

FAMILIAR CHORDS WILL BE PLAYED DURING CAMPAIGN

Prosperity, Tariff and Prohibition Due for Heavy Discussion - Hoover to Be Center Much Argument

By Byron Price, Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington.

Although it is too early by weeks to attempt a complete catalog of the campaign issues of 1932, it now can be predicted safely that the voters will hear much about three old acquaintances—prosperity, the tariff and prohibition.

If early spring signs mean anything, the argument will run something like this: The Democrats will accuse President Hoover of weakness, procrastination and large-scale blundering with respect to the depression, and will assert that events have exploded once and for all the basis that the Republican party is the party of prosperity.

The Republicans will praise the President for having kept the country's soil and body together at all in a time of world-wide distress, and will thank Providence that no Democrat was in the White House in such an hour.

Tariff Issue to Come Up. The Democrats will blame the present Republican tariff for dislocations at home and loss of prestige abroad, and will ask that the President be shorn of his one-man power over rate changes.

The Republicans will declare their tariff policies have helped greatly in present crisis, will defend the presidential rate-changing prerogative, and will argue it would be dangerous to both industry and labor to put tariff-making into Democratic hands.

The Democrats, either through their platform or their candidate, or both, will ridicule the Hoover prohibition policy, and bid in one way or another for the support of opponents of the dry laws.

The Republicans may conceivably make some concessions to the wet, but they will try valiantly to retain the support of those dry elements who now are threatening to bolt.

Doubtless other issue will be heard from, too, although some of the favorites, such as taxation and foreign relations, seem to have been read out of the campaign by bi-partisan action in congress.

The sure starters as of today, are the three named above, and each of these three may be expected to kick up a lot of dust on the way to the finish line.

Hoover Faces Attack. The debate over what has been done and what has not been done for economic recovery, of course, will cover a lot of territory.

From the moratorium to the reconstruction finance corporation, the Hoover leadership will be assailed as halting and tardy, moved to action only at the last minute, when direct necessity applied the lash.

Farm relief, unemployment, and many other collateral issues will furnish talking points in the general dispute.

The Republicans are making elaborate preparations to combat this attack. They will picture to the country a President beset by pressure day and night and without holiday to avert catastrophe, seeking advice everywhere, and doing all that mortal man could do.

Tariff Front Changed. The tariff dispute will present a situation greatly revised since the old days when the Republicans constituted the party of protection and the Democrats stood together for a tariff for revenue only.

Recently many Democrats have been voting for Republican tariff bills. The Democrats in the present congress have put through a bill declaring a general policy of readjustment, but refraining from that sort of unrestrained denunciation which frightens business.

The issue is most clearly joined on the question of continuing the presidential authority to raise and lower rates; although it is a somewhat technical subject, the voter will be asked to study and understand it.

Farties Split on Dry Issue. Only the most general of tendencies are yet apparent with respect to prohibition.

Both parties are divided, but it is worth noting that the modification-ists are entering their efforts vigorously toward a referendum or modification plank in the Democratic platform, while the drys apply most of their pressure on the Republicans.

Furthermore, it seems certain that on the presidential roll calls at Chicago at least nine out of every ten Democratic delegates will vote for one candidate or another who favors a change, and at least nine of every ten Republicans will support President Hoover, whose attitude has been accepted in the past as satisfactory to the organized drys.

Finally, it is well to remember that this is one issue to which things may continue to happen—and probably will—right up to election day.

$2000 Gold Ingot Discovered Neath Old Shed Floor

LEWISTON, Mont., May 10.—(AP)—G. McEwan, who likes to prow around abandoned buildings in the deserted backwoods district yesterday broke through the floor of an old shed. He found a heavy, yellow object. He took his find to men who know gold. They said it weighed 107 ounces and was worth more than $2000. It was probably hidden there a quarter of a century ago when the district was producing much gold ore.

PHOENIX CONTRIBUTES TO SOUTHERN OREGON MUSIC WEEK PROGRAM

Report of the splendid cooperation of the Phoenix district in the recent observance of National Music Week was received by the Medford chairman, Mrs. E. K. Gore, yesterday. Under the direction of Mrs. Fletcher Fish the pupils of the neighboring school were active participants in the southern Oregon celebration.

A music memory contest was held in the grade school with the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades competing. A team of five was selected from these grades to represent the group.

In the contest the seventh and eighth grades tied for first place, both groups scoring 100 per cent. The sixth grade scored 97.4 per cent, and the fifth grade 86.9 per cent. The tie was later worked off with the seventh grade winning with a perfect score.

The prize of $2 was awarded the winning class and small prizes also went to the pupils making perfect scores. Those making perfect scores in the first contest were Natalie

- Wilcox, Vernon Welt, Robert Wilcox and Evelyn Landing.
- In the seventh grade team were: James Newlin, Ken Swisher, Kathleen Carpenter, Dora Montgomery, and in the eighth grade: Mabel Hardisty, Maxine Cobleigh, Evelyn Carpenter, Patsy Thompson and Mildred Bauer.
- The list for music appreciation included the following compositions: Indian Lament—Dvorak-Kreisler; Meditation from "Thais"—Massenet; Rendezvous—Alletier; La Czarine Mazurka—Garré; Invitation to the Waltz—Weber; Blue Danube Waltz—Strauss; Overture from "Mignon"—Thomas; Largo from "New World Symphony"—Dvorak; Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 2—Liszt; Morning Mood from "Peer Gynt"—Grieg; Anita's Dance from "Peer Gynt"—Grieg; In the Hall of the Mountain King from "Peer Gynt"—Grieg; Toreador Song from "Carmen"—Bizet; Two Grenadiers—Schumann; Evening Star from "Tannhauser"—Wagner; In the Time of Roses—Reichardt; Triumphal March—Grieg; Venetian Love Song—Novin; Minuet—Paderewski.

"It's too quaint the way Beth gets runs in her stockings"

"Wouldn't you think she'd learn the right way of washing?"

*The LUX way to make stockings wear

DO YOU know why the Lux way of washing doubles stocking wear? It's because Lux is made to preserve elasticity. That's the "live" quality that makes stockings give under strain. Stretch and then spring right back again. If you wash away elasticity, then the delicate threads break under strain, starting ruinous runs. Or they sag, causing wrinkles, snaky seams! Just toss your stockings in Lux suds each night and see how beautifully they always fit and what a long time they wear!

DO YOU INHALE?

Why are other cigarettes silent on this vital question?

Do you inhale? Seven out of ten people know they do. The other three inhale without realizing it. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question... because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Remember—more than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

Do you inhale? Of course you do! So be careful. Safeguard your delicate membranes!
