Leda O'Neal Hailed As "Robin Hood"

A modern Robin Hood has been found at the Girl Scout camp at Willpen Pines this summer, according to interesting notes today from the Applegate. She is Leda O'Neal, who has made phenomenal progress in archery.

Leda, who is a first class scout from the high school troop, had never used a bow and arrow before attending camp two weeks ago, and in that short time, an hour's practice a day, was able to pass the difficult test of the Columbia round, required score 125, with a score of 190.

In all her experience, Miss Leda DeGraph, archery instructor at the camp, reports she has never before found anyone whose progress in the sport compared with the strides made by Leda this summer.

Pioneer Costume Wins Jacksonville Throngs

By Eva Nealon.

Fringed ruffles of summer silk, which swished through the steps of the Vesuvianna back in 1881, rustled again Saturday afternoon about a small pair of feet. A little black bonnet, fragrant with lavender, shook its flowers once more in the breeze and black jet hair dangled in cedar chest, reflected the rays of the late day sun, as Mrs. Lem Wilson, 71, tripped through the streets of Jacksonville to win with the aid of her husband, first prize in the pioneer parade of the Gold Rush Jubilee.

"It was my Sunday dress, that's all," she told the inquisitive onlookers which broke from the spectators line to feel the brocade of her dollman, fringed with chenille.

"I was only 20 then, but I feel as gay today," she lifted a red mit clasp, to brush back her white curls, and swung into a step of the Vesuvianna. "My husband's going to the fight tonight, but I'll be at the dance," she cast a coquettish eye in the direction of masculine admirers. "I've worn this dress all day and I've had a fine time." She whisked her panier polonaise into a more pronounced bustle and readjusted the little gold watch, which hung from a very heavy chain across the lace of her basque.

Beneath her white curls long ear rings of onyx and gold dangled flirtatiously, completing the costume of a lady of fashion in '81.

"Yes, it was my husband who brought in Big Nose George, desperate of Montana. He was a great scout in the old days, but he's all tired out now, just from parading." She lifted eyebrow to displace another white curl. "So's my granddaughter. But I'll be at the dance tonight," she repeated with a devilish gleam in her deep blue eyes.

"When we danced, we danced until sunrise. Never tried it seven nights a week, but many a time for six."

My Beauty Hint

By KAY FRANCIS.

When tanned or sunburned, I use rouge and powder sparingly. The tint the sun gives one is color enough, I think, although if one insists on rouge, an orange shade is better than a bright pink or red. Powder base looks artificial over tan, and the powder should be used only to take off shine, rather than to cover up blemishes.

As to lipstick—emphatically yes! Carefully applied, in a dark red to blend with my brownness, I find in my own case it centers the attention and forces the lighter red of the sunburn into the background.

MIND AND HEALT LECTURES TOPIC

"Health and the Spiritual Life" was the subject of a lecture by Bishop Charles Hampton of Los Angeles last night at the home of Mrs. Ida Wood, 220 Oakdale avenue. The visiting prelate traced the relationship of disease to various mental and emotional sources, and described how thought and feeling affect the glandular secretions.

He declared that irritability and anger produce bile, and pointed out that if a person is chronic in his anger he can have a splendid case of chronic liver trouble. The cure in such a case is to develop the virtue of patience, while doing the common sense physical treatment of cleansing the body of excess bile.

Tonight Bishop Hampton will give his final lecture at the same address, speaking on "True Ghost Stories." The talks are given under the auspices of Medford Theosophical society.

prominent leader, have pledged mutual support.

During the national Democratic convention the Cleveland group, led by W. B. Conger, supported the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith, although Congressman Martin L. Sweeney of Cleveland stood for Roosevelt.

Full recognition of the Conger group was extended, the plain dealer said by James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, after a conference in which A. F. Baker and Conger participated.

They met last Saturday in Columbus on the occasion of Roosevelt's first away-from-home campaign speech.

Whether Baker will take any active part in the campaign, as reported in some political circles, has not been officially disclosed.

TEAMS NEEDED IN ROAD PROJECTS

The federal bureau of public roads has filed a query with the county court asking if a sufficient number of teams were available in this county, for use on the road projects of the government on the Diamond lake road, and the roads in the Crater lake forest. The government specifies that the teams be in the neighborhood of 3000 pounds, and that they not be removed from the road work, for farm work or harvest, but stay on the job continuously, once they start.

The query is in line with the federal policy of furnishing as much work as possible to men and teams.

The matter has been referred to County Engineer Paul Rynning for reply.

CREW ON GROUND FOR REALIGNMENT PACIFIC HIGHWAY

Fast Work Promised

As soon as the survey is made a contract will be let, Mr. Gates stated this morning, as Mr. Washburne informed him in a telephone call Aug. 6 that the reconstruction work would be underway within 60 days.

The highway work to be completed in southern Oregon will involve the expenditure of more than $400,000 of state and federal money and will do much toward relieving unemployment in this region during the coming year.

Martin checked in at Grants Pass with James Bromley, resident engineer, and continued south to find living accommodations for his men.

With the large crew to be employed Engineer Bromley announced yesterday that work would probably be carried on from both ends of the job, speeding the survey through to an early completion.

Located Sea Route

Martin is the locator, who put through the Hecta Head route of the Oregon Coast highway, and recently completed the survey of the Portland route to the sea along the Wolf Creek cutoff.

He is accompanied by the same crew that located the Wolf Creek cutoff route. No men have been replaced, according to reports from Grants Pass, and no additions are expected.

Serving with Mr. Gates on the Oregon's much needed highway improvement to Commissioner Washburne, preceding the meeting of the commission, were C. H. Demaray of Grants Pass and J. E. Thornton, mayor of Ashland.
