to reports from the Lithia city, and took up a collection estimated at between $50 and $75. Commander Greene made a speech in which he is accredited with bitterly attacking President Hoover and the Republican party and speaking favorably of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate, and his party.

During an interview in Medford today, Commander Greene described his organization as a group of thinking men, not radicals, who are traveling without arms or ammunition, going to Washington as a lobby sufficiently equipped with supplies to remain at the capital for an indefinite period.

He had no kind words to spare for President Hoover, stating that he could "find no provision in the constitution granting a president the right and power to call out the army against a lobby. If there is such a provision," he concluded, "why hasn't it been exercised in the past against international bankers and other lobbyists?"

Commander Greene stated he had already sent an army of 2800 men to Washington, and two armies of 350 men each now en route to Washington, with two completely equipped hospital units. He has been organizing armies for the past 11 weeks. In the "Sunset division," he explained, he has men of all orders, composed of World war veterans and two veterans of the Spanish-American war. He himself is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He was in the navy during the World war, and stationed in mining service in the North sea.

The members of his contingent were described in Ashland as "well dressed, eating their meals in restaurants, and having their laundry sent to the laundries." The traveling equipment of the expedition is in good shape and Commander Greene assured Medford "My men are clean and leave a clean camp behind them."
