

PRODUCTS DINNER MENU TO INCLUDE NOTABLE VARIETY

Many Items Donated by Local and State Sources—Dean Hewitt to Speak—Program is Arranged.

Complete details of the fifth annual Oregon Products Dinner, staged this year by the Medford Chamber of Commerce and the Women's Greater Oregon association, were released Saturday by A. P. Johnson, chairman of the committee in charge of the event. The banquet will be held at the Hotel Medford, Tuesday, May 10, at 5:30 p. m. and tickets may be purchased either at the chamber of commerce or from any member of the Women's Greater Oregon association. The banquet itself promises to be the most elaborate ever staged in Medford, and the entire menu is composed of Oregon products, donated for the occasion by manufacturers and producers of the state. A large number of Medford producers and manufacturers are represented on the menu, and the price of the banquet is lower than ever before, tickets selling at fifty cents each. Ladies are especially invited to attend.

Hewitt to Speak
The principal speaker on the program will be Dean Roy A. Hewitt, of the Willamette University of Law of Salem. Mr. Hewitt is a jurist of wide reputation in Oregon, and has an enviable reputation as an after-dinner speaker. His message will be along the lines of the promotion of constructive community effort in the solution of community problems.

The entertainment features of the banquet will include dinner music by the Medford high school orchestra under the direction of F. Wilson Wait, and an overture number, "The Desert Song," by Romberg. The local high school orchestra is fast approaching perfection in rendition of good music, and this will mark its first public appearance in some time.

James Stevens, noted baritone, will render a group of solos, accompanied by Sebastian Apollo, at the piano. Another group of vocal solos will be given by Mrs. J. A. McCorkle, with Dorothy Reynolds as accompanist.

C-C Officers to Talk
Other speakers scheduled to appear on the program will include W. A. Gates, of Medford, Mrs. J. G. Keller, president of the Women's Greater Oregon association, of Portland; O. O. Alexander, retiring president of the chamber of commerce; W. S. Bolger, J. C. Thompson and Holman Hubbard, incoming chamber officials. A. P. Johnson will act as toastmaster.

The menu for the banquet, arranged under the direction of Mrs. Glen Fabrick, local chairwoman of the Greater Oregon association, will include tomato juice cocktail, from the Eagle Canning Co., Astoria; Baked pear and lettuce salad, from the Rogue Valley Canning Co., Medford and the Pacific Fruit and Produce Co., Tru-Blu wafers, furnished by the Loose-Wiles Co., of Portland; and salad dressing from the Corvallis Creamery Co.

Future's dinner rolls, Ladino cheese, Gold Seal butter, and Swift's Premium Ham will compose the main course, which will also include jam and jelly from the Kerr Preserving Co., Portland; and Knight's Rogue River catfish.

Estables Donated
Vegetables served will include sweet corn, from the Eugene Fruitgrowers association; Nip and Tuck asparagus, furnished by Carl Von der Hellen, of Eagle Point, and beets from the Rogue Valley Canning Co., Klamath Falls potatoes, by Pacific Fruit & Produce Co., sweet pickles will be provided by the Kerr Preserving Co.

The dessert will include Gold Medal ice cream, from Shuler's Dairy, coffee cream from the Swiss Creamery, grade A raw Jersey milk from the dairy of Young and Warner; walnuts and filberts furnished by the Oregon Nut Growers' association; chocolate mints by White's, and Golden West Coffee from Closest and Devera, Portland. Lipen table covers for the banquet will be provided by the Salem Linen Mills; the waitresses uniforms by Kafoury Manufacturing Co., Portland, and the table decorations by the Rogue Valley Floral Co.

The entire community is invited to attend the banquet, according to those in charge, although reservations should be made, as only three hundred plates are available. Reservations may be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce of Mrs. Glen Fabrick.

Eagle Point High School Senior Class Has High Record For Year's Activities

JUNIORS SHARE HONOR IN WORK DURING WINTER

The Senior class of the Eagle Point high school for this year is the least on record with the exception of one former year. It consists of three members only, but its numbers are slightly enlarged by the addition of two post-graduates, Wallace Dinnsmore and Dorothea Pearce.

The activities of the class have been shared by the Junior group, another small class, made up entirely of boys, whose names are Clarence Tingleaf, Vance Pearce, Tom Coy, Louis Rohrer and Joe Miller. This group is known among its own members as the big five, though Rohrer is the only one of any physical magnitude.

While the members of the combined group have not excelled in physical prowess, it is generally understood that they supply the mature judgment and intellectual force so necessary in making student functions run smoothly and effectively. This fact has been attested individually by each member of the group.

The most outstanding achievement of the combined group throughout the year has been the publication of a weekly news sheet known as the "Eagle's Quill." This paper is the product of the class in Journalism which is made up of both Juniors and Seniors. It has been issued regularly since the first of October and carries the distinction of being the only publication among the secondary high schools of Jackson county that has been consistently published for the entire year.

The publication has followed quite closely to the news sheet plan, but has produced a credible editorial sheet. Little or no filler has been used in its make-up during its entire history of three years. The articles with occasional exceptions are the products of the students themselves, and the editorials are written exclusively by students. All stenciling and mimeograph work is done by the students also.

The Quill has been self supporting, largely through the loyal advertising support of local merchants. The circulation has increased from semester to semester and has now reached a hundred forty. Its publication has been regular over a period of three consecutive school years, and is a matter of considerable pride to the school as well as to the class of Journalism.

Because of the small number of seniors, it is doubtful if any formal graduation ceremonies will be held this year. Mr. Davies has served as group advisor, and has aided in the supervision of the "Eagle's Quill."

his ranch west of Central Point, in the Rogue River valley. Part of his brush were fed on ground alfalfa and the balance, consisting of fifty-five head, were turned on a field of winter blue grass and alfalfa the last of February. A carload was shipped to Portland right off the pasture Saturday and Mr. Bursell stated to County Agent Fowler that he is convinced that the cattle on the blue grass pasture gained 30 per cent more in weight and were in better shape than were the yard fed cattle.

A twenty acre field of winter blue grass and alfalfa was used for this feeding experiment. The pastures of winter blue grass have been very valuable to farmers in this region during the past season, as hay has been very scarce and the prices high, it is said.

PARK SNOW GARB WILL LURE MANY TO VISIT CRATER

Medford motorists visiting Crater lake today will gain a clear conception of the extent of snow removal operations in the park during the past winter when driving between high snow banks ranging from seven to 17 feet from the west entrance to the rim, resulting from one of the most severe winters on record. The last barrier, preventing traffic from Medford, was removed Thursday. A large crowd of local motorists is expected to make the drive today.

A few years ago, if the park had been covered by as deep a mantle of white as the past spring and winter, the park would have undoubtedly remained closed until July but due to the use of modernized snow removal equipment the snow was kept removed constantly from roads where it fell the deepest. A large 165-horsepower Snogo plow, operated by Harry (Happy) Fuller, was busy during the stormy season.

During December, when winter descended in all its fury in the Crater lake region, Mr. Fuller worked 60 eight-hour shifts and in January, when storms continued unabated, he labored 57 eight-hour shifts. Following an exceedingly heavy storm, Mr. Fuller chafed up 42 hours straight labor in successful efforts to keep ahead of the snowfall.

As a result, the park is now open in the face of heavy odds, taxing the strength of the snow crew and demonstrating the fact that early opening of park roads is possible, even in the face of the severest winter ever recorded.

Officers for both the Eagles and the Auxiliary will be installed at the first meeting in June.

During the winter, William Doty, Medford, labored with Fuller from October to January, followed by service of several weeks by Ranger

Don Fisher, Klamath Falls, and later Lee Prescott, Ashland.

Now the big task is done. The climax came Thursday afternoon when a state plow, operating on the state highway up from Union Creek, met the park plow near the west entrance, removing the last barrier. Moving pictures were taken of the opening to keep permanent record of the event. Six automobiles were waiting behind the state plow to visit the park, including one motorist who arrived in early forenoon. Every mile of park road is mute evidence of heavy labor incurred.

The crew stationed in the park during the long stormy season was made up of Harry Fuller, snow plow operator, Ranger Don Fisher, Ranger Charles Simon, Yreka, Calif., Dudley Luck, photographer, Fred (Blackie) Cotton, cook, and William Doty, snow plow assistant, on duty from October to January.

Martin Palmer and Charles Good were in the park at different times during the winter in connection with snow removal work, making the trip from Medford by way of Klamath Falls and Fort Klamath and then ski trek to the scene of their duties.

During the winter, plows maintained 18 miles of open road within the park, leading from the rim area to Annie Springs ranger station and several miles on either side of the station on the Medford and Klamath entrance roads. The roads were left blocked on both entrances at the lower elevations, where the depth did not offer such a problem as found in the higher levels.

In making the drive to the park, motorists will find roads in excellent condition but are advised to drive with caution in the deep snow region where high snow banks bring dangers of blind corners.

Their long winter sleep ended, six bears can be seen in the vicinity of Government Camp and are one of the popular park attractions.
