Wallace Students Receive Praise of Attentive Audience

An especially pleasing program for followers of musical development was presented Thursday evening at St. Mark's Guild hall, when pupils of Imogene Wallace, local instructor of piano, appeared in recital.

The hall was crowded with music minded folk for the evening's program, and each number was received with enthusiastic praise. Each participant played each composition from memory and no faltering blotted the harmony of the evening. The children exhibited in their interpretation of each number splendid training and an understanding of music in advance of their years.

Three Weddings At Lutheran Church. Three wedding ceremonies were solemnized last week on three consecutive days at the Zion English Lutheran church by the pastor, Rev. George P. Kabele, D.D.

On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock Lola Marie Mitchell of Orange, Cal., and James Edwin Gosline of Berkeley, were married, attendance being Miss Ruby Hall and Miss Edna Brewster of Medford.

Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Minnie Ola Peterson of Clark county, Washington, became the bride of Hiram Osborn Dobson of Chico, Cal. They were attended at the service by Mrs. Nellie Dixon of Klamath Falls and Mrs. George P. Kabele of Medford.

On Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock a ceremony was read, uniting in marriage Ruth Frances Coghill of this city and Charles Lemuel Paris of Rogers county, Okla. Guests were Mrs. L. W. Coghill, Mrs. A. C. Coghill, Irene Brewster, Woodrow Reich and Edgar Coghill of Medford.

Robert Bennett On Training Ship. Robert A. Bennett, son of Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Bennett, is taking the Alaska cruise of the navy R. O. T. C. students of the University of Washington, aboard the U. S. destroyer Perry. He will spend the vacation from the university in Medford after July 1.

Mrs. Newhall Returns Home. Mrs. Charles Newhall, who has been spending the past week in Los Angeles, has returned to her home near Jacksonville on the Old Stage road.

Members present to enjoy the hospitality of the hostesses, Frances and Elizabeth Perry, were Misses Florence Gifford, Barbara Hoge, Elizabeth Gilm, Mary Louise McElhose, Lela Henderson, Jean and Elizabeth Gilling and Ruth and Corinne D'Albini.

Students of the Ruth Loy dancing school, appearing in recital at the Holy theater Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, were enthusiastically received by large audiences at each performance. The ambitious program in which the very youngest members of the class participated expressed a pleasing comprehension of music and rhythm, developed by the dancers during the past year.

Although tapping dominated the program, fine toe work, acrobatic numbers and a lovely interpretive dance won much applause from the audience.

The evening's entertainment was presented as one piece, each unit gliding into the dance pattern without a break through delay.

The dancers were accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Antle, Mrs. G. B. Dyer and Miss Beulah Gore, local musicians.

Mistletoe Club Meets Wednesday. The Mistletoe club will meet with Mrs. Hilda Hanson Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Members and friends are invited.

Miss Wilkinson Guest of Bennetts. Miss Nellie B. Wilkinson of Phoenix, Ariz., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Alexander C. Bennett, at the Methodist parsonage.

Jellies for the June Bride

By Alice Blake. When the honeymoon is over and nine of the ten pairs of candlesticks have been exchanged for a wider variety of nice things for the new house, the wise little bride will begin to think of well-cooked meals.

She will be constantly trying out new dishes, but she must keep in mind that friend husband is accustomed to certain old standbys that mother used to make, and will miss them if he doesn't get them.

Jam and jelly are among them. Jelly making is an art as old as anything in the field of home making, but fortunately, jelly making today is not anything like the arduous task it was in grandmother's time. Any bride can make a batch of beautiful, delicious jam or jelly in a quarter of an hour from the time she lights the fire. And she need have no fear of failure, because modern research has provided bottled fruit pectin, which she can buy at any grocery and the use of which assures her that the right proportion of sugar, acid and pectin will be present in her kettle.

Try these recipes. But one word of warning. If you wish to give that new husband a jelly and jam which not only equals but surpasses "Mother's," follow the recipes exactly.

Strawberry Jelly. Blackberry Jelly. 4 cups (2 lbs.) juice. 7 1/2 cups (3 1/4 lbs.) sugar. 1 bottle fruit pectin.

To prepare jelly, crush thoroughly or grind about 3 quarts fully ripe berries. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice.

Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 1/2 minutes. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 11 8-ounce glasses.

Black Currant Jam. Red Currant Jam. 4 cups (2 lbs.) crushed fruit. 1/2 cup water. 7 1/2 cups (3 1/4 lbs.) sugar. 1/2 bottle fruit pectin.

To prepare fruit crush thoroughly or grind about 3 quarts fully ripe fruit and measure it into large kettle. Add 1/2 cup water, and stir until mixture boils. (With black currants, use 3/4 cup water.) Simmer, covered, 15 minutes. Add sugar, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in pectin. Skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 11 8-ounce glasses.

Reaching the lake we were rewarded with a marvellous sight. The lake was a deep blue unmarred by a single breath of wind. Spending several hours there we were entranced by the perfect reflections in the water and the clearness of the atmosphere. Before leaving we were tempted to descend to the Sinnott Memorial, where one may gaze into the crater and discover the many different shades of color of the lava below the surface of the water. We later started on the homeward trail.

Bobby, "such odd nests as they slept in! Three blankets and a comforter, or a light mattress was what they used on the cot. You'd think they would line them with feathers, although I did see some things called pillows that were full of feathers."

"I always enjoy going through their personal articles," remarked Susie. "Those things they call scissors, toothbrush and paste, mending kit, mirror, brush, comb, file, soap and talcum are great fun to look at, but absolutely no good for nibbling, however."

"You're right," said a voice which made them jump, but it was only friendly little Sis Rabbit who went on. "They are odd people. Such a scare as I got when they each brought out a small coil of rope and made a clothesline of it, and hung the most outlandish towels on it! Things they call bath towels, and face towels, and wash cloths, and sometimes a heavy sweater or coat, and then again it would be stockings, hankies, undershirts, or gym bloomers and blouses."

"What I can't understand," said Susie gravely, "is why they shed their coverings so often. They go in swimming and wear bathing suits and caps, and at night they put on things called pajamas, and on their feet they sometimes have tennis shoes or oxfords."

"Those flashlights puzzle me," murmured Sis Rabbit, "each girl had one of those, and a pocket knife also, and many had cameras, and maybe a canteen."

"I saw lots of other things in their tents," cried Bobby, "hoping excitedly. They brought small rugs, and sometimes orange crates for dressers, and it was in those I saw pencils and notebooks, storybooks and drinking cups."

"The best place to be is near the kitchen," interrupted Susie, "and watch these Girl Scouts when they eat. Each has her own dishes in a drawstring bag, such as cup, bowl, plate, knife, fork and spoon, and my, how much they do eat."

"O me, O my!" shrieked Bobby Bluejey, "I can hardly wait till camp begins," and away he darted, while Susie Squirrel very thoughtfully buried the button at the foot of a tall pine tree.
