SENATE APPROVES RELIEF BILL

Galls Creek Man, Despondent, Blows Self to Bits

Comment on the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS.

THE UNITED STATES says to Europe:

"If you are going to go on spending vast sums for huge armaments, we shall expect you to pay us the war debt you owe us."

SUPPOSE your neighbor owed you $100, and on every possible occasion he protested tearfully to you that he couldn't pay because he had no money.

Then suppose you saw this neighbor patronizing the bootlegger regularly, paying out large sums of good money for bad liquor.

What would you think? What would you say?

THE CHANCES are you would say to him:

"Look here; if you can find the money with which to buy bootleg booze at high prices, you can find the money with which to pay the debt you owe me. So either quit patronizing the bootlegger or quit asking me to reduce your debt."

That is exactly what the United States is saying to Europe, and to this writer it sounds like hard common sense.

AT THE school election up in The Dalles the other day, they voted on this question:

"Shall teachers who use tobacco, even in their own homes and entirely apart from their work, be given contracts to teach in the schools of this city?"

The answer of the voters, by a fairly large majority, was: "Yes."

THE POINT RAISED, of course, by the question on the ballot at The Dalles is this:

"Does the teacher who uses tobacco, even in his own home and away from his work, set a bad example to young people, thus breaking down their moral fiber and leading them to form bad habits?"

This is assuming, for the sake of argument, that smoking is a bad habit. Some people think it is. Others think it isn't.

BUT SUPPOSE we agree that smoking by the very young is a habit that should be discouraged. There is ample medical testimony to that effect. The question that then arises is this:

"How shall we go about it to keep children from WANTING to learn to smoke?"

If they WANT to learn to smoke, they probably WILL learn.

IF YOU are a smoker, where did you learn to smoke? Out behind the barn, probably, if there was a barn handy, and in some equally secret place if there wasn't.

And the chances are you got a MUCH bigger thrill out of doing something that was forbidden than out of the act of smoking itself, which probably made you sick and thoroughly miserable.

THE POINT is that it was the thrill of doing the forbidden that kept you at it, in spite of your nauseated and heaving stomach.

Human nature, you know, is human nature. Mother Eve was told she must'nt eat the apple, and forthwith she went and ATE the apple, because she wanted to find out what would happen if she did.

Her descendants have been following in her footsteps ever since.

THERE are things, of course, that we MUST forbid. Murder, for example. And robbery. And a lot of things that interfere with the rights of OTHER PEOPLE to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

We CAN'T let every big bully who feels the urge to do so go about killing and robbing and bulldozing. The COMBINED might of the majority must be made superior to the strong arm of the selfish and wilful individual.

That is what law and order are for.

But in the case of personal habits, such as smoking, which concern the individual himself much more closely than they concern anybody else, it is the opinion of this writer, who may be wrong and doesn't wish to set himself up as an infallible au-

$2,300,000,000 OUTLAY PLANNED IN DEM. PROGRAM

Upper House Adds Direct Relief Loan Measure to Force House Consideration—Hoover Veto Seen

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP)—The $2,300,000,000 Democratic unemployment relief program was approved today by the senate.

The gigantic relief bill was passed without a record vote amid a chorus of Ayes.

The senate passed the entire Democratic program in one bill adding at the last moment the $300,000,000 measure for direct relief loans to states, which it approved two weeks ago.

A presidential veto was freely predicted by administration senators in view of the bill's provision for a $500,000,000 public works bond issue, to which President Hoover is opposed.

The final form of the measure is still a matter of speculation, however, as it carried to conference with it the $2,300,000,000 Garner relief bill which was passed by the house. A compromise will be worked out.

The senate added the $300,000,000 bill in order to get in conference because the refusal of house leaders to consider the measure separately.

The bill also would authorize a $1,500,000,000 increase in the borrowing power of the reconstruction corporation for loans on self-liquidating construction projects.

Of this sum $40,000,000 would be allocated to disposing of agricultural surpluses abroad.

JACKSON RECOUNT MAY BE ASKED IN HAWLEY BALLOTS

SALEM, June 23.—(AP)—Willis C. Hawley, who apparently was defeated for the Republican nomination for representative in congress for the first district by James W. Mott, state corporation commissioner, has not yet determined whether he will demand a recount of the votes at the primary election.

Hawley said today that he was investigating reports of alleged irregularities received from several counties, but was not yet ready to announce a decision. Friends of Hawley indicated that the recount, if demanded, would be confined to Clatsop, Marion and Jackson counties.

The law provides that a recount must be requested within five days after the official canvass is announced by the secretary of state.

Hawley recently returned to Oregon to attend the Woodmen of the World convention.

JONES ELECTED OREGON LEADER OF GRAND ARMY

CORVALLIS, Ore., June 23.—(AP)—James W. Jones, of Portland, was elected state commander of the Oregon encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic here Wednesday at the 51st annual convention of the order. Salem was chosen for the 1933 encampment.

C. O. Goaney of Marshfield was named department commander of the Sons of Veterans. G. R. Stover, of Salem, was chosen senior vice-commander and Mrs. Alice Adams, of Salem, was elected president of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Mabel Ragsdale of Baker, was chosen department president of the ladies of the G. A. R.; Susanne Hammond, of Portland, was elected senior vice-president, and Wanda Barnes, of Springfield, junior vice-president.

Mrs. Florence Shipp of Salem was named president of the Woman's Relief corps and Mrs. Anne Warren of Portland was named president of the Daughters of Union Veterans.

TALENT FRUITGROWERS' CLUB TO MEET FRIDAY

The regular monthly meeting of the Talent Irrigation club will be held Friday evening, June 24, at the irrigation office in Talent. L. G. Gentner will explain methods and results of tree handing and W. H. Gore will speak on some of the growers' problems. All growers are asked to attend.

MEIER OPPOSES SCHOOL MERGER; SEES NO SAVING

PORTLAND, Ore., June 23.—(AP)—Opposition to the proposed consolidation of the University of Oregon and Oregon State college on the campus at Corvallis, as proposed by the Marion County Taxpayers' league, was expressed by Governor Julius L. Meier in an official statement, released yesterday, to Henry Zorn, the president of the league.

The governor said he was "of the opinion that the proposed measure would not be conducive to savings to the taxpayers but on the contrary would result in large economic losses."

Single Chancellor Better

Both the taxpayers of the state and higher education will, in the opinion of the governor, "be better served by the merger of the management of these higher institutions of learning under a single chancellor, as contemplated by the act creating the state board of higher education."

Replying to charges by Zorn that the state board of higher education is using state funds to send staff members of the University of Oregon and university alumni officials on speaking trips against the measure initiated by the Marion league, Governor Meier said:

"I fully agree with you that the funds appropriated for the maintenance and operation of the institution of higher learning should not be used for or against the proposed legislation, and I have asked Dr. E. E. Lindsay, secretary of the board,

REPLY AMENDED IN OIL CO. CASE

An amended reply was filed late yesterday in the suit of W. A. Chapman against the General Petroleum Co. by Attorneys Kelly and Kelly, seeking a cancellation of the lease on the Camp Withus service station. Testimony in the case was heard the first of the week by Circuit Judge T. E. J. Duffy of Deschutes county.

The amended reply sets forth that the oil company agreed under the lease to pay $5 per month rental and 1 cent per gallon for every gallon of its product sold. It is alleged that the oil company evaded these terms and failed to comply with them. Decision in the suit is held in abeyance by Judge Duffy.

BATES GETS TIME TO PERFECT PLEA

An order was issued in the circuit court late yesterday extending the time for F. A. Bates, aged Gold Hill miner, more or less in the local public eye, to enter a plea to the indictment charging him "with threatening the commission of a felony."

Bates was first granted ten days in which to plead and the order extends it to "an indefinite period."

Bates is at liberty on bond of $500 provided by his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Lund, of Gold Hill and L. A. Banks, orchardist. Bates recently returned from Washington state, where he was with his kin, to answer the indictment.

VOICE OF MURRAY ADDED TO CHORUS ROOSEVELT'S FOES

Alfalfa Bill Says Nominee Will Not Be New York Governor—Smith Chides Claim of Pledged Votes

CHICAGO, June 23.—(AP)—A new voice was raised against the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt today as the forces of the New York governor took charge of the resolutions committee and sought to make economic issues instead of prohibition the dominant theme.

Two more presidential candidates arrived—Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma and former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri.

Murray said the presidential nominee would not be Roosevelt.

Later, Alfred E. Smith, the vigorous campaigner of 1928, told newspapermen he did not believe a candidate would be named on the first ballot. He is one of the strongest opponents of Roosevelt.

For Economy Emphasis

Gilbert M. Hitchcock, the Roosevelt picked chairman of the resolutions committee, said as he opened its first session the prohibition issue should be met, but the platform should emphasize economic issues.

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J., floor manager for Smith, laughed at a report Smith and Roosevelt had agreed upon Owen D. Young as the presidential nominee in the event of a convention deadlock.

At his regular press conference Smith was asked what he thought of the big Roosevelt map at headquarters which shows 691 votes instructed, pledged and claimed for the New York governor.

"As an exhibit it looks good," Smith said. "The idea was stolen from the anti-saloon league. Wayne B. Wheeler fixed up a map like that and painted in the dry states as blue and the red states as wet and used it to impress the state legislatures."

Too Much Territory

Smith added the Roosevelt map showed more territory than population.

He said there was a contest in Minnesota and that a "stop light" should be put on that state until the contest was settled.

"According to that map there are only two or three little places that ain't for Roosevelt. Those little places are really big places. They have a lot of population.

"I didn't see Pennsylvania on there. What color is that? What is my color—Brown?"

Informed he was credited with about 10 Pennsylvania delegates the former governor said "there will have to be more than that."

Asked if he had seen James A. Farley, manager for governor Roosevelt, Smith said they had met.

"Have you called Governor Roosevelt since you came here?"

No Call From Roosevelt

"I know that number well. It hasn't called me yet."

Informed William G. McAdoo had expressed a desire to talk to him, Smith said: "I'm not adverse to it."

VETERANS SIEGE IN VAIN; SENATE KILLS BONUS

Thousands of world war veterans massed on the steps of the capitol to await the outcome of the senate's vote on the Patman bill for immediate payment of the soldier's bonus. After nine hours of debate the senate defeated the bill. There was no disorder but when the ex-service men learned that it failed many of them said they would stay in Washington until the bill was passed.

TIDAL WAVE HITS WESTERN MEXICO WITH HEAVY LOSS

MEXICO CITY, June 23.—(AP)—Mexican relief agencies were concentrated today on the task of alleviating the suffering of thousands of people in towns along the west coast which were virtually wiped out yesterday by a tidal wave that took a toll of two score lives.

Accurate check of the casualties was not possible today because of the disorganized condition of the territory.

Colima reported that the known number injured there was 62, but it could not be determined how many lives were lost.

Governor Salvador Saucedo of the state of Colima left today for Cuyutlan, where the wave struck hardest, to take charge of the situation. Before he left he called Mexico City to appeal for public aid.

He said the death toll at Cuyutlan, a resort town, now had passed forty with additional missing and more than 100 injured. The wave was preceded by sharp earthquake shocks.

Two relief trains left here for Cuyutlan. The first train evacuated 1,400 persons from the town.

The governor reported the tidal wave swept inland for more than a mile over an 18-mile front, leveling everything in its path.

Soldiers were searching for additional victims, and burning thousands of dead fish left on the beach when the waves receded. Danger of disease made necessary temporary evacuation of the inhabitants.

GERMANY OFFERS FRENCH ALLIANCE TO ALLAY FEARS

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP)—Insistence by the French government upon a security pact, reported in press dispatches from Geneva concerning President Hoover's arms slash plan, brought the assertion today in high governmental quarters that the United States under no condition would consider entering such an agreement.

President Hoover and his diplomatic advisors watched closely the reaction to the proposal for reducing the world's arms by one-third, at an estimated saving of around $15,000,000,000 in the next decade, and a general tone of optimism prevailed.

TOKYO, June 23.—(AP)—Conversations with high officials of the foreign office, the army and the navy produced the impression today that Japan is likely to follow the lead of France in dealing with President Hoover's new armaments proposals.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, June 23.—(AP)—Chancellor Franz von Papen of Germany today proposed privately a military alliance between France and Germany as a means of meeting France's demand for security before disarmament.

Such an alliance, which would represent the lion and the lamb lying down together in the field of European military affairs, would, he said, be the best way of solving the problems which face the disarmament conference as a result of the French fear of invasion and their security plea.

Anxious For Agreement

Speaking English, with a pronounced American accent—he was a German agent in the United States in the early years of the World war—the greying chancellor added that he was unable to understand the French security pleas, but that he intended to do everything in his power to foster collaboration between the two countries.

It was he who prepared the memorandum on economic collaboration which was presented yesterday to Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain by Baron von Neurath, German foreign minister. The memorandum proposed a five-year consultative economic pact.

It summarized the reasons why Germany insists she can make no more reparations payments and suggested that all the countries at the conference here agree for five years to take no steps likely to harm the trade of others without consulting all other signatories to the pact.

Meets Herriot's Ideas

This suggestion, the chancellor said he believed, fits Premier Herriot's notions of continental business reconstruction.

He said he had sounded the views of other statesmen on his suggestion of a military alliance with France, but did not reveal their reaction to the plan.

Asked whether he had the plan

TRUCK OWNERS IN ORGANIZATION FOR SELF-PROTECTION

A Jackson-Josephine county unit to the Oregon Truck and Mill Owners' association was formed here last night and organization of the southern Oregon branch of the Allied Truck Owners' association completed at the two meetings, one at the chamber of commerce, the other at the Armory. The meetings were called to develop plans for showing the damage to be brought to southern Oregon industry should the proposed ruling of the state highway commission on limitation of loads and the Freight Truck and Bus bill become effective.

George Brewer was elected president of the Truck and Mill Men's association, Floyd Fink of Grants Pass, vice-president; O. N. Anderson, Medford, secretary-treasurer; R. A. Taylor, Ashland, and Chas. Skeeters, Talent, were named to act with the first three to form the executive council.

W. S. Bolger, president of the chamber of commerce outlined the purposes of the meeting, pointing out that if too drastic reductions are made in the weights of loads the ruling will bring complete abandonment of certain southern Oregon industries. Because of the proposed reduction, he stated, it will be necessary to present to the state highway commission information showing the important place played by the trucking business in southern Oregon's progress, especially relative to the logging and lumber trades.

A telegram from F. C. Walters, president of the Oregon Association of Mill and Truck Owners, was read, urging formation of a strong unit here and announcing that the state highway commission will allow the organization to present its case next week.

The meeting at the chamber of commerce adjourned at 8:30 in order for those in attendance to continue to the Armory, where the Allied Truck Owners' association was in meeting, with 90 members in attendance.

Ralph Staehli, field representative of the organization, gave a resume of the contents of the freight truck and bus bill, showing that it will increase taxes on all for hire trucks and contract busses but leaves the common carrier bus exempt.

Trucks and busses pay in licenses, mileage fees and gas tax alone, more than 17 per cent of the total highway revenues, it was stated at the meeting.

The next regular meeting will be held in Klamath Falls July 9, and regular meetings will be held in this city by the association every two weeks.

Postpone Hearing In Divorce Action

The circuit court today issued an order postponing the hearing of the testimony of Alice Evenslser in the divorce action of Helen V. Barnum against George A. Barnum until July 8 next. She was subpoenaed to testify today. It was also ordered by the court that the subpoena remain in effect until July 8.

G. DANIELSON, 75, LIES ON DYNAMITE AND FIRES FUSE

Posse Finds Mangled Remains Near Cabin—Neighbors Relate Threats Suicide—Ill Health Cause

G. Danielson, 75, a resident of the Galls Creek district near Gold Hill, despondent over ill health, ended his life late yesterday afternoon by setting off a blast of dynamite beneath his body. A posse headed by Deputy Sheriff Oscar W. (Ike) Dunford, found the mangled remains, a short distance from his cabin, shortly after noon today.

According to reports to the sheriff's office, Danielson told neighbors yesterday afternoon he intended to take his own life, and was last seen alive about five o'clock going to his home. An hour or so later, the neighbors heard a blast, but thought it might have been caused by mine operations or stump blasting.

Cabin Found Locked

This morning, not seeing the aged man, they went to his cabin, and found it padlocked from the outside. The sheriff was called, and a search instituted.

Danielson, weak from illness, was unable to travel far and was found near a brushy spot, about a mile from his home. He had evidently lighted the fuse to a small piece of dynamite and lain down upon it to await death, which was instantaneous.

Danielson was a resident of the Gold Hill district for many years. The past two years he had been ill, and the past month friends and neighbors have urged him to go to the county farm for medical care. This he refused to do. Added to his worry, a son is in a Salem institution.

Coroner Conger left this afternoon, to bring the body to this city.

Fifth Carload Of Furniture Received By Weeks And Orr

A carload of bedroom and dining room furniture has just been received by Weeks & Orr of this city for a special selling event now being conducted by this well known Medford firm. This carload brings the number of full carload shipments of furniture, received by Weeks & Orrs since the middle of March, to five, which evidences good business at this furniture store.

Recently three carloads of davenport sets were received by Weeks & Orrs. These shipments were made direct from the manufacturers, Roberts Brothers of Los Angeles.

Boy Arrested On Phoenix Charge

Raymond G. Buck, a transient youth, was arrested by the state police near Roseburg Wednesday on a warrant sworn to by W. Gaddis of the Phoenix district charging him with theft. Buck applied for and received work as a farm hand and after working two days is alleged to have departed in the night, taking with him personal effects belonging to Gaddis. He will be brought back today for trial.

Nurse Tells Technique Of Hutton as Lothario

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—(AP)—The cozy divan of Myrtle St. Pierre, where she claimed love blossomed between herself and David Hutton, was trundled back into the trial today of the $200,000 breach of promise suit brought against the singing husband of Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, by the twice married nurse.

Professions of love and tender hand kissing episodes were recounted by Miss St. Pierre but the telling of them was in sharp contrast to the manner in which she said Hutton executed them. Scenes, intended to be gentle, were blasted with harshness as she and Hutton's attorney, persistent cross questioner with a penchant for minute detail, went down the rocky road to Dublin, in testing her memory.

Once the court had to restrain the lawyer, Mark Jones, for the hearty manner in which he couched his questions. "Please do not yell at the witness," Superior Judge Roth admonished, but it was not again long before the lawyer and the witness were batting at a .400 clip in their wordy exchanges.

She related how, the first week after they were introduced to one another, Hutton was at her little Hollywood bungalow and she was making salad. And while she mixed, David bestowed kisses upon her. The divan entered the picture.

"You're sure David kissed you?"

"Yes."

"Did you kiss him?"

Miss St. Pierre dropped her shoulders wearily, asked for the smelling salts, inhaled a draught, which brought her bolt upright, and exploded:

"Mr. Jones, that is a strange question. When one person kisses another, naturally the person that is kissed is also kissing the other. That's what a kiss is."

She told how they sat on the divan and David poured forth his love for her and trying to put his arms around her, she resisted so he bent low and caressed her hands. But she denied she was in love with him then, believing him only a "nice, pleasing gentleman." Other things happened while they sat on the divan, she said, including the disclosure by Hutton that he had a limp. He pulled up his trouser leg and she inspected a deformity. Later in the evening, the profession of love, born within a week of their meeting, grew into proposal of marriage. Then he tried a kiss and she warned him: "We must not have any more of these intimacies."

Between recesses the crowds fought for seats and barricades at the courtroom doors groaned, and the day got hotter, but there was no decline in the throng's enthusiasm.

The witness related how David first kissed her.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., June 22.—Say you all got to quit knocking congress. Didn't you see what they did yesterday? Passed a bill to cut their own salaries. Come on, let's give the boys a great big hand. That was mighty good of 'em at that.

Well, how did your taxes work? Everybody is wondering how they come to tax the articles that they did. Well I found out how it was done. They give each member permission to bring in the name of some article that he particularly didn't like personally and they put a tax on for him.

Yours,

Will Rogers.
