Comment on the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS
MRS. ELSIE LEMING, Ralph Hill's teacher in his senior year at the Henley high school, said yesterday to this writer:
 "I'm as proud as anyone could be of the fame Ralph has won. But I do hope he will look for his future to his head, rather than to his legs."

THERE'S a lot of sound philosophy in that remark. Many a famous young athlete has been noted that he is what he is because of his achievement. Long years after his fame has begun to go back on him when that happens, it is a pity.

THIS writer, however, has high hopes for Ralph Hill. A fine sense of sportsmanship usually indicates a good, clear-thinking brain—a brain capable of separating the important from the unimportant and getting down to essentials.

The very fine sportsmanship which Ralph Hill displayed in that trying moment when it seemed that one of the world's greatest athletic honors had been snatched from his grasp, perhaps unfairly, is pretty fair proof that he has that kind of brain.

THE lumber industry is admittedly in bad shape. But this writer, who is NOT an optimist in Oregon, has seen the lumber industry in bad shape before. And every time it has been in bad shape it has RECOVERED. It will recover again.

The big days of the lumber industry are NOT over. FOR the past month, a large motor dealer has carried in one of Southern Oregon's leading newspapers EVERY DAY an advertisement offering a used car at a special and attractive price. As to the results of this campaign, he says:

"We have sold more than half of all the cars advertised, some of them within an hour or so after opening up in the morning, and in addition we've had hundreds of live inquiries from which we've sold many cars not advertised."

"There isn't any doubt that people read advertising and ACT on it."

PEOPLE have read this advertising for two reasons.
 1. Because it has contained news of interest to the general public.
 2. Because it has appeared every day, thus causing people to look for it regularly.

GOOD advertisements always contain news. And don't forget this: News isn't exclusively concerned with murders, sudden death and scandal. Information as to things that you want that are for sale and the prices at which these things may be had is ALSO news.

IF you want to get results from your advertising, put NEWS into your advertisements, advertise as often as you can afford, and carry your advertisements at regular intervals, so that people will form the habit of looking for the news contained in them.

REPEATED surveys prove that the comic strips are read more widely than anything else that appears in the newspaper. This writer will risk a small bet that you look offenser at the comics than at anything else appearing in this newspaper. And the comic strips, you will note, appear EVERY DAY. Because they appear EVERY DAY, you get into the habit of looking for them. You know they will be there.

The same principle holds good as to advertising. It may interest you to know that next after the comic strips, in newspapers the size of this, comes the small news of the doings of local people, which in this newspaper is headed: "Local and Personal."

That is to say, people are more interested in PEOPLE than in anything else, and they are more interested in people they know than in people they don't know. And it may surprise you to know that next after the comics, the local news and the editorials, people read advertisements that appear EVERY DAY and contain news of interest to people.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT WORKERS' CENSUS TO BE CONTINUED

Trainload of Bartletts Out This Week As Peak of Crop Nears — Police Notify Foreign Car Owners

The first trainload of 1932 Bartletts from this valley is expected to leave this city the end of the coming week for the New York city market and is expected to reach the east after the California crop has been exhausted.

A few carload shipments of Bartletts made east the past week will be in cold storage there until market conditions justify their offering. Three cars of Bartletts have been shipped this week to Portland for export shipment.

The Bartlett picking and packing season will get under full swing this week in all orchards and plants of the valley. Packing plants will start at full capacity Monday with one or two getting underway Tuesday. The Bartlett season is expected to last a couple of weeks. Local yard switching services has been inaugurated by the Southern Pacific.

Harry Moore, manager of the unemployment bureau, said there will be further check of the packing plants for a census of California workers.

Local state police heads had no comment to make on the strike against the state department hauled Saturday. Captain Lee M. Brown left for the north Saturday on official business. Drivers of California licensed cars, engaged in gainful occupations were advised, as usual, to procure Oregon licenses or be subject to Oregon traffic regulations.

Herbert Martin, 29, of Ruth, was arrested Saturday and charged with operating an auto without proper license plates and with selling fish without a license. State police who made the arrest. Alton Martin was driving a car with a California license plate and making a house to house canvass.

Local Workers Favored.
 In practically all of the packing houses of the city and valley, local labor predominated, with fewer California workers than in several years. Signs have been posted in many of the plants serving notice that all applicants must show country work cards. Many of these cards are being checked to see that no cards are being practised in the procuring of the cards, or in the obtaining of the signatures of two taxpayers, as required.

 EUGENE, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Campaigning as a home-rule independent Republican, F. C. Heffron, Eugene attorney, will oppose James W. Mott, Republican, and Harvey Starkweather, Democrat, for congressman from the first Oregon district. Heffron announced his candidacy Friday. He said he will support President Hoover in everything except his stand on prohibition.

Attack Upon Bar Assn. For Support of Judge Answered by Member

To the Editor:
 Friday afternoon a letter, of which the following is substantially a copy, was submitted to the Daily News for publication, in response to L. A. Banks' invitation to publish any answer which might be made to his attack upon the attorney's association. However, he has failed to publish the answer and I am appealing to you to publish same in fairness to the attorneys who have been severely condemned by Mr. Banks and then denied by him opportunity of answering through his paper the charges against them:
 To the Medford Daily News, and L. A. Banks:

In your issue of August 10th and 11th, under the column designated and known as "Once in a While" and the sub-titles "Recall Petitions" and "The Bar Association," respectively, you have seen fit to make a vicious attack upon the Southern Oregon Bar Association, and attorneys in general, through your unwarranted and ridiculous interpretation of and comment upon a resolution which was adopted by said bar association at a meeting thereof held in this city August 8, 1932, relating to an attempt on the part of someone (apparently unknown or too cowardly to come out into the open), to bring about the

CANDIDATES STAND ON LIQUOR LEAVES PROHIBITION PARTYLESS

WINONA LAKE, Ind., Aug. 13.—(AP)—F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the anti-saloon league, said in a speech here tonight that both presidential candidates "in their acceptance speeches have declared an attitude toward the continuance of the eighteenth amendment which we cannot accept."

"One is for modification; the other is for repeal," he continued. "We favor neither."
 "Our major task as to the coming campaign," he said, "is clearly presented in the election of congressmen, who in the last analysis have sole responsibility for amending the constitution."

"We will support those candidates who stand definitely committed to opposition to either repeal or modification."
 "We will fight both repeal and modification in the next congress, and if by any chance the drys are defeated in congress, which is the first line of maintenance, we will fight on in the states and in congress at every turn of the way until the lingering, lawless liquor traffic surrenders to the law and constitution."

SEATTLE, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Maurice Smith, federal prohibition administrator for Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho and Alaska, told the Women's Christian Temperance Union here today "I hope the 18th amendment is never changed in any respect."
 He added that if it was amended, he hoped the amendments would strengthen it.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Speaking for himself and the National Temperance bureau, and not the national prohibition board of strategy of which is secretary, Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie said tonight before the House of Representatives that the prohibition board of strategy is not a constructive or non-destructive course "on the dry laws."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—A decline in arrests for drunkenness since prohibition was claimed today by Dennis Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, on the basis of statistics which he said were gathered by the government at the request of a member of the senate.

The figures, giving totals by the year from 1910 to 1930, and reduced to a rate per population, were based upon reports from 85 cities of more than 2500 population in 1910, the number of municipalities reporting upward to 177 in 1929 and 170 in 1930.

The statistics cited an increase in the number of arrests per 10,000 population from 123 in 1910 to 190 in 1917. In 1918, 1929 and 1931 there were declines to 142, 161, 72 and 62 respectively.

recall of our present circuit judge, and under and by virtue of which comment and interpretation you have so distorted the facts and circumstances of the adoption of said resolutions, and so berated and endeavored to discredit the legal profession and courts in general; that I feel disposed to accept your kind (7) invitation to reply to such attacks, and to place before the readers of your paper and the public in general the weakness and fallacy of your position in this matter. I feel justified in doing this because in such invitation you say: "If the position of the Medford Daily News on this matter is overstated or unjustifiable, the columns of the News are open to the bar association, for any statements they may care to make. They ought to be qualified to defend themselves, especially on legal questions."

I have been actively engaged in the practice of law since June 1902, and for the past twenty-four years of that time I have practiced that profession in this county and state. I have been an active member of the Jackson County Bar association, now the Southern Oregon Bar Association, since its inception, and I am pleased to state, I am not ashamed to

WALKER YET TO TELL RELATIONS WITH SECRETARY

Missing Accountant Who Handled Million in Stock Transitions Seen As Important Link in Quiz

By Lorena Hickok
 (Associated Press Staff Writer)
 NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The mayor of New York will return Monday to the "hall of governors" in Albany, there to enter on the final phase of his vigorous fight for what he has termed his "past, present and future."

A day and a half Mayor Walker has spent so far answering the persistent, courteously put, questions of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, once his associate in the legislature.

The mayor has still to explain to Governor Roosevelt what were his business relations with the missing Russell T. Sherwood, accountant of the law firm with which he was associated before he became mayor.

Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter legislative committee, has charged that Sherwood was the mayor's fiscal agent.

Included in the many volumes of Hofstadter committee records, which the governor has admitted as evidence in the hearing, is testimony indicating that in five or one half years, ending with Sherwood's disappearance a year ago, the obscure, 35-year-old bookkeeper handled stock transactions involving nearly a million dollars.

So far the governor has covered four main points of the "conclusions," which Seabury offered with the record of the committee hearings.

Bond Ownership Unknown
 He asked the mayor about the $1,000 worth of Reliance Bronze and St. Paul bonds and if he knew he owned them when the company was awarded a $12,000 contract for traffic light standards on Fifth avenue. The mayor replied he did not.

He asked him how $26,000 worth of bonds, including those of the Reliance company, came into his possession.

The mayor replied the bonds represented his profit from a pool, of the character and information of which he knew practically nothing.

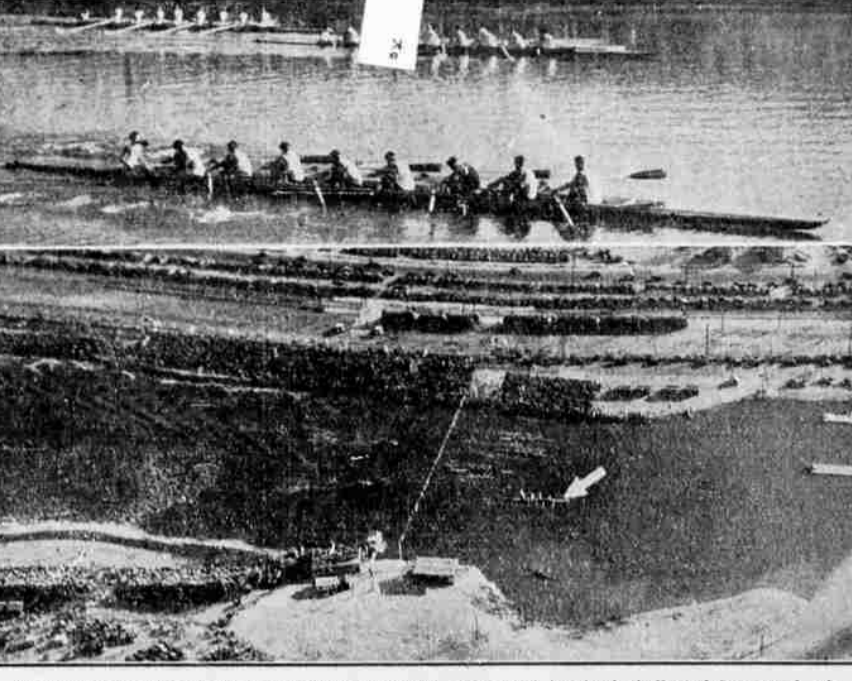

Asked About Bus Line
 Governor Roosevelt asked the mayor about the Equitable bus franchise, what interest his friend, Senator John A. Hastings, had in it, and how it came about that J. Allan Smith, New York representative of the company, paid for a $10,000 letter of credit and a $3,000 over-draft, used by the mayor and his party on a European trip in 1927.

Walker replied that, while he knew that Hastings was interested in bus transportation, he did not know that he shared an office with Smith, and that the letter of credit represented a pool turned over to the late Senator Bernard Downing, who in turn had asked Hastings to handle it for him.

Recall Petitions Meeting Disfavor Check-up Shows
 Check of the suburban and rural points where petitions seeking the recall of Circuit Judge H. D. Norton had been left, showed the documents still sparsely signed Saturday or with no signatures at all appended, again entirely indicating that the scheme has collapsed of its own weight, apart from meeting with disfavor among all classes of people in Jackson and Josephine counties. General condemnation of the abortive attempt was voiced wherever opinion was sounded in the survey.

 VIENNA, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Archduke Anton of Habsburg passed near the city and down the garden of Moedling villa today, his ancient lineage almost forgotten in the distraction of a young man about to become a father. MRS. GILBERT OF EUGENE HURT IN AUTO CRASH HERE

Mrs. James H. Gilbert, wife of Dean Gilbert of the University of Oregon, Eugene, who sustained serious injuries here Friday evening, when the auto in which she was driving with her daughter, Madeleine, collided with a Los Angeles car 11 miles out on the Crater Lake highway, was reported in a slightly improved condition last night at the Community hospital. X-rays taken showed that Mrs. Gilbert received a shattered fracture of the skull and a slight fracture of her knee. Her face was also badly lacerated above the right eye and through the lower lip by the broken glass.

W. W. Gill, driver of the Los Angeles car, received less serious injuries and Mrs. Gill and Miss Gilbert were both considerably bruised. The two cars were badly damaged by the collision, the Gilbert Humphreys being practically demolished by the crash.

Dean Gilbert, who was summoned by telephone immediately after the wreck, which occurred at 8:30, arrived in Medford about midnight, making the trip south with George Pratt, nephew of Dr. James C. Hayes of this city.

Mrs. Gilbert and daughter, Madeleine, were en route to the Hamilton cabin on Rogue river, where they were to be guests for a time of the Edwin L. Knapp, when the crash was caused by a blow-out in the left front tire of their auto. The car was thrown into the center of the highway just as the Gills' Lincoln headed south, was passing. The head-on collision resulted.

Mr. Knapp and B. Sumpter Smith, accompanied by the Gilberts' young son, Walter, were in an auto ahead, leading the way to the Hamilton river. Suddenly noticing that the Gilbert car was not behind, they turned back to discover the wreck.

Don Fisher, permanent ranger in the Crater Lake National park, was among the first persons to arrive at the scene and continued to Medford immediately, taking Mr. Gilbert to the Community hospital, where she is under the care of Dr. R. W. Steeter. Mr. Knapp brought Mr. Gill to the hospital, where he was considered sufficiently recovered from the shock to be removed last evening.

The accident occurred on the stretch of highway, neighboring the Big Oak service station, where four cars figured in a wreck, in which one man was killed and several seriously injured, approximately one year ago. In an accident later Friday night on the Pacific highway, south, Mrs. J. B. Lantz, Madiera, Calif., suffered a compound fracture of the right leg when her automobile ran over her, after being parked on the highway for inspection. She is also receiving treatment in the Community hospital here. Mrs. Lantz was reported driving to Portland with her children, when engine trouble developed. She stopped the car, blocked it with a stone, and had started to investigate the trouble, when the brakes gave way, sending the machine over her. Her children were not injured.

While Mrs. Gilbert was resting more easily last night, her condition was still considered critical. An operation to correct injuries to her knee will be undergone as soon as she is able to take an anesthetic.

Telephone calls from Portland and Eugene newspapers and messages and flowers from all sections of the state were flooding the hospital yesterday with inquiries regarding Mrs. Gilbert's condition from far and near.

HARD LUCK YARNS TOLD AT DOOR AS POLICE MOP UP CITY WET SPOTS; QUARTET JAILED

Petty racketeering, with sympathy as a keynote, in some instances, continued throughout the city and county the past week, with the introduction of at least two innovations.

One of these was the raiding of the first of the week of commercial and private gardens, and the second was the practice of house to house beggars, engaging the housewife in the telling of a hard-luck tale, at the front door, while his partner entered through the backdoor and stole whatever was loose in the way of money, or easily sold articles. The advice of authorities is to lock the backdoor, before answering the front door, and to call the state police, sheriff's office, or city police, if suspicions are aroused.

Considerable quantities of garden truck has been stolen in the past ten days from gardens on the floor of the valley and in some cases a substantial loss has been sustained by hard-working people. The amount of loot, indicates that the vegetables are stolen on a wholesale scale for sale in nearby towns, or that some are laying in a supply, in anticipation of a hard winter.

With the increased tomato acreage of the valley ripening and with a ready sale looming, the tomatoes are predicted to be the chief target of the racketeers the balance of the season. Many commercial and private gardeners of the valley have their shotguns loaded and handy.

In one case a small man and a large woman were seen prowling around a garden at dawn, and another band comprised three full-grown men. They fled when hailed, and only a meager description was secured.

The authorities have attempted to put a stop to chronic begging on the streets, especially where the alms seekers appear with daily regularity and makes appeals to men, women, and children.

Gates to Display All Ford Types In Open Air Salon

The C. E. Gates Auto company will open the Ford open air salon at the old Junior High school location at Fifth and Bartlett streets tomorrow. All body types for the new Ford V-8 will be on display for three days from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m.

One of the features of the show will be a cut-away chassis of the new V-8, which was made in Detroit at a cost of $500. This shows all the working parts in action and demonstrates the simplicity and sturdiness of Ford construction. There will also be a cut-away body display.

Party Chieftains Open Battle for War Funds

By ROBERT ST. JOHN.
 NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—With the national battle for ballots now formally under way, both Republican and Democratic chieftains turned today to the task of raising the millions necessary to finance their campaigns.

In the Democratic camp, James A. Farley, national chairman, went into conference with Evans Woolsten, Indiana banker who heads the campaign finance committee, and Frank C. Walker, national committee treasurer.

As they came from a lengthy discussion of their money-raising problem, Farley announced "we will try our best to keep our expenditures within $1,500,000."

EVIDENCE CHAIN REVEALS EGAN'S NEED OF MONEY

Testimony in Trial Supports Contentions Ousted Public Defender Feared Exposure in Alleged Crooked Deals

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Around a widow's former home, the prosecution in the murder trial of Frank J. Egan, ousted San Francisco public defender, cast its chain of evidence here today in support of the contention "trickery" and "fear" of exposure motivated the alleged slaying of Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes.

From Richard I. Kazaka, former real estate dealer, Prosecutor I. M. Golden, drew testimony the home was deeded to him by Mrs. Hughes "for one dollar and other valuable considerations." Evidence was then presented to show Kazaka and Egan mortgaged the home for $1,700.

Parker S. Maddux, bank official, was recalled to the stand to testify Egan deposited $500 in the bank the day he and Kazaka mortgaged the home. Then A. G. Sals, real estate agent, testified he sold the home to James H. Sweeney, present owner, dealing only with Egan and that payments were made to the former public defender for several months. Sals testified payments were then assigned to L. M. Hoefler, executor of the estate of Mrs. Katie Weber, street sweeper's widow and former Egan client.

In his opening statement, the prosecutor charged he would prove Egan was "robbing Peter to pay Paul" in order to meet demands for repayment of funds he is alleged to have appropriated from Mrs. Weber's estate.

The statement further charged, Mrs. Hughes became suspicious and Egan ordered two ex-convinced friends, Albert Tinnin and Vern Doran, to kill her in order to remove the possibility of exposure and at the same time inherit her estate, consisting chiefly of insurance policies in which he was named beneficiary.

Tinnin is being tried jointly with the former public defender, Doran, who has allegedly confessed, is expected to testify as a state's witness.

HITLER BLOCKED BY HINDENBURG IN POWER QUEST

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The towering figure of Germany's "grand old man," President Paul von Hindenburg, again blocked today a seizure of power attempted by the meteorically rising chieftain of the national socialists, Adolf Hitler.

To the self-confident demand of Hitler, Austrian-born former corporal and paper hanger, for all or none of the country's governing authority, the venerable field marshal-president firmly and with dignity poohed his "never."

Hitler had been offered the post of vice-chancellor, a post which would be created especially for him, and would include the office of premier of Prussia, which had been vacant since the national government imposed a virtual dictatorship in Prussia.

Hitler rejected that. Chancellor Franz von Papen still offered cabinet posts to some of Hitler's lieutenants. Hitler refused that.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:
 BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 12.—Here is a good illustration of how these market boosters can pull a bad one. Farm machinery went up on the stock market Wednesday. Now there is not a farmer in the United States that can pay his taxes, or his groceries. Now how is he going to buy any farm machinery? He has no more credit if he wanted to. He couldn't get a garden hoe, much less thrashing machine. He can plow with a forked stick and raise more than he can sell. So that raise don't look so hot. That's like Christmas trees going up at New Years.
 Everybody is trying to tunc in one Seabury being investigated by Walker. Our investigations have always contributed more to amusement than they have to knowledge.
