

Homemakers' Bureau Cooking School Opens at Rialto Wednesday

SAFEWAY STORES
EXPERT TO HOLD
LOCAL SESSIONS

Fox Rialto Selected for 3-Day School—Pastry Making and Quick Entrees on Opening Day Program

Speedy preparation of menus will be featured in the opening cooking school session tomorrow, according to plans announced by Margaret Lenore Coates in charge of Safeway Stores' Homemakers Bureau's three-day cooking school which will be held at the Fox Rialto theatre in this city.

According to Miss Coates each recipe has been selected because of its interest to housewives, as shown in requests to the Safeway Homemakers' Bureau. All recipes in the three sessions will include almost every form of practical cookery.

Miss Coates will open her school with a demonstration of what she calls "fool-proof" pastry. She also will attack the average housewife's "bug-bear"—the successful making of meringue.

Homemakers attending the session will discover many old favorites disguised to make them appear as new dishes. They also will learn how to utilize left-overs and prepare "no-trouble-at-all" meals for unexpected guests.

Margaret Coates also will explain and demonstrate proper ways of making coffee and of setting the luncheon table.

The Safeway Stores' school in Medford will be personally supervised by J. P. Mashburn, district manager.

Cookery Expert Here

Margaret Lenore Coates, popular Pacific Coast home economist and cookery authority selecting groceries for the Safeway Stores' cooking school at one of the Safeway stores in this city. Miss Coates' lectures will be presented at the Fox Rialto theater tomorrow, Thursday and Friday under the auspices of the Homemakers' Bureau of Safeway Stores.

GHIRARDELLI'S RECIPE PACKET FOR HOUSEWIVES

The elimination of grating and melting in chocolate recipes is one of the features of Miss Margaret Lenore Coates' lectures and demonstrations in connection with the Safeway Stores' cooking school. "I have found a chocolate that is a chocolate and that nevertheless comes in powdered form," Miss Coates said. "Chocolate is the refined substance of the cocoa bean, containing all of its natural fat," she continued. "While cocoa is the same substance after most of the natural fat has been removed. Ground chocolate stands between the two in fat content, having less than solid chocolate and more than cocoa." Miss Coates uses Ghirardelli's ground chocolate exclusively in all her chocolate cooking and will show its use in connection with the cooking school, both for making chocolate beverage and for other cooking and baking uses.

As a special souvenir to those who attend the Safeway Homemakers' Bureau cooking school, the famous Sweet Sixteen Recipe Packet in the current edition will be supplied by D. Ghirardelli Co. for each cooking school visitor. This recipe packet has a romantic history in that it was originally developed from the long series of prize winning recipes in the files of the D. Ghirardelli Co.

SCORES OF USES FOR SNOW FLAKE CRACKERS CITED

Snow Flake Sodas, it has been remarked, play a prominent part in the cooking school programs being planned by the Safeway Homemakers' Bureau for local presentation at the Fox Rialto, commencing Wednesday and continuing Thursday and Friday.

The big, red Snow Flake package has come to be the source of no end of culinary creations in western homes. Margaret Lenore Coates, who is conducting the cooking school sessions here, finds a lot of fascination in following the fate of the crackers from just one Snow Flake package.

"Do you know," she says, "that no two crackers from that package need be used for the same purpose?" In explanation she points out how one may accompany the fish cocktail, another may be the hors d'oeuvre, still another completes the soup course, salads are not complete without their complement of Snow Flakes, the breaded chops have been rolled in Snow Flake crumbs, the vegetable dish may take an escaloped form with Snow Flakes as its base, the ice cream needs the balance of a Snow Flake cracker or two . . . and the list might be lengthened out indefinitely. Wherever there is a need for food, there is a place for these deliciously crisp, salted wafers whose oven-freshness and delicate taste have made them the daily standby of thousands of western homemakers.

More than that, homemakers who choose Snow Flake Sodas for their crisp freshness, know that these items are but a part of the dozens of fine cookies and cakes with which cupboard shelves are stocked against the emergency of after-school appetites, the afternoon tea or unexpected guests . . . they're packaged and always ready and best of all, varied and always good.

MAX-I-MUM SYRUP

In the Kitchen

A New Angel Food Cake

- 1 1/2 cups egg whites
  - 1/2 cup cane sugar
  - 1 1/2 cups syrup
  - 1 1/2 cups flour
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1 1/2 teaspoons cream tartar
- Boil syrup to soft ball stage when tested in cold water (232°F.). While boiling syrup, sift some flour and carefully measure 1 1/2 cups. Sift several times. Add salt to egg whites. Use rotary egg beater and beat until foamy. Add cream tartar. Continue beating until mixture "peaks," but is not stiff. Fold in the sugar with an egg whip. When syrup has cooled to 180°F., or until bottom of pan is just warm, pour in a fine stream into the egg whites, folding it in steadily to prevent settling to bottom of mixing bowl. Sift in a small portion of the flour. Fold this in and continue until all of the flour has been added. Pour batter into a water-treated angel food pan. Oven is preheated to 200 degrees—a slow oven. Cake is put in and temperature increased to 325 degrees—a moderate oven. Bake 60 minutes.

Smugglers Busy In German-Dutch Frontier Region

AMSTERDAM.—(AP)—Smuggling across the Dutch frontier from Germany has increased of late at an alarming rate. In one year 15,000 smugglers have been arrested and 1300 bicycles and 125 motor lorries seized. In one district alone 4,000,000 cigarettes, 77,000 pounds of coffee, 74,000 pounds of tobacco, 700,000 pounds of grain, 275,000 pounds of potatoes and 80,000 pounds of sugar were confiscated. In one case smugglers seeking to escape the frontier guards overturned 15 beehives, releasing angry swarms between themselves and the officers, several of whom were badly stung.
