

REYNOLDS REASON SOLONS LEADING AMERICAN LEAGUE

Outfielder Obtained From White Sox Leading Hitter In Majors — Cardinals Rally Trims Dodgers.

It hasn't taken Carl Reynolds long to convince his new employers, the Washington Senators, that they drove a very brisk bargain when they obtained him from the Chicago White Sox in one of the winter's most discussed deals.

The speedy outfielder, who joined the Senators in a trade involving two veteran pitchers, Sam Jones and Irving Hadley, is in no small measure responsible for the fact that Walter Johnson's outfit is leading its closest American league rivals by three full games today.

Hits 429 Clip

He's hitting at a 429 clip, the highest average in either league, is second in total hits notwithstanding a late start, and is as brilliant as ever afield. If he holds his present pace, he might easily make the difference between the pennant the Senators want and third place they won last year.

Reynolds virtually was the whole show offensively as Washington won yesterday's opener from Cleveland, 3 to 0. He scored the first run off Wes Ferrell in the seventh, when he singled, eased his way around to third and went home on an infield out. His home run in the next frame with Joe Cronin aboard settled any doubt of the issue. The victory was Washington's ninth in ten starts.

Three other American league contests gave way to rain and cold. Cards Trim Dodgers

The St. Louis Cardinals put on the day's best act in the American league when they scored three times in the last of the ninth to hand the Brooklyn Dodgers their fourth straight defeat, 7 to 6. With one away, the champions jumped on Old Jack Quinn, Brooklyn relief hurler, for four hits to turn the tide.

Something similar was seen at Cincinnati where the Reds pushed across a run in the ninth to down the Phillies, 4 to 3, and break up a pitchers' duel between Owen Carroll and Ed Holey.

Fritz Knothe's single in the 12th knocked two runs across and the Boston Braves staggered out with a 6-to-5 victory over Pittsburgh, their first in five starts in the west.

The Giants were rained out at Chicago.
