Ann Harding In Craterian Film

For once the term "quantity" can be truthfully coupled with "quality" when the season's biggest combination stage and screen program comes to the Fox Craterian for three outstanding attractions, all combined in one gigantic ensemble are scheduled.

Topping the screen portion of the program is beautiful Ann Harding in her latest and most successful feature picture "Westward Passage."

With a delightful supporting cast including Zazu Pitts, Juliette Compton, Laurence Olivier and Nance O'Neill, this highly romantic as well as compelling drama promises splendid entertainment.

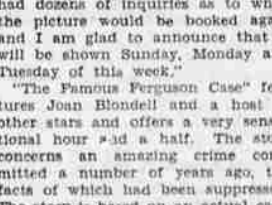

Another dandy film offering is the brand new Laurel and Hardy comedy hit "County Hospital"—and it is one long, hilarious roar of laughter.

The stage attraction is indeed unique. Tex Elliott, red-hot-cha jazz pianist and clever tap dancer will present one of the snappiest acts ever seen in Medford.

Together with Madge De Lasaux, Tex will also present a two-act piano riot of music featuring "burn-em-up" jazz medleys.

Today's performances will be continuous from 2:00 till 11 o'clock p. m.

MONDAY MEETING WILL HEAR PLAN FOR JOB RELIEF

Frank L. Applegate, E. J. Knutson, H. G. Wilson and W. H. Jarmin, would form Association.

Among features of the recommendations to be laid before the gathering will be formation of an association of unemployed who wish to work for such necessities as they are unable to pay cash for, eligibility to depend on county citizenship and ruling by a committee; creation of a business agent's office by the city council, without extra burden upon the taxpayer; the association to issue "labor agreements," the "agreements" to be sold and funds derived placed in care of the city treasurer; formation of committees to organize the plan, develop and direct the various activities.

As an illustration of how the plan would function, the procedure in the case of one no longer able to pay for city water is cited by the committee as follows:

"The unemployed man would first join the association and sign an individual labor agreement for the amount of the water. He would then be given an order for the water and an association labor agreement, endorsed by the business agent for the unemployed to the amount of the order, which association labor agreement the city would accept for water payment in lieu of cash."

Storehouse Needed. Similar systems would be worked out with the electric light company and for other necessities. It is recommended that immediate steps be taken to secure a storehouse in which supplies can be stored for that no witnesses were examined. Later this charge was modified.

BATES SCHEDULED FOR ARRAIGNMENT IN COMING WEEK

The affair grew out of a dispute over mining matters in the Poods creek district, and is highly involved. Bates was tried in the justice court at Gold Hill twice, and on his final appearance Justice H. D. Reed ruled that if Bates would leave the state to live with Rln in Washington, the jail sentence would not be invoked. It was thought because of his years, that this was the most humane course, and would end the controversy. Instead, it became more disputatious.

Bates returned, it is reported, the past week to answer the indictment. The case will be brought to trial before a jury as soon as a petit jury is called. M. O. Wilkins, an attorney of Ashland, is listed as defending Bates.

Buster Keaton Has Part Rialto Comedy

Hilarious laughter will reign at the Fox Rialto theater today and tomorrow when that exceedingly funny comedy feature "The Passionate Plumber," starring "frozen-faced" Buster Keaton, together with a whole galaxy of clever fun-makers headed by Jimmy Durante, shows on the Main street playhouse screen.

Those who saw "The Passionate Plumber" not only were very slow in forgetting this riotous picture, but ever since have been lavish in their praise.

Another member of this comedy cast is none other than Polly Moran. Irene Purcell plays the leading feminine role opposite Keaton.

Included among the added attractions on this program is a screamingly funny comedy "Use Your Noodle" starring stuttering Roscoe Ates. Also a clever novelty "Take Your Medicine" and a timely Paramount News event.

The performances today will be continuous from 2:00 till 11 o'clock p. m.
