

ALONZO L. BAKER, PROHIBITIONIST, WILL TALK HERE

The citizens of Medford and vicinity will have an opportunity to hear Alonzo L. Baker, who is said to be one of the most interesting and dynamic speakers on the Pacific coast.

Alonzo L. Baker.

First, "Do the defects of prohibition warrant and necessitate its repeal and the establishment of some other system?" and second, "Should the United States discard its prohibition amendment and in its place substitute some form of government control of legalized liquor?"

In order to evaluate this oft-mentioned alternative to prohibition—government control of liquor—Mr. Baker made a trip through Canada a few months ago and visited each of the eight provinces of that dominion having a control system.

Mr. Baker thoroughly investigated the facts concerning "the liquor boards," "government liquor stores," "beer parlors" and "taverns" of Canada. Also he investigated the actual working out of the Canadian plan as it relates to the increase or decrease of the amount of liquor consumed, its benefits or injuries to the average Canadian home and its effect of other lines of business.

Rev. R. E. Close, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of Oregon, will accompany Mr. Baker and will deliver a short address dealing with the campaign of the "dry" in defense of the state prohibition laws.

All are cordially invited to hear these speakers. There will be no admission charge, but an offering for the promotion of prohibition in Oregon will be taken.

NO GRAND JURY SCHEDULED SOON

No session of the grand jury is contemplated within the next month, owing to the lack of sufficient important matters to justify the expense of the session.

The district attorney's office receives from three to ten complaints daily from citizens demanding a grand jury probe. Most of the lots are of a civil nature and concern Saturday night dance fights, cow fence disputes, tampering with irrigation ditches and neighborhood rumpuses.

Road Commission Firm in Refusal of County Relief delegation from Klamath county headed by Judge Fred R. Goddard, who requested continuation of emergency relief in that county. The commission replied it was impossible to do so as funds were not available and no new bond issues would be called.

Relief Important

R. E. Bradbury, of the delegation and a member of the state unemployment committee, declared that unemployment work was more important to the county than the construction of the 13 miles of Merrill-Malin highway, which was let by the commission several weeks ago, or far more important than the contemplated Klamath Falls-Lakeview oiling project.

Lane Gets Road

Lane county's long campaign for a two-mile stretch of road—the Cheshire-Harpole school section of the Siuslaw highway—terminated successfully when the commission last night decided to call for bids on this job at the next meeting in May. The cost, estimated at $50,000, will be divided equally between state and county.

2 SCALDED WHEN TRAIN WRECKED

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 28.—(AP)—Engineer James Groves and Fireman Walter C. Schinning, both of Battle Creek, Mich., were scalded to death and two other persons were injured when the Maple Leaf passenger train of the Grand Trunk railroad, en route from Montreal to Chicago, was derailed here today and one of its baggage cars plunged off a high elevation embankment on a curve.

JACKSON SCHOOL APRIL FROLIC ON FRIDAY SCHEDULE

Students, teachers, parents and friends of Jackson school will gather at the school building tomorrow night for the "April Frolic," which is eagerly looked forward to from year to year.

Following dinner at 6 o'clock the program will open with the big "Circus Parade." One hundred and fifty children from the primary grades will participate in this three-ring show and all the usual characters and animals will be on hand.

Upstairs the wrestling and boxing matches promise to provide no end of thrills. An important feature of this show will be the match of "Bull Neck Moose Face" versus Andrew H. Brown, with Amos on hand as trainer.

Mrs. Reid's Toy orchestra, which employs everything from wood blocks to iron skillets as instruments, will furnish such gay tunes as "Pop Goes the Weasel," "Money Musk" and "The Irish Washer Woman" for the "old-fashioned dance." Also, in addition to a number of confessions there will be the "Beauty Parlor," where efficient operators will perform the miracles of face lifting and other beautifying processes.

The proceeds from this event will go toward health, welfare and other worthy projects of the school for the ensuing year.

HOOD RIVER FRUIT PLANT DESTROYED BY MYSTERY FIRE

HOOD RIVER, Ore., April 28.—(AP)—Fire early today destroyed the large cold storage and packing plant of the Apple Growers' association, and the fruit packing plant and warehouse of the American Fruit Growers here. The origin of the fire was not immediately determined.

A high wind caused the fire to spread rapidly throughout the structures. Much valuable washing and packing machinery was destroyed, and two adjoining cottages burned.

SALEM, April 28.—(AP)—Officers today were conducting an investigation of an alleged incendiary fire which late last night destroyed a warehouse located in the industrial district with a loss estimated at approximately $5000. The warehouse was owned by Harley White, and was constructed more than 30 years ago.

All fire fighting equipment in the city was pressed into service. A few nights ago an attempt was made to burn the Starr Fruit company's plant here, officers said.

Apparently none of the train's passengers was injured and none of the coaches was overturned. Police and volunteer workers, however, searched the ruins of the house for other possible victims. The two injured, neither seriously, were 5-year-old Marshall Bradburn and his father, who were asleep in the house.

MASSIE FLAYED BY PROSECUTOR AT CONCLUSION

confessed participation could be considered only as it related to Massie's mental state.

Relating to the defense contention that Massie's mind went blank when he confronted the native with a pistol and heard him confess, Judge Davis instructed that if a plea of insanity had been introduced, the burden of proof was on the prosecution to show the naval officer sane.

Unwritten Law "Out." The jurist warned the 12 men that "no man may take the law into his own hands, and the alleged fact that the deceased ravaged the wife of one of the defendants cannot be considered."

To justify a second degree murder verdict, Judge Davis ruled, the jury would have to conclude the prosecution had proved the four persons killed Kahahawai and that they had intended to kill him.

However, the jurist said, it would be unnecessary for the prosecution to have proved premeditation if it had shown the defendants entered into an agreement the reasonable consequence of which was the slaying.

Final Pleas Heard. An intense plea in support of the insanity defense of Lieutenant Massie and in behalf of the unwritten law, made by Clarence Darrow, and a fiery demand by Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley for conviction of the quartet, preceded the instructions.

In concluding his argument Darrow proclaimed his kindness toward all races and directed a special remark to the three Chinese on the jury.

With brevity and fire Kelley whirled into his argument. "You have been presented with a defense of sympathy, not of insanity," he said. "If you are going to decide this case on passion, then tell me and I'll be silent."

"I intend to paint the other side of the picture you have been shown, and show you a vain, egotistical man who has been the cause of trouble," Officer Blamed. Kelley then asserted that Massie had taken his wife, against her destres, to the dance the night of the attack, and that the naval officer was responsible for it all.

"They sacrificed that girl," Kelley shouted, pointing to Mrs. Massie. "For his ego and made a Roman holiday for the crowd that disgraced this court with applause last week."

Then he asserted Massie was "high" the night of the dance. Massie had testified to taking a bottle of liquor to the party.

Again hinting disbelief in Massie's admission that he held the pistol which killed Kahahawai, Kelley said:

"He couldn't hide behind the skirts of his mother-in-law, nor behind the two sailors who helped him. . . . The best you can say for him is that he lied like a gentleman."

Slaying Unjustified. Striding up and down in front of the jury, his face red with passion, Kelley asserted Massie's story did not justify the killing. "And that, under the laws of the territory, is murder."

"Is there to be one law for the people here and one for the visitors?" he demanded. "If you let these people go they will make Massie an admiral because he and Admiral Pratt (chief of naval operations) think alike. They both believe in lynch law."

"Up at the hospital," the prosecutor went on, "when Mrs. Massie identified four men as her assailants, if Lieutenant Massie had picked up a gun and mowed them down he would at least have had the respect of this community."

"But it took him four months to get up courage to act, and then he had to get two enlisted men to help him."

"Without being swayed by mercy," he concluded, "or by admirals—for in the language of Smedley Butler I say 'to hell with the admirals'—there is no reason why you cannot bring in a unanimous verdict of guilty. We do not ask for vengeance—only for justice."

EX-MEDFORDITE SHOT BY WIFE

As a result of an argument over divorce proceedings filed in Grants Pass by Mrs. Amanda Dawe Carr, her husband, Rodrick B. Carr, suffered a bullet wound across the abdomen Tuesday evening when he went to the Carr residence on the Redwood highway to make amends for the disagreement.

According to the report, Carr sat on the bed, and Mrs. Carr, thinking she knew of a revolver hidden there, seized it. The gun went off in the scuffle which followed. Carr called the sheriff, but after a conference with the district attorney, Mrs. Carr was not arrested, as she had requested.

The couple was married in Medford February 14, 1931, information from Grants Pass states.

"... Can you imagine doing a thing like that?"
