MINERAL WEALTH RULES DESTINIES GREAT COUNTRIES

PORTLAND, Ore., July 12.—(AP)—World business problems, education, banking, religion, food and population and other factors pertaining to peace, politics and economics are receiving detailed study here this week at the third biennial session of the Institute of International Affairs. The institute opened at Reed college here Monday and will continue through the week. Eminent educators, bankers, economists and business men from all parts of the world make up the group of 250 persons attending the session. Many of the institute's findings will be published and distributed among schools, libraries, women's clubs and churches for study by interested persons. At a round table discussion on mineral resources Monday, Dr. Chas. K. Leith of the University of Minnesota displayed a large map showing all the important mineral deposits of the world. Dr. Keith declared these deposits will control the destinies of the world indefinitely. "It is the nations owning the bulk of the world's iron, coal, copper, lead and zinc that will enjoy great industrial development and be able better to defend themselves in case of war," he said. "The depression has resulted in people using more intelligence in buying food than in any other class of commodities," Dr. W. D. Moriarty of the University of Southern California said in a discussion of international problems of the business depression. "We question," he said, "whether this intelligent food buying will continue after the depression ends and prosperity returns. There is a general feeling in our group that people are simply holding in during the hard times and will return to their former standards of living as soon as they have better incomes."

INDIAN HANDIWORK FROM COLLECTION OF WILSON SHOWN

A water jug, woven by a Hava Supai of Arizona, who found in his own hands the workmanship, and in the fields and mountains the products which answered all his needs, is on display today at the Chamber of Commerce building in a collection donated by H. G. Wilson to add to the Indian setting of the Crater Lake window of the Mutual Mill & Seed Co. and Swann's Gift Shop. The jug is made of willow, which is doubt surrounded the spring into which many Indian maidens later dipped its mouth. Finely woven into the round contours, more frequently created in clay, the jug was covered with a lacquer from the century plant, making it water proof. A handle of braided horse hair protrudes from each side to add ease to the handling. The jug is a rich brown in color and dates back at least 50 years to Mr. Wilson's knowledge. Close by it hangs a gun scabbard of beaded buckskin, made by a Blackfoot Indian. The perfection of pattern and choice of colors used in the

SCOUTS SETTLED IN CAMP ROUTINE AT LAKE O' WOODS

Boy Scout camp, in progress since last Tuesday, has settled down to a routine of fun and work. Fifty-two Scouts are in camp at Lake o' the Woods for the first period, with nine leaders and junior officers. Swimming is fine, with beginners learning rapidly and the swimmers becoming more expert. Dick Elwood is waterfront leader, holding the same position he had last year. The "Buddy system" is in practice again this year. A hike up Mt. Pitt will be taken this week-end, the Scouts leaving camp Thursday and returning Saturday. Short hikes are being taken out of camp and other long hikes are scheduled. Court of honor will be held in camp next Sunday, just before the close of the first period. An executive board meeting will also be held, members from Klamath Falls, Medford, Grants Pass and Ashland attending. The board meets in camp once each year so that they may inspect the buildings and grounds and keep in touch with the activities.

Camp buildings have been repaired and reconstructed. The headquarters building, which was completely down, has been erected and rearranged, improving it greatly over previous years. The cabins are repaired and in good condition. The trails are lined with white-washed stones and all underbrush has been cleared out; the grounds around the cabins and the mess hall are raked and weeded out. The second period of camp opens next Tuesday, July 19th, to close August 2nd. A complete program is arranged for the Scouts attending in games, hiking, swimming and good food.

HAMMETT INJURED IN BATTLE WITH TROUT

Fishing in the upper Applegate was simply "grand" Sunday, according to Bill Hammett, one of Medford's leading anglers, who still trusts to the salmon's eyes for best luck. He returned to the city with a fine catch of trout, but with a great scratch on his forehead. The latter was received when he dodged behind a tree to bait his hook, to keep the fish from eating out of the can. In his struggle with the hungry trout a fly was thrust across his face, leaving an ugly blotch. He was investigating insurance relative to his case this morning.

DEATH PUTS END TO CRIME CAREER

SOUTH BEND, Ind., July 12.—(AP) The death of James Storey brought an end today to a crowded week of homicide, holdups and kidnappings. Struck down by police bullets as he fled from officers here yesterday, Storey died in a hospital last night as efforts were started to return him to North Baltimore, Ohio, for the slaying of Jay Davis, town marshal. Other crimes charged against the 22-year-old St. Paul, Minn., gunman included the wounding of Dr. Martin Larkin at Toledo, O., four kidnappings and robbery of a gasoline filling station. Two brothers—Bert Storey, 19, and Manley, 17, were captured when Marshal Davis was shot. When you shop at the Groceteria park your car at the Groceteria parking lot, 127 No. Central.

Stork Busy In Ashland's Park

The stork was busy over the weekend in the Lithia Park zoo at Ashland, and the population thereof was increased by one fawn, five ducklings and a bevy of Chinese pheasants. The parkkeeper reports that the peacock is busy setting on a batch of eggs, and a baby raccoon is due. Abandon Hope. CHERBOURG, France, July 12.—(AP)—All hope of rescuing alive any of the more than 60 men who went down with the French submarine Fremeth last week was abandoned today. For a fine outing—take the children to Lake o' the Woods, where swimming is safe.
