

SAWMILL, CANNERY REOPENING HOLDS LABOR PROSPECT

James H. Owen, general manager of the Owen-Oregon Lumber Sales company, said this morning that he was making plans for operation of "one side of the local sawmill" and making an effort to have it in operation by next Monday or "shortly thereafter." Manager Owen said that there were a number of details to be arranged which might occasion a short delay.

Manager Owen said that the operation was "more or less of an experiment" and that it would be upon the co-operative profit basis, the same as recently adopted in the company's logging camp. He said the company was now employing 40 men in the timber and close to 100 would be employed in the sawmill, which includes the planing mill, dry kilns and yard.

The first trainload of logs over the Medford logging road in several months was received last Friday, a second shipment was received Saturday and at least one trainload of logs is expected this week.

Manager Owen stated his company was endeavoring to furnish employment to its old employees and that they would be given first consideration. The plant has been operating on a reduced basis. "The new system," said Mr. Owen, "will provide some employment for those already engaged and keep them from being jobless."

Manager Ralph U. Boutelle of the Rogue River Canning company said today that the plant expected to start in a week or ten days on the 1932 cherry pack. Manager Boutelle said "between 25 and 30 people will be employed—probably more."

Workers are now engaged in putting the plant in order and completing improvements, including enlarging of the drying room and removal of the cafeteria to the upper floor.

Owing to heavy rains during the period of pollenization the cherry crop this season will be short. Some of the growers figure the cherries will be ready to pick within a week or ten days as they are now ripening fast.

YOUTH SUSPECTED SLAYING MOTHER VICTIM OF CRASH

OTTAWA, Ill., June 20.—(AP)—An airplane accident has brought death to Harry Hill, 27, of Streator, Ill., former Knox college student, and heir to the estate of his mother for whose slaying he was tried in 1927. Hill and two companions, Bert Lorenz of Streator and John Marshall, 20, of Berkeley, Cal., were killed yesterday when the airplane Hill was piloting, fell at the local airport. The plane dove to the ground from an altitude of about 200 feet. Hill and Lorenz died almost instantly.

The jury which tried young Hill for matricide, disagreed, but the case is still on the docket for re-trial, having lain dormant for several years due to a shortage of county funds to finance its prosecution. Meanwhile Hill, who maintained his innocence, had been at liberty.

Hill was seized in Seattle, Wash., Sept. 3, 1927, after the body of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hill was found in a grave in the basement of her Streator home. Her known opposition to her son's friendship with a young Streator woman, financial troubles and his absence from the city, turned

SON OF MENJOU HELD FOR DEATH OF YOUNG GIRL

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—(AP)—Harold L. Menjou, 20, an adopted son of Adolphe Menjou, screen actor, faced a police accusation of suspicion of murder today after his companion, Marjorie Gauthier, 16-year-old Beverly Hills high school girl, had been killed in an attempt to out-race a motorcycle officer.

Near the Los Angeles municipal airport, Menjou failed to negotiate a sharp turn, the automobile turning over. The girl was injured so badly she died before reaching a hospital. Menjou was uninjured. He was given a sobriety test which showed, officers stated, that he had been drinking, but was not intoxicated at the time of the examination. He was locked up in the Inglewood jail and sheriff's deputies said a formal charge of murder would be placed against him.

Miss Gauthier was the daughter of C. B. Gauthier, Beverly Hills geologist. Menjou is the son of a former wife of the screen actor, and was formally adopted by Menjou in 1923. The youth said his mother married A. L. Abrahams after divorce and that he made his home with her. He said he had not seen the actor for some time.

VETERANS HOPE BOURBONS WILL SUPPORT BONUS of the ex-soldiers started formulating a "platform" of their own.

Still rather nebulous today, the platform had one definite plank: repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Two Chicanos, William S. Keyser of Cleveland, and M. Bernstein of Dayton, proposed it, and the legislative group, composed of representatives of each major contingent or regiment in the army, approved it without difficulty. The general idea is that, falling Democratic support, the soldiers should give their vote to some third party movement.

Numbers Shift. The exact size of the army, somewhere around 20,000, was much in doubt today. Many "veteran" members were taking French leave, but new contingents were pouring in, aided by the wide-spread word that the army was gathering abundant food, appeared to be bearing some results.

The lack of an immediate objective, however, was helping stir friction in the ranks. A disgruntled former commander, George Aiman of Portland, Oregon, was seeking support from the men against his ouster from the post of billeting officer because of a quarrel with police authorities. Walter W. Waters, the present commander in chief, late last night, asked police to arrest Richard Lamb, 35, of Dallas, leader of the Texas contingent, saying his status as an ex-service man was questioned. He was held on an "investigation" charge.
