Comment on the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

DR. WILLIAM D. FROST, bacteriologist at the University of Wisconsin, has developed a vaccine which may prove a means of controlling tuberculosis.

If you are threatened with tuberculosis, or if someone near and dear to you is, that is vastly bigger news to you than what is going to happen to reparations and the war debts.

It will interest you, or at least it should, to know that Dr. Frost has devoted 20 years of intensive research to the discovery of his vaccine.

Things that are really worth while, you see, require hard work for their accomplishment.

One of the worst mistakes you can make, if you are young, is to acquire the idea that success is WON EASILY.

SMITH Reynolds, heir to the Camel cigarette millions, born nine years after Dr. Frost began his tuberculosis vaccine research, dies mysteriously—just how, no one knows as yet, but it seems reasonably certain that a scandal is connected with his death in some manner.

Poor kid! He had too much money and too little sense.

That combination is always a calamity.

WOOD, we read, is slighted in the specifications for the new post-office at Portland, the architects insisting on steel in a variety of places where wood would have been both cheaper and better.

Without trying to excuse the architects, it is probable that they didn't even know of the superiority of wood for these uses.

Lumbermen were amazed a few years ago to learn that the big architecture and engineering schools were teaching their students all about the qualities of steel and other substitutes for wood, but NOTHING AT ALL about the qualities of wood.

WITH all the young architects and all the young engineers coming out of the colleges knowing all about wood substitutes and knowing nothing at all about wood, it is little wonder that wood has suffered as a building material.

THE lumber industry is in a bad way. We all know all about that, for we live in a country where lumber is the big payroll industry.

But it is a little surprising to learn that the lumber industry, as a whole, is running at a higher percentage of capacity than the steel industry.

It doesn't do us any particular good, of course, but sometimes it is comforting to know that the other fellow is just as bad off as we are, and perhaps a little worse.

IN the big boom years that began with the war and lasted for 11 years after the war ended, steel and other substitutes for wood prospered. They cost more, but who cared?

Money was plentiful, and people were in the mood to get what they thought was the best, regardless of cost.

In the more sensible years that are coming, when a dollar will be worth a dollar and will be harder to get than in the big boom years, wood, which is the best and most economical building material for a very large variety of purposes, ought to come back into its own.

IVAR Krueger, the Swedish match king who recently committed suicide, stole fifty million dollars in bonds of the International Match company while he was its president.

That's the kind of business leadership in high places that has lost for big business the confidence of the public.

That kind of business leadership, by the way, is the product of get-rich-quick times such as the big boom years that ended with the crash of 1929.

BT note this:
The get-rich-quick leaders in business are practically all gone. There is Krueger, for example, and Insull and Poshay, along with a crowd of others.

The men who are surviving are the plain, honest business men, who treated their customers fairly and

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP)—More than five billion pieces of one-cent candy were reported today by the commerce department to have been sold last year, indicating there is little, if any, hoarding among the children. Sales of penny candy aggregated approximately 195,000,000 pounds with a retail value of more than $50,000,000.

PASS HOME LOAN AND RELIEF BILLS ARE ADJOURNING

President Hoover Expected To Sign Both Measures In Few Days—Last Hours Full Of Fun, Oratory.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP)—The 72nd congress adjourned its long session at 11:25 o'clock tonight, racked to the last with dispute such as has embroiled it for many of the months since December, but able to say that at the end of it had settled its differences over the long-pending relief and home loan bank legislation.

The agreement on the $2,122,000,000 relief bill came through the senate's yielding to the house on the controversial clause for publicity on reconstruction corporation loans.

Accept Glass Rider
Conversely the house gave way on the home loan bill, accepting at last the Glass rider which will make possible nearly a billion dollar expansion of the currency.

President Hoover is expected to sign both within the next few days.

In the dragging finale caused by the final day deadlocks on the two projects, the house turned to prohibition, debating at length the Glass resolution to submit a substitute for the 18th amendment.

The talk for hours held up adoption of the resolution of adjournment, both houses having been in session since the forenoon.

Equalization Fee Falls.
An effort to attach the McNary-Haugen equalization fee plan to the house bill carrying funds for the home loan banking board failed as senators refused to consider it. Offered by Howell (R., Neb.) it would have applied the equalization fee plan only to wheat as an experiment.

The last hours of the senate session were filled with a mixture of humor, oratory, and bitterness.

The crowded galleries were frequently warned by Vice President Curtis to maintain order as the prohibition debate waxed humorous.

Twice during the evening Curtis warned senators to observe the rules of parliamentary procedure, once when Senator Couzens (R., Mich.) was making a bitter attack on Senator Watson, Republican leader.

Couzens said he hoped Watson would be defeated in November.

The Michigan senator's speech was on the decision to grant funds for operation of the home loan bank system, it finally being voted to allow $250,000 for that purpose.

75 HEAT VICTIMS COUNTED IN FIRST SPELL OF SEASON

By The Associated Press
Summer's first sweltering blast retarded over most of the nation Saturday, leaving a toll of perhaps 75 dead and considerable crop damage—and also a threat to return soon with even higher temperatures.

Several sections, notably the southwest, suffered under uncomfortable heat, but the 95 to 100 degree temperatures of Friday were lacking in most places, except in the western plains states where 100 plus readings were common. Elsewhere from coast to coast, most of the nation had endurable, and in many sections enjoyable, week-end weather.

A prediction of new and perhaps more intense heat within the next few days was made, however, by C. A. Donnell, government weather forecaster at Chicago.

The toll of dead in Chicago from the 97 degree heat Friday reached 16 with two additional deaths from prostration.

BAPTISTS RENEW PROHIBITION VOW

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—(AP)—Hope that President Hoover "may declare himself fresh" in favor of prohibition was expressed by the national northern Baptist convention here today as the delegates pledged themselves to wage unceasing battle in behalf of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

The expression of hope concerning the president's attitude was added by the convention, by unanimous vote, to a resolution which called for unwavering support of the present dry laws.

LaGrande Juniors Win District Title

LA GRANDE, Ore., July 16.—(AP)—La Grande's American Legion Juniors' baseball team won the district championship here today, defeating Burns, 3 to 2.

A number of fans, including Spee Keene, head of the Junior league play in Oregon, felt, however, the umpire erred in calling a play that would have tied the score had it been called differently.

HARTMAN RETURN FOR PEAR STUDIES BELIEVED ASSURED

PORTLAND, Ore., July 16.—(AP)—Organization of a committee to fight the Zorn-McPherson bill would move announced here tonight by Amedee M. Smith, chairman of the committee.

The Zorn-McPherson bill would move the U. of O. to Corvallis and consolidate it with Oregon State College; abandon the normal school at Mounmouth; establish a teachers' college at Eugene, and establish junior colleges at Ashland and La Grande.

Smith said the committee will act as a nucleus for a statewide organization and its objective will be the exposure of the "bold-faced sham now masquerading under the false name of economy and consolidation."

David Rosenberg, president of the bureau, expressed great satisfaction that Professor Hartman's services would again be available to the pear industry of Oregon and Washington and with the full cooperation and facilities of the college.

Professor Hartman's work has been of incalculable value to the fruit growers of this section. It is difficult to estimate the value of his work in the eastern markets and in Medford. His efforts have been largely responsible for the local pear industry of Oregon and Washington.

One of the principal factors has been the education of the buyers and retailers in the proper handling of the product. Growers are entirely familiar with Hartman's work on conditioning Bosc pears and his exhaustive packing and transportation tests carried forward in his winter pear committee work, together with his assistance in the advertising program carried forward on Bosc pears by D. R. Wood's committee.

It is expected that within a few days definite announcement will come from the Oregon State college as to the exact nature of the study which will be followed this year. Nels and pinhole decay will be one of the major points undertaken and a further study of the proper marketing season for different varieties will be continued. It is thought that Professor Hartman may be in Medford to initiate his plans in the very near future.

David Rosenberg was re-elected president of the organization for the next year. Other officers were also asked to continue their services. The trustees were well pleased with the initial year's efforts on advertising and made arrangements to continue the work through Wm. Horeley, executive secretary of the organization.

A uniform contract was adopted for the next year and it was noted that the financial condition of the bureau was excellent. Not only has work been done in billboard advertising and through the newspapers but also pears have been introduced to restaurants and hotels through trade journals and direct service. The bureau will soon be in a position to make announcement of interesting research carried forward along this line.

BONUS SEEKERS DEFY POLICE BY CAPITOL MARCH

Disorder Averted By Swift Concessions From Authorities—Leader Arrested And Later Released.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP)—After a brief tussle, police tonight cleared the sidewalk in front of the White House of a hundred or more veterans of the bonus-seeking squadrons who had attempted to set up picketing there.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP)—The army of veterans clamoring for the payment of the bonus rushed the capitol today in open defiance of police orders, and disorder was averted only by swift concessions from the authorities.

Concentrating on the great building from all parts of the city the ragged army was ordered by police to stay on the far side of the plaza from the building, but led by their commander, W. W. Waters, they broke through a thin police line and rushed toward the capitol.

Waters was arrested by Brigadier General Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of Washington police, who took personal charge of the situation.

"I told the vice-president I'd keep the plaza clear. When I say I'll do a thing, I'll do it," Glassford shouted. "We want Waters," the army answered.

"I don't want any trouble, but we will have it if you do not get back." Long drawn out boos greeted him.

"I have Waters under arrest and as soon as you go back I'll release him," Glassford declaimed, using his hands for a megaphone.

The men did not go back. Waters was brought and his efforts to get them to withdraw were of no avail. Glassford and Waters then met in the capitol basement, left by a side door and went to the back of the crowd. There, after an argument, the bonus army commander was released and went to the bandstand to speak.

AMERICA OLYMPIC TEAM DETERMINED IN TRACK RESULTS

Metcalf Equals Record In 100 Meters—Carr Sets World Mark In 400—Hallwell Sets 1500 Record

By Alan Gould
Associated Press Sports Editor

STANFORD STADIUM, PALO ALTO, Cal., July 16.—(AP)—Topped off distantly by a skyward pole vault of 14 feet, 4 3/4 inches by Bill Graber of southern California for a new world record, the American Olympic track and field try-outs, combined with the national A. A. U. championships, was brought to crashing, reverberating conclusion today.

On the way to this spectacular climax of the two-day battle for places on the American Olympic team, four world records were surpassed, a fifth equalled, and Olympic records bettered in no less than 10 of the 18 events. These dramatic features stood out:

1. A courageous come-back by big Ben Eastman, Stanford's storm-center of the big show, as he finished second in the 400 meter run, two yards behind Bill Carr of Pennsylvania, who raced to a new world record of 46.9 seconds.

2. A sensational double victory in the sprints by the Marquette university team as it finished fourth, just outside the fold, in a dazzling 1,500-meter final, won by Norwood Penrose Hallowell of Harvard in 3 minutes, 52.7 seconds, surpassing the American and Olympic records.

3. The failure of Gene Venke, eastern ace and holder of the world indoor one-mile record, to make the team as he finished fourth, just outside the fold, in a dazzling 1,500-meter final, won by Norwood Penrose Hallowell of Harvard in 3 minutes, 52.7 seconds, surpassing the American and Olympic records.

AIMEE'S SKULL CRACKED, FEAR

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—(AP)—X-ray examination will be made tomorrow, it was announced tonight, to determine whether Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, the evangelist, is suffering from a fractured skull.

Fear that the injury sustained in a fall last Saturday night may be more serious than was at first supposed was expressed by her physician, Dr. Edward Huttington Williams, who said that if she received a fracture a cerebral hemorrhage may occur at any time.

The evangelist fainted, her head striking the cement floor of a veranda of her Moorish castle at Lake Elsinore, when she was told that her husband, David Hutton, had lost a breach of promise suit brought by Myrtle St. Pierre, a nurse.

ROGUE CLEAR TODAY FOR FISHING, REPORT

Fishing in the Rogue is expected to be fine today with the river cleared to Savage Rapids dam at least, so anglers stated last night, after watching the stream since its muddy condition of Friday.

It was clear all day yesterday at Hybee bridge, but muddy from Gold Hill on down. This portion, however, was expected to clear also last night.

MEXICO CITY, July 16.—(AP)—Clarence McElroy, an American aviator lost nineteen days in the deep Mexican jungle, will be brought back here from the little town of San Gregorio by airplane tomorrow.

His adventure was a nightmare of horror, and even yet he is scarcely able to talk. He is almost completely exhausted. He must eat sparingly and carefully, for when an Indian found him Thursday night he was half dead of starvation.

LOCAL IRRIGATION PROJECTS IN LINE FOR FEDERAL AID

Prospects are good, in the opinion of County Judge C. B. Lankin, that the irrigation districts of Jackson county will secure financial aid under provisions of the relief bill passed by congress Saturday and now on the president's desk for approval.

According to the county judge, federal funds thus secured could be used for the re-bonding of the Medford and Talent districts and for needed improvements and repairs in the ditch systems of the two projects.

Thus the two districts would be able to lessen the burden of the bond indebtedness and make other changes that would improve the situation. Judge Lankin estimates that $2,000,000 would cover the needs.

"I believe," said Judge Lankin, "that adjustment of the needs of the irrigation districts should come first, and that it would benefit more people than other projects. Placing the irrigation districts on a sound basis would perk up business, the farmers and conditions in general."

County Judge Lankin said that for five years, efforts had been made to secure federal aid for the irrigation districts, and that the Oregon senators and congressmen and California representatives had striven for this end during that period. He further stated that the irrigation district directors, and Manager Olen Arnsperger, had been in close touch with the situation for months.

"I don't oppose the coast railroad project," said Judge Lankin. "I have been for it for 12 years—ever since it was first mentioned. It would be a good thing, but I feel it is secondary in importance to the rehabilitation of irrigation district affairs which will cost less, benefit all lines and not take as much time. Irrigation aid will take a lot of the strain off everybody and in a hurry."

Olen Arnsperger, manager of the two districts, attended a meeting in eastern Oregon Friday and Saturday, when reclamation and irrigation problems of Oregon were discussed and plans for the future made.

PORTLAND, ORE., ORIENT SHIP LINE OPENS

PORTLAND, Ore., July 16.—(AP)—A new, fast direct steamship service between Portland and the Orient, enabling Oregon producers to compete with other Pacific coast ports in supplying foodstuffs to the east.

Plans for the new service were announced here today by Kenneth D. Dawson, vice-president and general manager of the company. Dawson said it will be the fastest schedule ever maintained between Portland and the Orient, with 13 days to Japan and 23 days to Manila.

It also will be the first direct refrigerator service between Portland and the Orient, enabling Oregon producers to compete with other Pacific coast ports in supplying foodstuffs to the east.

Other officers elected were: Harris Elsworth, Roseburg News-Review, vice-president; Ben R. Littin, The Dallas Chronicle, treasurer; district vice-presidents included Jack B. Bladine, McMinnville Telephone-Register; C. F. Hollinger, Oregon City Enterprise; Elbert Beale, Cottage Grove Sentinel; C. J. Gillikin, Coos Bay Times, Marshfield; G. M. Green, Ashland Daily Tidings.

BERRYDALE BEER JOINT IS RAIDED

Lynn Shepherd, 59, is in the county jail charged with operating a "beer joint" in the Berrydale district, as a result of a raid on his quarters last night by the sheriff's office and federal prohibition agents.

A large tub of 20 gallons of beer mash, 170 pint bottles of beer and 100 empty bottles were seized.

Shepherd is well known in this city and county. According to the authorities he has been under surveillance for some time. He will be charged with sale and possession.

LLOYD OSBOURNE, NOTED AUTHOR IS GUEST IN VALLEY

"I like successful people to stay successful. I don't like to see anyone turn up her toes and suffer"—the remark fitted perfectly the tones of Lloyd Osbourne's English voice, spiced with French exuberance, as the author of much renowned answered the barrage of questions from reporters, upon his arrival in Medford yesterday noon.

Coming with his sister, Mrs. Salisbury Field, whose husband wrote "Wedding Bells," from the south, and before that from the south of France, for a short holiday at the C. N. Black River lodge, the author of "Love the Piddler" and many another book, was in the best of spirits.

His stand on the success question was taken when his thirst for news brought mention of a new book aimed to dethrone the great evangelist, Aimee McPherson, and he didn't hesitate to say he didn't like the idea.

Following his short stay here he will return to San Francisco and to the Bohemian Jinks at Bohemian Grove, "for which," he declared, "people are arriving from all parts of the world."

"I came over to see what was happening," he continued, his hands in smart gray gloves stroking the extra luggage stacked about him. "I wanted to see if California was still on the map. You see I'm a native of San Francisco. And now please tell me who killed Smith Reynolds?"

"I love Oregon. I had never seen her before, and I'm in love with her already. You see I have come to judge a country by the absence of motor cars.

"Writing a book? No, no. I have no ideas now. I've come here to get some"—and with that, a friendly handshake and repetition of his very pleasing smile, the man who collaborated with his step-father, Robert Louis Stevenson in the writing of "The Wrong Box," "The Wrecker" and "Ebb Tide," and with his nephew, Austin Strong in "The Exile" and "The Little Father of the Wilderness," stepped into Mrs. Black's waiting car and was off to the river.

"Who's Who" says among other things of him, he was born April 17, 1868 in San Francisco to Samuel and Fanny Van de Graft, who later married Robert Louis Stevenson, with whom he worked on many books. He was vice consul general at Samoa for several years and educated at Edinburgh.

"Following the Bohemian Jinks," he said of himself yesterday noon, "I'm sailing again for France."

PETITION ROBBERY REMAINS MYSTERY

PORTLAND, Ore., July 16.—(AP)—Portland's petition "robbery" hoax remained a mystery tonight, at least so far as the public was concerned.

District Attorney Lotus L. Langley, his deputies and detectives spent the day investigating the mystery. They conferred at length with E. L. Getz, Corvallis business man, and Arthur McMahon, Albany attorney, but made no definite announcement of their progress.

One of the asserted leaders is Dee Williams, well known in this city as general manager of "Kermite Metals, Inc."

Work on the Curry county project has been underway for six months. It is said, and the same group is said also to be interested in mine propositions in Curry and Josephine counties.

ORR IS PRESIDENT FURNITURE GROUP

PORTLAND, Ore., July 16.—(AP)—The retail furniture dealers of Oregon, in fourth annual convention here today, elected Alfred E. Orr of Medford, president. He succeeds Charles Anderson of Portland.

The furnituremen agreed that a general upward turn is noticeable in the industry throughout the country.
