War Film Delights Audience At Holly An angle of the recent world war that has never gotten into the movies before is told in "The Doomed Battalion." Although the picture has the war for its background, it is not exactly a war picture to cover his grafting depredations, resorts to fastening a false crime on an innocent girl. Lewis Stone is an investigating judge, while Anita Page plays the role of the tortured girl. Phillips Holmes is her husband, who moves heaven and earth to free her and punish her tormentors. Seldom has a picture been presented on the local screen that has the fiery excitement and powerful drama contained in "Night Court." Each player seems to actually live his or her role, and the spectators are on edge with tension throughout.
