They will stop in San Francisco en route, to visit friends, and were anticipating a jolly vacation in the south when they left Medford last evening.

Joan Blondell and Stuart Erwin are co-featured in "Make Me a Star," a comedy romance coming to the Fox Craterian Friday and Saturday. Miss Blondell has risen from obscurity to stardom in the past two years, and has been rewarded with one of the biggest fan-mail lists in Hollywood. She was "discovered" on Broadway in a small part and drafted into motion pictures. Her first big hit came with her characterization of a "hard-boiled" type in "Office Wife" with Dorothy Mackall. Supporting her are Stuart Erwin who has risen quickly to comedy-sympathy parts, Zasu Pitts, who furnishes additional humor and Ben Turpin furnishing gales of laughter as the successful comedian who looks very suspiciously like Ben Turpin himself.

WIDE PUBLICITY GIVEN TO CRATER

Nation-wide publicity has come to Crater Lake again—this time in two publications, the New York Times and the Ford News. The July issue of the latter carries a full page, beautifully illustrated article on the lake, entitled "Through Snow to Sky-Blue Water." In the photographs are shown making the trip through the record snow of last year, the lake under snow mantle and the lodge and other buildings at the rim.

In the New York Times, the rotogravure picture section carries a photograph of Captain Lewis Yancey in his recent flight in an autogiro over Crater lake. "A Pilot From the East Flies Over an Extinct Volcano in Oregon," is the caption.

BILL COLLECTOR HIT BY ANGERED DEBTOR

For assaulting Carl Brommer, of a local credit bureau, when Brommer attempted to make a collection from him, Clarence H. Frick, 30, was fined $10 in justice court this forenoon by Judge Glenn O. Taylor. Brommer called at the Sgobel and Day packing plant to collect the funds, when he was struck by Frick, according to the court report.

Craterian Star

Joan Blondell and Stuart Erwin are co-featured in "Make Me a Star," a comedy romance coming to the Fox Craterian Friday and Saturday.

TO ATTEND RITES GARIBALDI VICTIM

A. Robert Woody, 36, of Garibaldi, Ore., one of the victims in the boat tragedy there July 3, was the acolyte in-law of Mrs. Amy King of San Francisco, formerly of Medford, who was here at the time visiting. She was accompanied here by her daughter, Mrs. Ann Thompson.

Reserves Pile—Dave Davis, charged with assault and battery, reserved his plea until 3 o'clock this afternoon when brought before Judge Glenn O. Taylor in justice court today. The complaint was filed by C. E. Lindemoor.

To Portland—George Henselman of A. E. Pitkin & Co., Ltd., will leave this evening for Portland to remain for the rest of the week in conference with Robert F. Pelouse of Los Angeles, Pacific coast manager and vice-president of the firm. Mr. Henselman plans to return Sunday.

MANY UNREGISTERED FOR NOV. ELECTION

Registration books of the county clerk for the general election Tuesday, November 8, will be closed a month before the election—October 8. Many in the county have not registered, and are urged to do so, as soon as convenient, and avoid any final day rush. Following the May primary, there was a fair registration of delinquent voters, but it has now dropped to zero. Under the Oregon law an unregistered voter gets no ballot.

Bootery Bargains Attracting Women

Hundreds of Southern Oregon women and girls took advantage of the low shoe prices offered by the Bootery today at its semi-annual shoe sale which was launched this morning.

The Bootery's low prices will prevail during the remainder of this shoe event which features spring and summer styles in light colors as well as dark shoes.

State TONITE JACK HOLT Boris Karloff "Behind the Mask"

Sams Valley Has Interesting Meet Grange Members

SAMS VALLEY, July 7.—(Sp.)—Grange meeting was interesting Saturday night, with the following program during the lecture hour: Ten-minute song service; roll, call answered with what has been learned through the present depression; talk entitled "Let Us Forget" and comparing old times with new, by R. E. Nealon; monologue, Melville Smith; review of the benefits derived from farmers' unions, Bill Straus; paper, Mrs. O. T. Wilson.

During the business session R. H. Seegmiller reported his attendance at the Sams Valley Grange session at Silverton. A resolution asking orchard men and other employers to give preference as near as possible to local help and to those needing funds for supporting families, was passed.

James Cagney Has New Role At Holly

"Winner Take All," featuring James Cagney and Marian Nixon is showing at the Holly theater for three days, starting with today. The place was the Sams Valley Grange session at Silverton. A resolution asking orchard men and other employers to give preference as near as possible to local help and to those needing funds for supporting families, was passed.

Cagney appears as Jim Kane, smart also lightweight, who, acclaimed by fight fans for his fearless punches—until he meets up with a Park Avenue baby, gets his nose and ear smartened to please her, and then takes to dancing in the ring. He has a perfectly lovely girl who he had met out west in a resting home. But, although he promises to be true to Peggy, he goes nuts over Joan and even hires an etiquette tutor to teach him not to say "ain't," and how to hold his cane, and what to do at a musical and such.

Roy del Ruth gives the inimitable Cagney cheerful direction and there's a happy supporting cast which includes Marion Nixon, Guy Kibbee, Dickie Moore, Clarence Muse, Virginia Bruce and others.

Zero will appear at the Holly during this picture also and his splendid work and uncanny mind has folks who have seen him wondering.

TRIBUNE AD KEEPS WINKLE AT PHONE

"It pays to advertise!" "It must," says Dr. E. W. Winkle today in a low voice, exhausted by the demands of telephone conversationalists who have insisted upon giving him "a young or middle aged lady to do light house-work," since appearance yesterday afternoon of an advertisement in the Mail Tribune.

Dr. Winkle is manager here of the Riggs Optical company and he isn't wanting anyone to do light house-work. His telephone number, however, happens to coincide with the house number of someone who does. The ad, appearing in yesterday's Mail Tribune, requesting female help, ended with the following address: 1038 Queen Anne Ave." The number appeared on one line and the avenue on the other. So many readers in their haste and anxiety for jobs, obviously read only the number and hurried to call "1038," the telephone number of Riggs Optical Co.

CRATER LAKE FISHING POPULAR ATTRACTION

CRATER LAKE NATIONAL PARK, Ore.—(Sp.)—With the crater wall trail open and rental boats available, fishing in Crater Lake has become one of the popular park attractions. Several good catches of rainbow and steelhead trout were reported over the 4th of July holidays.

A visitor at Crater Lake every year, D. J. King of Glendale, Calif., was one of the first to report a "limit catch" this season. The trout are in good condition and put up a game fight before being landed. Best catches are made in the vicinity of Wizard Island, where fresh water shrimp, planted by the game commission several years ago, are most abundant.
