Fox Craterian stage. This mammoth spectacle will be shown once each evening, at 9 o'clock. Rich in splendor—a highly elaborate setting in two dazzling scenes—with 35 people on the stage—16 distinct entertaining numbers—25 beautiful bathing girls—the Seven Flashes in an acrobatic dance novelty—Prussian Plastic group fantasy—Lloyd Williamson, song star—Jack Retlaw and his Pajama Girls—Jimmie Parkhill, banjo king—the Six Salloriettes—Nelly Dane Maids in electric-lighted dance ensemble—Noel Benson, eccentric dance—comic and other novelties, will make up the brilliant program.

The first scene will be that of a Paris modelling salon, while the other will be a huge beach setting, with a 12-foot yacht, moving waves, beach umbrellas and chairs, a wharf, and various incidentals that go to make up a modern bathing beach. All this has been especially created and prepared especially for this revue-frolic.

All costumes displayed in this presentation are direct from Adrienne's, the well known Medford women's apparel shop. The very newest in beach and summer creations will be on parade. Adrienne herself pointed out that every garment is a brand new 1932 model.

The screen attraction shown in conjunction with this big production will be that widely-discussed picture, "The Wet Parade," featuring Walter Huston. This screen feature will also be shown at the Wednesday-Thursday matinees.

Vic Meyers Coming To Holly Wednesday

Vic Meyers and his Columbia Recording orchestra will appear on the Holly stage tomorrow night only, one appearance at exactly 8:15, in a return engagement presenting a brand new presentation. This great orchestra leader became famous as Seattle's jazz candidate for mayor, and his offering at the Holly several weeks ago proved that his band is an aggregation of unusual ability. In addition to being splendid musicians, his boys are all singers and comedians, and they offer a novelty presentation quite different from the ordinary stage band offering. The early appearance at 8:15 is necessary in order that the boys may finish their stage show in time for the dance to be held at the Oriental Gardens immediately after the show. The excellent screen feature is a thrilling story of the secret service, starring Jack Holt and entitled "Behind the Mask."

Constance Cummings, who is fast becoming a popular favorite at the Holly, is cast in the feminine lead, while Boris Karloff is also prominently cast. The picture, of course, will open with the matinee tomorrow and will be the attraction at the Holly for tomorrow and Thursday matinee and night, with Vic Meyers and his band appearing tomorrow night only, just one appearance at 8:15. The usual clever after subject program will be shown. "Beauty and the Boss," the hilarious comedy hit, with Warren Williams, Marian Marsh and Charles Butterworth, closes with the last performances tonight.
