

ADVANCE BY EGGS FOLLOWS ANNUAL TREND OF VALUES

CORVALLIS, Ore., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The continued steady advance in Pacific coast egg markets which reached a high point of 19 cents in Portland Wednesday, is about in line with the 5-year average seasonal advance at this time, according to a weekly review of egg markets issued today by the federal market bureau and the state college extension service.

Prices now are 3 cents above July 1, and 5 cents above June 1, but 3 cents under Aug. 1, 1931.

Egg consumption is holding fairly steady in the large centers, which together with the light storage reserves in the country as a whole and probability of no heavier market receipts, has turned to firm the market.

The review said storage supplies on the coast, however, are still about 18,000 cases above a year ago, but these now are being drawn on.

Costs production declined only 1.4 per cent the last week in July, as the normal seasonal drop in the lay of older birds is being made up by the increase in production of this year's pullets.

Shipments from the coast totaling 74 cases for the week show a slight increase but still are 40 per cent under last year.

BUTTER MARKET HOLDS STRENGTH

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 5.—(P)—Continued strength is reflected in the market for butter in the local territory. Similar condition is showing along the Pacific as well as the Atlantic coast. In fact the entire country's butter market shows a very reasonable stiffening.

Decreased flow of milk with smaller churning operations is reported at practically all points. Stiffening of the butterfat price is suggested.

Market for eggs is showing a very firm tone locally, with prices well sustained and little selling below the lists established by the local co-ops and private firms.

Betterment in the tomato trade, suggested yesterday, continued today with general boosting of values in all markets. Receipts are less liberal than expected and former surpluses have been cleared.

I expect our basketball team, the Golden Cyclone, to win the national championship. I'll be the high scorer of the tournament. My mind is set on winning a national golf championship—not this year, but maybe in two or three years. I can out-drive most women golfers now and I've played only 10 rounds.

STATE SUFFERS UNDER HOT SUN; NO RELIEF SEEN

Forecasts for Medford tonight and tomorrow show "higher temperature and lower humidity." The relative humidity at 5 p. m. yesterday was ten per cent.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Oregon had no relief in sight today from the blazing heat that has beaten on its cities and fields for two days.

High temperatures in the interior and in the west, except for the immediate coast line, were predicted by the weather bureau here.

Thursday's temperatures rang up new high marks for the year. At Medford the high was 107. The Dalles had 104, Roseburg 103, Salem 102, Wolf Creek 105, Umatilla 100, Eugene 100, Baker 88, Cook Bay 99, Seaside 90, Portland 95, Albany 95.

SALEM, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Forenoon thermometer readings here today, running parallel with that of yesterday, gave indications that the peak of 102 degrees of the previous day would again be reached during the afternoon hours. At 11 o'clock today the thermometer read 87 degrees.

The 102 degrees here yesterday was declared the hottest weather at the state capital for five years.

LA GRANDE, Ore., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The maximum temperature Thursday duplicated that of Wednesday in La Grande—94 above. Today's temperature was expected to be as high or higher with the mercury at 82 above at 10 a. m.

BONUS AGITATORS WORKING 'RACKET' IS MEDFORD VIEW

A majority of the past commanders of the Medford post of the American Legion expressed themselves as opposed to the "Pass-the-Hat-Bonus-Expeditionary Forces," and their contemplated invasion of this city.

An "expedition" under the command of Capt. B. R. Greene recruited in northern California, was still at Ashland, though scheduled to appear in this city this afternoon. They are well equipped and are estimated to have taken in close to $200 in their stay in Ashland. They give a vaudeville show, patterned after the old-fashioned medicine show stuff, raffish off a clock in a unique manner, and profitably, and Captain Greene makes a speech bitterly denouncing the president.

Captain Greene is better than the average orator, and, according to Wm. A. Aiken of this city, who heard him, "if the Democratic campaign committee doesn't pay him they ought to."

Only two past commanders of the Legion contacted refused to make a statement.

Legion and Veteran of Foreign Wars members in this city and Ashland, as a whole, expressed themselves as opposed to "making a racket out of public sympathy" and charge that "most of the agitation does not come from ex-service men."

In the neighborhood of 300 Ashlanders, on the way home from a band concert, attended the "Bonusers" meeting last evening, it was reported from that city.

Opinions of Medford Legion past commanders follow:

E. W. Scheffel—I am in favor of paying the adjusted service certificate to the veterans who are in dire need and unable to obtain employment.

Frank P. Farrell—I question the advisability of payment of the bonus at this time and I feel that so-called bonus expeditionary forces are inopportune and may set an example for other lobbying of a like nature that could be very disturbing to the peace and welfare of the country.

William S. Bolger—Make me the treasurer of one of these bonus rackets and I will make Al Capone look like a bum. With a chisel for an emblem, many self-starting groups will capitalize at the expense of deserving veterans. Showmanship will never gain an objective half as quickly as dignified common sense. Parades and demonstrations produce nothing.

C. Y. Tengwald—I have been in favor of the payment of the balance of the adjusted compensation certificates, but I am unalterably opposed to the tactics being used by so-called "bonus Expeditionary Forces," on each of which is now in Ashland and about to "invade" Oregon. I consider it nothing more than a "racket" and every ex-service man should oppose it. Let them go back home where they belong—we here in Oregon will take care of our own problems. Our senators and congressmen have gone off record in favor of the payment of the balance.

H. S. Deneil—It is with a sense of surprise and sorrow to note that in the face of a dissolving Bonus Army, who endured and suffered long and patiently in Washington, D. C., so recently, we are about to be introduced to another self-styled "bonus army" being led into a battle against "hope, fear, disease, squalor, riot, and even death," by enthusiastic but misguided and mis-advised general-also self-styled. Too bad such energy and loyalty cannot be diverted to more useful and constructive channels. All humane feeling Americans with a characteristic feeling of real brotherhood had hoped the bonus expeditionary forces would dissolve and scatter its members to their various homes and that the futile and pathetic expedition to Washington would become a matter of history. It is to be hoped that the members and potential members of another B. E. F. may hurriedly realize that the last offensive was a very expensive one, resulting not only in much suffering and privation, but a great loss to the cause it intended to further. May we have more of the constructive and less of the dramatic in the next offensive.

E. C. Ferguson—The bonus idea was originally hatched by politicians. Its recurrent prominence has been fostered by the same influence. Those now shouting the loudest for the ex-soldier care less about him than about his vote. "We'll get in solid with the veterans by boosting the bonus—and on election day they'll follow us to the polls like a lot of sheep." That's the general idea. But the average ex-service man is the average of all other citizens and will refuse to be led by those who would play upon his cupidity.

SEVENTEEN BABIES GET CLINIC EXAM

At the regular monthly baby clinic conducted by the Jackson county health association at the Y. W. C. A. yesterday afternoon, seventeen babies and children of pre-school age were given examinations by Dr. C. I. Drummond, county health officer, and Miss Blanche Runels, county health nurse.

Assisting the doctor and nurse were Mrs. Howard Hill and Mrs. Miles Gammill.

For the September clinic, the rooms in the new court house building will be used, according to present plans of the organization, where complete new furnishings will be installed.
