

JACKSONVILLE GRANGE HOST FOR CANDIDATES PARTY NEXT TUESDAY

All Jacksonville county candidates will be honored at a party given by the Jacksonville Grange May 17, at 8 p. m. A program of music and entertainment is being arranged also to include the introduction of candidates. This will probably be the last "campaign" party of the season, but by no means the least, according to the lecturer of the Jacksonville Grange.

Every effort has been expended to make this meeting one of interest and value to both the candidates and the voters of Jacksonville precinct, who are all cordially invited to attend this meeting. Indeed, no better use of time could be made than that of the would-be servants of the people and the voters themselves should spend an evening of mutual interests together in the once famous halls of justice, the old county courthouse, which was so long the political center of Jackson county.

It is hoped that it will be an inspiration to the candidates to visit once again this historical building—still making history for itself as the home of the Jacksonville Grange.

Aviatrix Missing Again

Mrs. Christofferson shown with William R. Graham studying map of district in which the ship Baychimo was abandoned last November.

POINT BARROW, Alaska, May 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Edna Christofferson, William R. Graham and George Liablin, who expected to reach here May 3 on a flight from Nome, have not been heard from since that date. Residents here, however, believe they are stormbound and safe somewhere along the Arctic coast.

The trio started out to search for the derelict ship Baychimo, abandoned in Arctic ocean ice by its crew last November, and expected to be back in Nome today.

It was pointed out stormy weather may have forced them down at Wainwright, Point Hope or some other coast settlement. Mrs. Christofferson of Portland Ore., and Graham, experienced Alaskan pilot, were lost February for 11 days in Canada.

They were heading north to make a search for the Baychimo and were forced down near Ailin, B. C. Canadian fliers finally found them, suffering from fatigue and exposure.

Since then it was learned valuable furs had already been removed from the Baychimo by part of the crew which remained on the coast.
