A Modern Jesus for This Cape Cod Village

Mural Painting Showing Christ In Fisherman's Garb To Hang In Church, Chatham, Mass.

CHATHAM, Mass.—(AP)—This Cape Cod fishing village has been piously moved by a mural which depicts its living residents as the multitude to which Christ preached.

In the garb of a modern fisherman—a woolen shirt and trousers—Jesus of Nazareth is shown in the stern of a fisherman's boat telling the parable of the sower to a multitude of villagers in the picture she made His face beardless, a composite of them all.

Inspired by Lay Preacher. The artist, Alice Stallknecht, drew inspiration for the mural from the story of Jonathan Vichery, first pastor of the congregation. Vichery was a lay preacher, a fisherman. He lost his life at sea. He came to Chatham from Plymouth in 1698 especially to lead the newly organized flock. He never was ordained.

The mural was painted to hang in the vestibule of the church. Executed in bold, modern style, it will be an anachronism in its setting as well as in its treatment, for the Old Congregational church—a small frame building with a simple steeple—was built in 1720.

in stocks late although turnover of some 2,000,000 shares was smaller than for any full session in nearly two weeks.

Share prices failed to get within striking distance of the high prices of the middle of last week, but several issues advanced $2 to more than $4. In bonds, several railroad issues pushed up into new high ground for the summer recovery.

An upturn of about a cent a bushel in the Chicago wheat market helped stocks. Bar silver also was firm, and cotton closed 80 to 90 cents a bale higher.

Vaudeville Acts Billed For Next Program At Holly

Showing for the last times tonight at the Holly theatre is "Congress Dances." This picture was originally announced for a three day engagement but due to the vaudeville bill which opens at the Holly Tuesday, this picture will be shown for the last times tonight.

And He began again to teach by the sea side; and there was gathered unto Him a great multitude so that He entered into a ship, and sat in the sea; and the whole multitude was by the sea and on the land. And He told the parable of the sower that He had to do with the dissemination of the word.

Villagers Moved. The artist said that during the painting of the picture the villagers who posed for it were profoundly moved, regarding it as a "veritable passion play."

Miss Stallknecht is the wife of Dr. Carl VanBuren Wright, retired professor of the University of Pennsylvania, and the mother of Frederick Wright, well-known painter.

She studied art as a girl, dropped it and began painting for the first time last year after her husband's retirement. She lives in Chatham.

And He began again to teach by the sea side; and there was gathered unto Him a great multitude so that He entered into a ship, and sat in the sea; and the whole multitude was by the sea and on the land. And He told the parable of the sower that He had to do with the dissemination of the word.
