FOE OF CHURCH ENTERS MEXICAN PRESIDENT RACE

Tejeda, Noted Anti-Cleric and Radical in Limelight Through Coalition Workers' and Farmers' Parties

MEXICO CITY.—(AP)—The presidential candidacy of Col. Adalberto Tejeda, launched by a colation of workers and farmers' parties in Vera Cruz, has again focused the limelight upon that noted anti-cleric and radical.

His public acts as governor of Vera Cruz have disturbed Mexican federal policies several times in recent years.

The candidacy is for the presidential elections two years hence. More conservative political circles consider Tejeda's friends have been premature and, therefore, his chances for election are not regarded as at all bright.

Defies President

Tejeda's most recent publicity came through the Vera Cruz expropriation law which made all private property subject to condemnation and seizure for "the common good." The governor let the law go into the code despite protests from many quarters including a severe presidential frown.

The colonel's enemies have branded him as a communist and he has not denied the impeachment. Even his friends admit that he is an extreme radical.

Although Tejeda had a previous term as governor of Vera Cruz, it was as secretary in the cabinet of President Calles that he first came to general attention. This happened when Calles decreed that the religious paragraphs of the constitution should go into effect.

Tejeda's department had charge of enforcing these laws: His vigor in that task stamped him as an anti-cleric, a position which he made even clearer last year when he put through a Vera Cruz law limiting the Catholic church to one priest for each 100,000 inhabitants of the state.

Followers Are Armed

Tejeda narrowly escaped an assassin's bullet when disorders followed enforcement of the law. Several churches were burned, two priests were killed and most of the other priests were chased out of the state.

It has since been charged that Tejeda sent emissaries into other states to spread his anti-church ideas.

He has a strong and reportedly well armed following in Vera Cruz and federal attempts to control or modify his policies have met with little success.

Beautiful New Lodge at Caves Near Completion

"Work on the new lodge at the Oregon Caves is progressing nicely," says Geo. C. Sabin, manager. "One of the important features being installed a sprinkling system, to protect the roog against possible forest fires, and another is the big fireplacect the roof against possible forest and of the natural marble construction. With its fire openings on two sides, it carries pleasing anticipation of easy chairs and pipes, popcorn and stories. A rugged mantle on which will stand a caveman figure, with a niche on the opposite side, illuminated with a floodlight, will have the appearance of a miniature cavern.

"The stream from the Caves, which flows through the dining room, with its crossing of rustic bridges, is unique in the extreme. Crossing this stream from the main dining room, one reaches the banquet room. The large porch from the dining room floor will seat 30 to 40 people and will be a favored place to dine. Fronting the dining rooms will be a crystal-clear pool, in which big trout will be seen. Around this pool, with its growth of ferns and vine maple, will be created an attractive dining place. A coffee tavern will also be operated.

"Three steps from the lounge level are five large, beautiful rooms, each with bath, and large windows viewing the giant Douglas firs on the mountain slope. On the first floor above the lounge are 14 rooms, each with private bath and an enchanting view. On the floor above are twelve excellent guest rooms, with hot and cold water. The unique kitchen was planned by an expert.

"The lodge will be steam-heated throughout with telephones in every room. From the fireproof boiler room to roof, the lodge will be six stories in height. The floor space comprises an area of 1¼ acres. Guests arriving at the lodge will alight from their autos at the fourth floor, the stream, in natural flow, crosses the third floor, and autos are driven directly onto both the second and first floors.

"The number of visitors to the Caves this year is about one-third less than its best year, 1931. The newly installed floodlight system, within the caverns, the widened, surfaced and oiled highway are assisting in making the Caves known as one of the most satisfying scenic attractions of the great Pacific Coast."

ROOSEVELT WILL OPEN CAMPAIGN WITH OHIO TALK

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Ohio Democrats assembled for their state convention today with their chief interest centered on the forthcoming address of the presidential nominee, Franklin D. Roosevelt. He will speak at 4 p. m., eastern standard time (1 p. m., Pacific time) tomorrow, in the Columbus baseball park.

Heading the program for today and tonight were the problems of forming an Ohio Democratic platform and the selection of a candidate for lieutenant-governor.

Leaders predicted the platform will endorse the prohibition plank adopted at the national convention, and that it also may advocate repeal of the state's own prohibition laws.

Opening speakers of the convention will be U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley and Governor White.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A nationwide hookup of 23 radio stations will broadcast the opening campaign address of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt here tomorrow afternoon.

The hookup will start functioning at 4 o'clock, eastern standard time, and continue until Governor Roosevelt has completed his address.

Oregon Weather.

Fair tonight and Saturday and over the week-end, but cloudy or foggy near the coast; temperature above normal in the interior; moderate northwest wind offshore.

FOREST HIGHWAY BIDS OPENED FOR BIG EXPENDITURE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Bids for national forest roads involving outlays of about $275,000 were opened here today at the offices of the federal bureau of public roads. Low bidders were:

For 38 miles of surfacing on the Howard Gulch and Lava Beds highway in Modoc county, north of Alturas, Hemstreet & Bell of Marysville, Cal., $109,827.25. Second lowest bid was by H. B. Johnson of Portland, Ore., $142,815.47.

For grading 21 miles on the Mt. Shasta-Mt. Lassen highway, Isbell Construction Co., Carson City, Nev., $165,910.70.

For reconstruction of three miles of the Eppetts Pass highway toward Strawberry, in the vicinity of Long Barn, Harms Brothers of Galt, Cal., $8,497.50.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 19.—(AP)—The U. S. forest service will spend $3,000,000 on highways and other development in western Montana, north Idaho and east Washington in the next 10 months, Major Evan W. Kelley, Missoula, Mont., regional forester, said here tonight.

Of this amount, $1,700,000 will be spent on highways and $1,300,000 on forest development roads, he said. The latter are used solely caring for the forests, while the public uses the highways, Major Kelley explained.

Among the work to be done at once, Major Kelley asserted, will be the Copeland-Eastport road in Idaho and Washington, costing $200,000; Fourth of July canyon region in Idaho, $230,000; between Pritchard and Enaville, Idaho, $100,000; Grangeville and Elk City, Idaho, $80,000; Wallace-Missoula road on Yellowstone highway, $180,000; Fish Creek bridge at Alberton, Mont., $270,000; Troy-Libby, Mont., $100,000; Belton-Glacier road, Montana, $90,000; Clark Fork road, between Thompson Falls and Trout creek, $160,000.

Local labor will be employed wherever possible, Kelley said.

PROLAND—Burton Investment Co. purchased H. B. Drinker buildings on northwest and southwest corners of Sandy boulevard and 42nd street, for $175,000.

Pope To Dedicate Ornate Gallery On Fall Festival Date

VATICAN CITY.—(AP)—The "gingerbread house of the Vatican," as the new art gallery building is nicknamed, will be dedicated by the Pope October 28.

This is not to celebrate the anniversary of the fascist march on Rome, the same day, but the episcopal consecration of the pontiff, October 28, 1919.

Professor Biagetti, director of the Vatican galleries, is making careful preparations for the transfer of the priceless Vatican pictures to their new home. The moving will be done after the summer heat has dried out the new building.

The new gallery is ornamented on the outside with rosettes and designs of brightly painted glass and a vivid-hued Italian pottery called "majolica." Hence its nickname.

Cows Appreciate Personal Bowls Of Drinking Water

AMES, Iowa.—(AP)—Cows appreciate having individual drinking bowls in the barn yard, and reward their owners by giving more milk of a higher butterfat content.

C. Y. Cannon and E. N. Hansen of the Iowa State college dairy department found this to be true after a series of tests.

Cows watered at an outside tank often drink no more than once daily, they found, but those with their own fountains drink as frequently as 10 times a day. The result was that cows watered with bowls gave 3.5 per cent more milk, with 10.7 per cent more butterfat, than their less fortunate sisters.
