Alaska Jack at Craterian With Film of Arctic

Accompanying the moving picture show "Primitive Love," a tale of Arctic adventure, showing Saturday at the Craterian theater, Alaska Jack, former government guide in the Arctic territory, is in Medford, and in his Alaskan garb, will appear on the stage at the Fox theatre in a special feature.

Formerly a prospector, Alaska Jack has spent many years in the north country, and knows many interesting tales of the settlements. He will offer an imaginary journey through the Arctic territory in his brief presentation.

Alaska Jack is the father of the first white child born on Cape Nome, Alaska, the first day of the twentieth century. His name is Nome Givlin.

Racing Film Scores With Holly Patrons

Those who have attended the showing of "The Crowd Roars" during the past few days agree that for thrills, action, suspense and all-round entertainment, this picture is hard to beat. So realistic are the scenes that fans feel that they were with the principals as they take you through this story.

"The Crowd Roars" is not just a roaring mass of racing cars. The story concerns the life of a famous race driver, both on and off the track.

The short subjects on this program are also very entertaining. Graham McNamee has a lot of interesting news material to work on. Babe Ruth appears in another comedy wherein he teaches a few embryo all-Americans some of the finer points of baseball. A cartoon rounds out the program.

Sunday the Holly will offer another very fine picture but radically different from anything produced thus far this year—"Radio Patrol."

Jimmy Dunn Offers Fine Performance

Today marks the beginning of a two-day theatrical event that is sure to create more than usual enthusiasm in Medford. A combination screen and stage program par excellence is scheduled for the Fox Craterian theater.

On the silver-sheet, hilarity, intermixed with tense romance and much excitement will prevail with "Society Girl," featuring popular James Dunn, lovely Peggy Shannon and that favorite star, Spencer Tracy.

"Society Girl" is the story of an "up and coming" prize fighter who falls desperately in love with a "society dame looking for a thrill." Jimmy Dunn enacts the role of the romantic "jug." Spencer Tracy is his belligerent manager, while Peggy Shannon is the "society dame."

The spectacular added attraction on this program is that celebrated Arctic explorer and ex-government guide, Alaska Jack." his unique and noted character appears upon the Fox Craterian stage at all performances, attired in full Eskimo regalia, and also presents his extraordinary picture of Eskimo life, "Primitive Love."

public relations committee of Portland, headed by Aaron M. Frank. The commission abandoned the emergency relief program last April but yesterday was urged to resume it.

Has Taxpayer Slant Scott had said frequently that he went on the highway commission post with the "taxpayer's viewpoint." He has held that emergency relief work is wasteful and extravagant and that Oregon highway work should be carried out under the contract plan in order that federal aid might be obtained.

Reports were circulated here yesterday that the executive department of the state government favored a bond issue for emergency relief work but Governor Meier himself has never publicly indicated that he favored continuation of relief work.

The public relations committee told
