

Local and Personal

At Crater Lake—Among local people who visited Crater Lake yesterday was A. R. Edwin, chief disbursing clerk of Crater National Park.

On Business Here—A. B. Natland, manager of the Portland office for a number of steamship lines, is spending today in Medford on business.

Home from Berkeley—Mrs. E. C. Solinsky, daughters Donna and Jane, and Mrs. Solinsky's niece, Miss Winifred Solinsky, arrived back in Medford yesterday from Berkeley, Calif.

At Crater Lake—Orbin Cooksey, and his sister, Miss Donna of Drain, Ore., who formerly resided in Medford and Central Point visited Crater Lake yesterday.

Miss Anderson Returns—Miss Olga Anderson of the sheriff's office, returned to Medford this noon on the Shasta from Grass Valley, Calif., where she has been vacationing.

Expected Home—Mr. and Mrs. Bert Rosell, who have been vacationing in Portland for the past week, are expected to return to Medford tomorrow.

To Klamath Falls—Misses Maurine Carroll, Carin Degermark and Hester Baldwin were among local people spending the week-end at Klamath Falls.

Mr. Keen Here—P. P. Keen, of the bureau of entomology in Portland, is in Medford conferring with Crater National Park officials concerning the pine beetle control work in the park.

Fined Today—Mike Ladouceur was fined $15 by Judge Glenn O. Taylor in justice court this morning, on a charge of breaking glass on the highway. The arrest was made by state police.

Attends Convention—Gerald Barr during his recent stay, in San Francisco attended the convention of the Pacific Seafarers. He is associated in this city with the Mutual Mill and Seed company and reports an abundance of valuable information received at the convention.

Stop at Hotels—Washington guests at the hotels in Medford are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Goff of Tacoma, and A. J. Cook, George W. Miller, Thomas Berry, S. E. Lovering, W. L. Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Edwards and family, C. W. Mipe and A. J. Coates of Seattle.

Fish at Diamond Lake—C. Earl Bradford, Ted Florey and John Millard made the trip into Diamond Lake yesterday and enjoyed several hours of fishing. They returned with a few. It took them seven hours to make the journey into the favorite haunt.

Motor to Lake—The local people visiting Crater Lake yesterday included Lee Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strang, Herb Strang, Miss Margaret Henley, Miss Louise Henley, Mr. and Mrs. John Barnaburg, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Williams, and Bernice Chapman.

From a Distance—Guests from distant places, who are registered at Medford hotels are Bob Cameron of Nampa, Idaho, Ruby Kay of Lyons, Neb., Rolt Ervin of Houston, Tex., and Mrs. C. R. Bennett of Memphis, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Louis Walker, Jr., of Williamsport, Penn., and Major and Mrs. Pollock of Denver, Colo.

Guests in Medford—Gene M. Simpson of Corvallis is among the Oregonians stopping at local hotels. Other guests are Theo Evanhoff of Hillsdale, Mrs. R. H. Harpe and H. J. Simmons of Fossil, R. O. Taylor, E. N. Agee and son, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Gaylord, and George Roy and son of Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Owens of Roseburg, and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wood of prospect.

California Here—Exclusive of San Francisco, Bear Stearns at local hotels include Miss Mae Franklin, Miss Evangeline Aldrich, John O'Brien and Peter Mainaha of Los Angeles, Mrs. M. and Miss E. Harrington and Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Harrington of Alameda, J. J. Reis of San Bernardino, Mrs. Henry Lehay and E. H. Bemiss and party of Oakland, Miss Melitta Yost of San Jose, Don A. Gregory of Eureka and E. M. Kamph of Smith River.

Enjoy Caves Trip—A very interesting trip through the Oregon Caves as well as attendance at the ceremonial of 40 at 8 was reported today by numerous members of the organization, who motored to the Caves Saturday, Carl V. Tengwald was among those today reviewing the improvements in the caves, which add greatly to their beauty. In his party were William Humphreys, Roland Smith, Guy Applewhite, Victor Tengwald and L. C. Garlock.

Returned Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Girl Injured—A little girl, about twelve years of age, whose name could not be learned, suffered a badly injured leg when struck down by an automobile on North Riverside avenue at 11:30 o'clock this forenoon. The automobile was driven by F. W. Schnepfer of Eugene, who said the girl ran out in front of his car from in front of a parked oil truck.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Girl Injured—A little girl, about twelve years of age, whose name could not be learned, suffered a badly injured leg when struck down by an automobile on North Riverside avenue at 11:30 o'clock this forenoon. The automobile was driven by F. W. Schnepfer of Eugene, who said the girl ran out in front of his car from in front of a parked oil truck.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Miss Funk at Lake—Miss Erid Funk of the Crater National forestry office visited Crater Lake yesterday.

Change Residence—Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Cho and family have changed their residence in the city from 722 Dakota street to 1207 West Main.

In Hospital—Miss Margaret Johnson of Prospect, who underwent an operation Saturday afternoon at the Community hospital, is reported as getting along nicely.

Return Tonight—Mrs. Arthur Brown and daughter Miss Genevieve are expected home this evening by train from Eugene, where they have been spending the past ten days vacationing as the guests of relatives.

Files to Seattle—Cyrus A. Herr, federal prohibition officer, with headquarters in Medford, left this morning by plane for Seattle, where he was called on business.

Auto Accident—Cars driven by Mrs. C. J. Starza and G. M. Abbott of 625 Albert street collided at the corner of Chestnut and Main streets yesterday morning at 7:10 o'clock, a report filed with city police stated.

Central Pointers Feel Quake—Mrs. J. G. Love of Central Point was among out town folk telephoning the Mail Tribune this morning to determine the origin of the tremor which shook the Rogue River valley about 12:40 a. m.

Oregon on Radio—Oregon will be the subject of the program, announced for this evening on the General Motors hour, 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. A. J. Hanby reported after receiving notice from the program leader. The address will be broadcast over the NBC network.

Attends Convention—Gerald Barr during his recent stay, in San Francisco attended the convention of the Pacific Seafarers. He is associated in this city with the Mutual Mill and Seed company and reports an abundance of valuable information received at the convention.

Stop at Hotels—Washington guests at the hotels in Medford are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Goff of Tacoma, and A. J. Cook, George W. Miller, Thomas Berry, S. E. Lovering, W. L. Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Edwards and family, C. W. Mipe and A. J. Coates of Seattle.

No Fishing Luck—Dr. Jud D. Rickett was among the unsuccessful fishermen who visited Rogue river in the vicinity of Savage Rapids dam yesterday. He reported approximately one hundred people fishing there, and said that only a few salmon were reported from the river during the day.

Report Collision—An automobile collision at the corner of Sixth and North Riverside avenues was reported this morning at the city police station. The autos were driven by Wm. E. Boyd of Talent and S. A. Milhoen. The latter reported the same city is Mrs. L. E. Roe, who has been the guest of her son, Dr. S. A. Roe for several weeks past.

Expected Home—Mrs. Minnie Guy, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Prezis in Lewiston, Idaho for the past ten days, is expected to return to Medford on the Shasta this evening. Also returning from the same city is Mrs. L. E. Roe, who has been the guest of her son, Dr. S. A. Roe for several weeks past.

Guests from the Bay—Hotel registers in Medford contain the names of the following from San Francisco: Leroy Smith, J. Reinhart and Dr. F. P. Miller, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cowles, W. C. Beall, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Weed and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Croft.

Portlanders Here—Included among the Oregonians whose names appear on the hotel lists in the city are the following Portlanders: James T. Murphy, R. C. Smith, Grace Y. Lee, E. N. Brown, Justus Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wilson, Mrs. Wm. Vawter, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Deller, Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Bronaugh, H. B. Pollock, Ed and Fred Carriere and E. H. Clark.

Girl Injured—A little girl, about twelve years of age, whose name could not be learned, suffered a badly injured leg when struck down by an automobile on North Riverside avenue at 11:30 o'clock this forenoon. The automobile was driven by F. W. Schnepfer of Eugene, who said the girl ran out in front of his car from in front of a parked oil truck.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

STAGE MANAGER TELLS KIWANIS AIM IN TRAFFIC

L. G. Markel, traffic manager of the Pacific Greyhound lines, spoke to members of the Kiwanis club at luncheon at the Hotel Medford today in explanation of the recent complications arising here regarding alleged discrimination of the stage company against the Pacific highway.

He emphasized the stage company's stand in the granting of bonuses for sales of tickets on the Redwoods highway route as one of economic necessity, not aimed toward discrimination.

The traffic over the Redwoods highway has been so light, he stated, that the stage company was forced to adopt a program to increase travel in order to maintain stages on the route.

He called attention to the new night coach, placed on the highway for travel between Medford and San Francisco, decreasing traveling time between the two cities three and one-half hours.

Much favorable publicity has been brought Medford through the inauguration of this new service.

Coach Paul Schisler of Oregon State college, a guest at the luncheon of E. C. Solinsky, superintendent of Crater Lake national park, was called upon for a short talk.

He informed the Kiwanians that he came down here for a fishing trip, found the weather unfavorable and would return north as soon as he finished a game of golf with Superintendent Solinsky.

Following the talks, the club members were entertained with motion picture reels of snow sports in southern Oregon, presented by Horace Bromley of the California Oregon game company.

Among guests at the luncheon were D. S. Libbey, national park naturalist, and Paul Keen of Portland, advisor of beetle control work in the Crater national park. Both were introduced by Superintendent Solinsky.

GLEEMEN CHANGE REHEARSAL NIGHT

E. W. Shockley, president of the Medford Gleemen, announced today that, according to a decision made last week the male chorus rehearsals will be held on Tuesday evenings.

henceforth, instead of on Monday, has been customary since the organization of the group, and the next regular meeting will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, at Guild hall, on North Oakdale avenue.

Competition for places in the new chorus is keen, and a very few vacancies still exist, principally in the tenor sections, according to James Stevens, director. The chorus is rapidly building its repertoire for its first public appearance, which will probably be made sometime during the latter part of the summer. Forty men from Medford and vicinity compose the chorus group.

GATES AND BAKER TO JUDGE ESSAYS

Walter Gates, one of the owners of Gates and Lodiard's Grocers store, and C. T. Baker, secretary of the Medford Chamber of Commerce, have been selected to act as judges in the tomato essay contest which ended Saturday night. Ed Pierce, of Pierce's hothouse, announced this afternoon.

A number of excellent essays dealing with the tomato industry and the superiority of vine-ripened fruit were entered in this interesting contest, indicating that the people of southern Oregon are becoming acquainted with the quality of Rogue River valley tomatoes.

Winners of the three cash prizes of $15, $7.50 and $5.00 each will be named within the near future after the judges have carefully considered the merits of the essays. Mr. Gates will be posted on all angles of the tomato industry.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

John Barrymore In Craterian Picture

One of the most powerful... most thrilling... most dynamic screen attractions ever presented in any theatre as celebrated John Barrymore enacts his remarkable role of District Attorney Cardigan in "State's Attorney."

With an unusually able cast featuring Helen Twelvetrees, William (Stage) Boyd, Jill Emond, Mary Duncan and many others, the great Barrymore again demonstrated his right to be acknowledged one of America's renowned actors.

"State's Attorney" is an exciting tale of a notorious criminal lawyer who, through political maneuvering, becomes the public prosecutor. In his new office he proceeds to go after the very element he spent years in defending. However hard he worked as a criminal attorney, he now redoubles his energies as the lawyer for the state.

Helen Twelvetrees is a charming and beautiful love-hungry girl of intrigues and misfortune. Jill Emond and Mary Duncan have very important roles also. William Boyd as "Vanney Powers," criminal "higher up," is excellent as the "bad boy" of the story.

In addition, with this program, an excellent "Singapore Sue" provide plenty of extra entertainment. This entire program remains at the Fox Craterian over tomorrow.

Ruth Chatterton Stars Holly Hit

The huge crowds that attended the Holly yesterday for the opening of Ruth Chatterton's latest picture, "The Rich Are Always With Us," were greeted by "Singapore Sue," provide plenty of extra entertainment. This entire program remains at the Fox Craterian over tomorrow.

Following the talks, the club members were entertained with motion picture reels of snow sports in southern Oregon, presented by Horace Bromley of the California Oregon game company.

Among guests at the luncheon were D. S. Libbey, national park naturalist, and Paul Keen of Portland, advisor of beetle control work in the Crater national park. Both were introduced by Superintendent Solinsky.

GLEEMEN CHANGE REHEARSAL NIGHT

E. W. Shockley, president of the Medford Gleemen, announced today that, according to a decision made last week the male chorus rehearsals will be held on Tuesday evenings.

henceforth, instead of on Monday, has been customary since the organization of the group, and the next regular meeting will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, at Guild hall, on North Oakdale avenue.

Competition for places in the new chorus is keen, and a very few vacancies still exist, principally in the tenor sections, according to James Stevens, director. The chorus is rapidly building its repertoire for its first public appearance, which will probably be made sometime during the latter part of the summer. Forty men from Medford and vicinity compose the chorus group.

GATES AND BAKER TO JUDGE ESSAYS

Walter Gates, one of the owners of Gates and Lodiard's Grocers store, and C. T. Baker, secretary of the Medford Chamber of Commerce, have been selected to act as judges in the tomato essay contest which ended Saturday night. Ed Pierce, of Pierce's hothouse, announced this afternoon.

A number of excellent essays dealing with the tomato industry and the superiority of vine-ripened fruit were entered in this interesting contest, indicating that the people of southern Oregon are becoming acquainted with the quality of Rogue River valley tomatoes.

Winners of the three cash prizes of $15, $7.50 and $5.00 each will be named within the near future after the judges have carefully considered the merits of the essays. Mr. Gates will be posted on all angles of the tomato industry.

GLEEMEN CHANGE REHEARSAL NIGHT

E. W. Shockley, president of the Medford Gleemen, announced today that, according to a decision made last week the male chorus rehearsals will be held on Tuesday evenings.

henceforth, instead of on Monday, has been customary since the organization of the group, and the next regular meeting will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, at Guild hall, on North Oakdale avenue.

Competition for places in the new chorus is keen, and a very few vacancies still exist, principally in the tenor sections, according to James Stevens, director. The chorus is rapidly building its repertoire for its first public appearance, which will probably be made sometime during the latter part of the summer. Forty men from Medford and vicinity compose the chorus group.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late in the afternoon she thought the baby was with his father, the mother told Mrs. Daniels.

Retired Home—A little two-year-old kid, whose name was not learned, wandered from his home on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon, and becoming tired from missing his nap, lay down on the sidewalk on West Tenth street, and fell asleep. Residents there took him to the county jail matron, Mrs. J. E. Daniels, at whose home his mother found him at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Until late