GRAND JURY WILL EYE EMPIRE CASE AT NEXT SESSION

The Empire Holding company case insofar as they concern Jackson county residents, will be presented to the grand jury for consideration, District Attorney George A. Coddling said yesterday. A number of valley residents made investments in the project, and Dr. R. W. Clancy, a former Medford physician, is an ex-official.

The grand jury of which Joseph Hubbard of Butte Falls is foreman may be convened in mid-September, if pressure of criminal business warrants. The new grand jury will be drawn the third Monday in October. Which of these two inquisitorial bodies will consider, and be advised in the matter, is problematical.

The district attorney's office has received from the corporation commissioner's office in Salem, transcripts of the evidence in the Empire Holding trials.

The corporation commissioner's office has recommended that all future trials in the case be held either in Multnomah, Douglas, or this county. Douglas county, has announced it will take an action unless a direct complaint is filed. Multnomah county has announced it will try the cases, if the corporation commissioner, provides the evidence, and a trial is warranted. This is the position taken by District Attorney Coddling.

Three officials of the Empire Holding company were tried in Polk county, at Marion's county's expense, resulting in one conviction, one acquittal and one disagreement of the jury. Marion county balked at any further trials owing to the expense.

PEAR PRODUCERS TOLD ADVERTISING HOPE OF INDUSTRY

of the east could use pears—their inhabitants like them the same as do the people of New York?

Dr. Hartman said in considering the Rose campaigns in Detroit and Pittsburgh: "It should be remembered that the campaigns were only well under way when the depression came. Both are industrial centers and when great plants operate on a short-week basis the buying power is crippled."

Orchard sanitation for the elimination of "pin-hole rot" in the Winter Nells varieties, and "nest rot" in the D'Anjou was urged, as "the trade has a definite prejudice against these defects."

Questions Answered. In response to a query, he said he believed the European market would prove rich fields, particularly France and Italy, where the people "have a natural fondness for soft fruit."

A letter from J. W. Herbert, general manager of the Yakima Fruit-growers' association, was presented as follows:

"The Yakima Fruit Growers' association, popularly known as 'The Big Y,' has been advertising its brand of fruit in the markets of the world. It has been in business for 21 years and during that time has spent many thousands of dollars in advertising. It was not, however, until the industrial advertising campaign where-in everyone joined, that any real, substantial results have been obtained. The Big Y was willing and has continued in large measure to subordinate its own brand advertising to that of industrial campaigns.

"With the inauguration of the Washington Boxed Apple Bureau in 1928 it threw the weight of its tonnage and resources behind the movement and we gave our time and advertising experience unhesitatingly to the success of the movement. The results have amply rewarded the fruit growers for the money contributed to this sales work. Our board of trustees last week voted unanimously to contributing to the support of the apple bureau and that despite the hardships and low returns of the past season. With our apple tonnage running from 2500 to 3000 cars yearly, its interest in the apple advertising is substantial, but one which the growers willingly support for the good of the entire industry.

"The same is true of the Yakima Valley Peach Bureau. The Big Y handles each year from 600 to 800 cars of peaches. It was influential in starting the peach bureau four years ago. The growers voted unanimously again this year to support it in the knowledge that it has time and again proved its worth and last year saved the peach growers from an absolute debacle.

"The Big Y pear growers are equally interested in the work of the Oregon Washington Pear Bureau. Our own fall and winter pear tonnage is not large, running from 250 to 300 cars, as compared with the Bartlett tonnage of around 900 cars yearly. However, the growers of these winter varieties are also peach and apple growers; they know from experience and the merits of a well conducted advertising program over a period of years, and have voted to support the pear bureau along with the apple and peach bureau to which they have contributed for a longer number of years.

"They are glad of the opportunity to join with the many pear growers of Oregon and Washington in the support of this movement, which they believe is essential to the welfare of the pear industry of the Pacific northwest."
