Crater Lake Waltz Song At Craterian By George Andrews

Medford music lovers were afforded a treat last night at the Fox Craterian theatre in the presentation by George Andrews, Medford baritone, of Victor Tengelwald's new Crater Lake waltz, words and melody of which are truly descriptive of southern Oregon's scenic wonder. The song will be presented again tonight by Mr. Andrews, accompanied by Madge De LaSaux.

The song was well received by last night's theater crowd and is expected to prove to be a popular melody. In view of the widespread appeal of its subject. Different and in its own class, when compared to the average waltz, Mr. Tengelwald's composition is devoted to nature's handiwork, without the element of "heart" interest, which in many cases has made it difficult to determine one waltz from another.

Its musical worth was further enhanced by the voice of Mr. Andrews and the well rounded accompaniment of Miss De LaSaux. The song will be on sale this summer in Medford and also at Crater Lake.

Crater lake moving pictures, furnished by the national park service, were shown in conjunction with the song presentation.

Mystery Drama On Craterian Screen

Characterization, as the fundamental requisite of all entertaining pictures, was again forcefully demonstrated yesterday at the Rio Rialto where Joan Bennett stood judgment for her life in "The Trial of Vivienne Ware." It is a tenebrous mystery drama that fairly breathes the unusual in every foot of its telling.

Guest of Stanley's—Mrs. John W. Curry of Washington, D. C., who formerly lived in Medford, arrived here on the Shasta at noon today to be the guest of Lt. and Mrs. H. A. Stanley at their home on Crater Lake highway. She plans to spend the summer here.

Skeets Gallagher races through the spontaneous characterization of a popular radio announcer, Zasu Pitts mournfully and inaccurately covers the fashions and what-ifs—more angle of the trial. Miss Bennett, appearing as the society beauty accused of murder, enjoys the best role ever assigned to her.

Robinson Scoring In Holly Picture

Those who saw the opening performance of Edward G. Robinson in "Two Seconds" at the Holly yesterday were greeted with a dramatic smash from this great character actor. Robinson is noted for his ability as a character actor and in this picture adds another link to the statement that he is the man of 1000 characters.

"Two Seconds" is a powerful drama about John Allen and his buddy who are steel workers. John Allen has a keen desire to become something more than a steel worker and has great respect for anyone who has an education, feeling that through them he can better himself. This passion, however, the cause of his downfall and furnishes a powerful story.

Western Thriller Soon At Craterian

Charles Middleton has practiced screen villainy in many pictures, but he claims never to have been quite the arch villain he is in "Mystery Ranch," which comes to the Fox Craterian, for two days, Friday and Saturday, June 24 and 25.

George O'Brien and Cecilia Parker portray the leading roles in this drama of the great outdoors based on Stewart Edward White's widely read novel, "The Killer," which is a thriller packing excitement and romance into a lickety-split, galloping-and-go action picture that is sure to please. Scenes of splendor and beauty, photographed in the wonderland of Arizona, are eye treats in rare photography.

MANY VEXATIONS FOUND AT FINISH COURT HOUSE JOB

Finishing touches are being applied to the new county court house with the usual vexations delays, according to a report filed with the county court by Superintendent of Construction Harry Turner.

Superintendent Turner reports that the painting contractor has returned to Portland, as too much dirt and dust are now flying to permit a good job of painting. The superintendent further decrees that some of the plastering repairs made by plumbers while at work will not do, as the repairs are not up to specifications and "look bad." He declares he will not approve of the job as it now stands and intimates that the plumber should stick to his monkey wrench and the pliaseter to his trowel.

The roof is finished and the full equipment installation nearly so, the report states. The marble setting, plastering and general fixing is well under way. The stone work on the first floor was washed down yesterday and looks good. The carpenters on the job were laid off the first of the week as there is no carpentering to do.

It is now expected that the court house will be ready for occupancy by October 1, which allows some time for unexpected and unavoidable delays.

The local post of the American Legion has written a letter to the county court asking that the county buy a flag from the post to float from the flagpole atop the roof.

VOICE OF MURRAY ADDED TO CHORUS ROOSEVELT'S FOES

"Does it look like a first ballot nomination to you?" he was asked. "Not to me."

Smith was asked if there had been any progress in the stop Roosevelt movement.

"They are not reporting to me. I haven't seen any of the candidates here in Chicago."

"Have you received and encouragement since your arrival in Chicago?"

"Well, I don't think I have any more delegates than when I came because I haven't seen any of the delegations."

Tammany Holds Key Governor Murray, who holds the 22 delegates of his home state and one from North Dakota, arrived to find supporters of Roosevelt pinning their hopes for an early nomination upon whether Tammany chooses to support Roosevelt with the big block of New York votes. This Tammany decision may determine, also, whether Roosevelt forces will seek to abolish the time worn two theories rule.

"Who do you think the nominee will be?" the Oklahoma governor was asked as he stepped from the train. "You can guess as well as I can," he said, "but his name won't be Roosevelt."

The tall Oklahoma pulled a big black fedora hat over one eye, wound a brown scarf around his neck and shouted to a group of photographers: Grip Full of Clairs

"Will you touch that grip of mine. It's full of good five-cent campaign cigars."

The governor then declared he would support J. J. Pendergast for permanent chairman of the convention; that he was against changing the two thirds rule, and that he would prefer Will Rogers as his running mate if he were nominated.

"Will you know, is a good Oklahoma man, too," he said. The governor predicted a fight over
