What the Girl Scouts Are Doing

I hope all of you Girl Scouts are saving the pennies that will take you to camp this summer at Willpen Pine. It will take less pennies this time than it has before, and that should make it a great deal easier to get at least one week at camp, if not more. Just for reminder, let me repeat the price schedule again:
1 week—Six dollars.
2 weeks—Eleven dollars.

Those of you who have attended camp before know of the things you need to bring with you, for there are always the necessary things such as blankets, clothing, etc., but while it is still early I should like to remind you of the "interesting extras" that make camping much better, for you can begin gathering these things up now so as to be quite certain of having them. Here is a list:
Scout knife—you'll need this many times a day.
Camera and films—Memories that are permanent!
Compass—for hikes, wood gathering, etc.
Nature study materials—such as crayons, paper, notebook, or microscope.
Rug—an old one, to have by your cot.
Orange crate—for a camp dresser de luxe.

Court of Awards, about which you are anxious, will be next Saturday night, May 28th, at the Courthouse, 7:30 o'clock. All prospective badge-owners be sure to have your applications in before that time.

"About four hours after leaving Newfoundland," she said, "I noticed flames from the exhaust, and became very uneasy. But it would have taken four hours to get back and I thought it safer to go ahead."
"My next trouble was a leak in the gasoline tank and all the time I was worried whether the fuel would last out the trip."
"To add to my troubles, I encountered heavy weather and the storm curtailed my speed."
"I saw land at about the middle of Ireland—probably it was Galway—and then flew north. I next saw a railroad line and followed that to Londonderry, and I finally landed in the field."
Eat Tomato Juice
"All I had to eat on the trip was some tomato juice. The only clothes

I have with me are the flying suit on my back and the only money I have is twenty dollars that was handed to me as I was leaving. I haven't even a check to sign."
"I haven't slept since Friday morning but I don't feel the least bit fatigued."
Mrs. Putnam revealed she almost met disaster when she landed. Her plane came to rest within a few yards of the farmer's cottage. Half blinded by the continuous strain on her eyes, she did not see the house until the ship stopped.
"It would have been exasperating to crash into the cottage after safely landing," she said.
Pilotman started
As her plane started its sudden swoop earthward the racket of its motor startled a plowman and his horses in a field nearby. The horses bolted.
Late tonight Mrs. Putnam sent her apologies to the man, but they were not needed. He had learned that the plane which came on him like a bolt by the blue had crossed the Atlantic and was piloted by a woman—and everything was all right.
The arrival of the slim, blond 33-year-old airwoman was so unexpected that event the Londonderry police had a hard time finding her when they learned she had put their community in the all-time log of big aviation feats.

throughout the east, John Hughes Curtis, "hoax negotiator," conferred in his jail cell at Flemington with an attorney, and "Jafie," the ransom-payer, went dashing through New England on an unexplained mission.

The lawyer who visited Curtis was from the shipbuilder's home town of Norfolk, Va. After he left it was learned two local attorneys had been engaged.

They were expected to make early efforts to obtain the prisoner's release on bail.
Another of the bills used in paying the $50,000 ransom was reported to have turned up at a New York bank. Direct confirmation on the report was lacking.
The two-day hunt for the man identified by state police only as "a gangster reported in Maryland and thought to be connected with the case," was given real significance by Arthur Mills, identification expert at the Maryland house of correction.
At Baltimore Mills refused to identify the fugitive, but said he is a character long identified with the liquor traffic in New Jersey.

Senior Reception Colorful Event of High School Year

By Foresteen Walker
The senior reception held Friday, May 20, at senior high school in the boy's gym was the largest event of the year for the seniors. The decorations were very effective. The color scheme was carried out in red, white and blue. The ceiling of the dance floor was covered with the largest flag in the state. A soft lighting effect of the colors of the flag was also used to further the patriotic motif. The theme honored the Washington bi-centennial and the decorations and settings around the margin of the dance floor were those of the home of George Washington, Mount Vernon.

Girls dressed as colonial misses handed out the programs. The colonial silhouettes on the programs were designed and cut on linoleum by Miss Colista Johnson, an advanced art student at the high school. Members of the art classes under the supervision of Mrs. Louise Hollenback, completed the programs for the reception.

The senior class officers are: Harold Gebauer, president; Sybil Jean Young, secretary; Bob Nelson, vice-president; Helen Wilson, drama; Norman Phipps, treasurer.
