. Applegate Grange is rapidly forging to the front. In less than two years Applegate has acquired nationwide publicity in seeding the burnt-over section, due to last year's forest fire, to winter blue grass. This activity was sponsored by Charles C. Hoover.

They have welded together a solid unit in their community and among other things have rebuilt cabins for those who suffered through the fire. While their membership has not yet quite reached the 100 mark, they have entered largely into many community projects.

CLASS PLAY CENTERS HI SCHOOL INTEREST AS PRODUCTION NEAR

(By Chas. P. Champlin, Jr.)
Promising to be one of the finest productions ever presented by any senior class of Medford high school, the play for this year is progressing rapidly.

The cast is gradually being worked into form and will reflect a great deal of careful training.

The play chosen was "Adam and Eva," by Guy Bolton and George Middleton, and the story has amused thousands on Broadway in the past and certainly is creating a widespread interest among local dramatic enthusiasts.

Rehearsals are being held every day as the date of presentation, May 6, draws near.

Ralph Bailey is very ably filling the position of director. Mr. Bailey has had charge of many productions of this type so the players are given the benefit of his past experience.

MEDFORD PEOPLE RATE WHO'S WHO AS GENEALOGISTS

Edward Marston Husong and Mrs. A. W. Childers, both of Medford, who have won local recognition for their work in genealogical and historical research, have been honored by "Who's Who in Genealogy" sketches of their work included in the list of the leading active genealogical researchers in the United States, in the Handbook of American Genealogy recently issued by the Institute of American Genealogy of Chicago.

Recognition in this field affords access to the extensive lineage files of the National Clearing House for Genealogical Information, as well as professional contact with genealogists in 1,931 counties throughout the United States and in 16 foreign countries, which will enable them to expand the scope of their work very materially.

It will be of interest to the members and prospective members, and especially to the registrars of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Colonial Dames, and other hereditary-patriotic societies to learn that local residents have formed these international contacts.

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD GIRL IS TEACHER

Having dashed through school from first grade to eighth in 16 months, eight-year-old Joanna Xenos (right) of Chicago now finds time to tutor her sisters at home and often is put in charge of primary classes at her school. She prefers newspapers and French history to fairy tales. Here she is shown helping sister Stella, 11, with her lessons.

On every Pomona committee Applegate members. They have an active Home Economic club under able management of Mrs. Mildred Taylor. These ladies meet the 2nd and 4th Wednesdays of each month and at every one of these meetings some constructive work is done.

They have a degree team which will soon be in a position to "do its stuff." The captain, Edwin Taylor, has ably guided this work.

There is a male quartet under leadership of Herbert Elmora, that renders numbers during the lecturer's hour at each meeting.

Worthy Chaplain Bessie Elmora sees to it that if any of the members are sick or in distress something is said or done to encourage them.

Chairman of the agricultural committee, Frank Owen, sees to it that all matters pertaining to the farm and the disposal of farm produce are handled to the best effect.

Applegate Grange dances occur every two weeks (the next one April 30), under the auspices of the ways and means committee. It is through this means that the Grange obtains the necessary funds to carry on its constructive work.

FRANK P. FARRELL HISTORY BARED IN JOURNAL WRITEUP

Frank P. Farrell, who was born at Pocatello, Idaho, on November 29, 1891, and who lives at Medford, is attorney for the state land board for Jackson county.

"My father was a pioneer railroad man on the Oregon Short Line," said Mr. Farrell. "In 1909, when I was 18 years old, I left Pocatello to size up the opportunities in the Rogue River valley. My father's idea was that I could probably locate a fruit ranch on which we could live when father retired from the railroad. From 1910 to 1915 I worked on an orchard near Medford and also engaged in the fruit business. In 1915 I entered the law school of the University of Oregon. In April, 1917, when our country declared war on the central powers, I enlisted in the navy and spent a year on board the Marblehead on the west coast of North and South America. In March, 1918, I was transferred to the naval aviation detachment, being stationed for a while at Boston and later in Florida. While at Boston I was commissioned ensign and was made gunnery instructor. When I was discharged I was instructor in flying at Key West. Through the courtesy of Chief Justice McBride I was given a special examination in the spring of 1918 and was admitted to the bar. I practiced law in Medford from 1919 to March, 1923, when I went to Long Beach, Cal., where I spent four years in practice. I returned to Medford in 1927. I am now serving my second term as chairman of the Jackson County republican central committee. I was commander of the Medford post of the American Legion in 1922. I am city attorney of Medford.

"I was married here in Medford in 1921 to Katherine Robinson. We have two children."—"F. L." in Oregon Journal.

"You Might Call it a Peculiar Reason"

"The thing I like most about Chesterfields... is the neat way they're made. It may sound fussy... probably does... but I just can't bear to get little crumbs of tobacco in my mouth.

"I never really enjoyed smoking until I discovered Chesterfields. Perhaps you have noticed how nicely they're filled. Every one of them is rolled just right.

"And do you know... the more I smoke Chesterfields, the better I like the taste. It's not raw... and it's not over-sweet. It's just sweet enough so that you never tire of it. I find Chesterfields are really milder, too!"
