Paris Cuts Summer Coat Short for Smarter Line

Paris (Associated Press Fashion Editor) PARIS-(AP)—A new brief shorts coat cut short at mid-thigh knees has stepped to the fore of the fashion parade of late summer styles.

Sloping raglan shoulders, an easy waistline and a three-quarter length flaring gently at the hem are the outstanding features of its design, while soft spongy woolen or firm tweed are the materials from which it is built.

Already its practicality and youthful cut has made it a favorite with smart Parisians.

The colors of the new three-quarter sports coats are generally brisk. One unbelted model of rose red tweed is worn with a sleeveless apricot frock of rose-red and white candy striped crinkly crepe.

Another of rich chocolate brown wool tops a sports frock of brown and orange striped wool and a third of soft green tweed is worn with a frock of green shantung.

The new three-quarter length also has been adopted for the coats of late summer suits. Some of these are designed with a simple straight-line skirt of the same fabric while others are worn with a wool frock to match.

The scarfs which accompany these abbreviated coats come one of the most interesting notes of the ensemble. Some of them are heavy handkerchiefs of heavy crepe shading from a deep tint to white, while others are of brilliantly striped jersey reflecting the general colors of the costumes.

HEAVY DAMAGE IN PHOENIX REGION EDEN PRECINCT, Aug. 10.-(Spl.)—It was an ordinary wind storm that struck the Talent-Phoenix section last Saturday afternoon. It was a regular "blister."

Between the two towns, there was not a place that did not suffer damage to shade-trees and other objects in the path of the storm.

At the Solles place part of the roof of a sleeping porch was torn off and a shade tree blown over. At the Carey place the well-known Japanese black walnut of 42 years' standing was almost destroyed.

A smaller one on the south of the dwelling was fairly wrung off, at about five feet from the ground.

At the White Wing poultry farm, great limbs were torn off the big cottonwoods in the yards on the east side of the highway. Gardens at all other places were damaged.

One freak of the storm's work at Mrs. Hamill's place was that of a heavy hay-rack being lifted off a wagon and carried about 300 yards and wrecked in her field near the barn.

GLASSFORD FINDS HIS POLICE POST EXCITING ENOUGH

Job As Head of Washington Peace Enforcers Made Hectic by Bonus Expedition—Calm and Friendly

By Herbert Plummer. WASHINGTON—Pelham D. Glassford—"Happy" Glassford of Medford and thousands of bonus marchers—quit the army because it wasn't exciting enough.

But he now admits his job as Washington's chief of police more than satisfies his craving for action. After the tear gas clouds had blown over and the fires of the bonus shacks smoldered, bringing to a close one of the most exciting days in the history of Washington, General Glassford stretched himself to his full six feet, three inches and said wearily:

"Boys, I'm worn to a frazzle." That was the only comment he made as to the part he played in the rioting among the bonus marchers. But those who know him didn't need to hear more.

"Happy" had found excitement—more than he ever expected. Looking back over the terrific hours of that Thursday afternoon and night of rioting, there can be no doubt that the tall, smiling police chief was one of the most dominating figures of the whole scene.

He was calm in the midst of scenes of the wildest disorder. One could be spotted in the very center of the disturbance, puffing on his long black pipe, seeming to maintain peace by his own quiet manner.

He lost his temper but once during those long and trying hours. That was when a veteran ran up suddenly and snatched his badge. More surprised than anything else, his face flushed for a moment as he yelled at one of his officers to "get that man." But when the man had been arrested and his badge restored, the smile—it's a broad grin really—returned to his face and he was himself again.

Invariably among a group of veterans, they would start cheering him. The writer had opportunity to see "Happy" Glassford in action at first hand. It was along toward midnight, just before the zero hour, when the troops had orders to clear that motley village of bonus marchers out on Anacostia flats.

Cavalrymen, infantrymen and tanks were drawn up ready for the advance. From out of the darkness, down in the flats, Glassford's tall figure emerged. He was making his way toward a group of veterans and their wives on the outskirts of the camp.

As he approached them he held out his hand. About a half-dozen men and women clasped it. He took off his hat and listened patiently to their story. He must have spent 15 minutes with that group, chatting and sympathizing with them.

And as he turned to leave one of the women tearfully exclaimed: "God bless you, General. You have been our best friend."

Around the Corner CAFFEY, S. C. Aug. 10.-(AP)—Approximately 2,000 men and women were back at work today as the Hamrick group of mills on a half-time schedule and the retained operators, all will run full-day schedules and some will run at night.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.-(AP)—Gratification at the "unmistakably better tone that now prevails in our industries and markets of trade" was expressed by Roy D. Chapin as he was sworn in as secretary of commerce.

The Detroit automobile manufacturer took the oath as successor to Robert F. Lamson, who retired to re-enter private business.

Swiss Milk Tourists ZURICH.-(AP)—The federal tourist department says Swiss tourists are earning $50 to $60 per cent less than in 1930. There has been an especially sharp shrinkage in English tourists due to Great Britain's "spend-your-holidays-at-home" campaign.

SCREEN CONTRACT ANSWERS STUDIO TYPIST'S DREAM

By Robbin Coons. HOLLYWOOD—There's an advantage in remaining "undiscovered" on a movie lot for two years.

Dorothy Wilson, heroine of one of those unbelievable real-life stories of Hollywood learned enough about movies and movie contracts when she was employed as a studio stenographer to keep her head the day she was offered one of nine out of ten girls, given a dotted-line document, leap to sign. Dorothy waited a week, thinking it over, and when she signed she had a real contract.

Dorothy, whose screen career came unexpectedly when Gregory LaCava spotted her going to lunch on the lot, and gave her a leading role in his "The Age of Consent" had come to Los Angeles from her home town, Minneapolis, two years before.

"I was working in Chicago, and decided to see the world. I saved $150 out of my stenographer's salary, and came out here.

"It was lucky, I found a job in two weeks through an employment agency. It was in a studio.

"Back home most of us think of picture people as being unreal. It was thrilling to work so close to them. And then—this happened," she relates with normal enthusiasm.

"Happened to me! I've been up in the clouds ever since—I've forgotten how to type, even."

Ordinarily, "forgetting how to type" wouldn't be wise. These screen cinderellas often hear that midnight stroke too soon.

But Dorothy isn't "just another blond." She has a piquant freshness, naturalness, humor that set her beauty apart. She is 22.

Arguments, "walkouts" and strikes often have been the results of story disagreements between stars and producers. Warner's precedent action may prevent star strikes and minimize the number of "top pictures."

ST. PAUL, Aug. 10.-(AP)—Mrs. Ella Booie, national president of the women's Christian Temperance Union, said today it is "not fair" to charge violation of the eighteenth amendment to prohibition.

Stopping her en route to the national convention of the organization at Seattle she addressed local members briefly, predicting the convention will not advocate a third party at the coming national elections, but would concentrate on election of dry congressmen.

"We will not recommend our membership vote for either Republican or Democratic presidential candidates," she said.

MOTHER SEEKS DEATH BY JUMPING IN WELL HARTON, Md., Aug. 10.-(AP)—While her one-year-old daughter stood nearby crying, Mrs. Lulu Beeman, 21, jumped into a well at her home near here. Her husband, Perry Beeman, recovered the body, but was unable to revive her.

New Span Over Tiber ROME.-(AP)—The Tiber, says the ministry of public works, is to have a new bridge connecting the huge Mussolini forum now under construction with the 440-year-old Villa Parnestia, headquarters of the Academy of Italy.
