Comment on the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS
JOHN J. Raakob and a group of associates, we read in the papers, made a profit of just under five million dollars in a week's operations on the New York stock market in March, 1929.

ABNORMALLY big profits on the stock market, which, fundamentally, are gambling profits, are pretty sure to mean big losses sooner or later.

THESE words are written, Amelia Earhart Putnam is taking off for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, whence she plans to take off for a flight across the Atlantic—hoping to be the first woman to accomplish that dangerous feat.

STILL, it may be that she has to TRY IT, in order to prove to herself that she isn't afraid.

FLYING the Atlantic, just for the glory of it, long after it has been demonstrated that it can be done, appeals to most of us as a foolish enterprise.

THESE words are written on the eve of election, and as yet the noise and the shouting have not died down. But they will.

DEMOCRACY is far from perfect. Still, what human institution is perfect?

IN THIS country, we are inclined to get all worked up over elections. We are SURE our man is right, and the other fellow's man all wrong.

Deilla Stevens Meyer, candidate for county clerk, and Susanne Homes Carter, candidate for school superintendent, were rejected by landslide, as was Congressman W. C. Hawley. On the other hand, they spared their wrath to give Senator Frederick Steiwer a handsome majority over the Governor Meier-backed Alfred E. Clark.
