Hoover Intends to Limit Discussions When Outstanding Businessmen Gather With Him On Friday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24. — (AP) — President Hoover intends to limit the discussions by outstanding business men from all sections of the nation here next Friday to methods of easing credit and spreading employment.

In high administration quarters today it was reported that not only the president but Secretary Mills, Governor Meyer of the federal reserve board, Chairman Pomeroy of the reconstruction corporation, Secretary Chapin and other government leaders, will address the business men on these subjects.

The chief executive was described today as viewing the coming conference, called by him, as one that should coordinate the activities of business and the government in easing credit strain. He was said to feel that credit restriction has been lessening steadily since June, but that this movement could be speeded up.

The second object in Mr. Hoover's mind for the meeting was described as the development of plans by which the business and industrial committees from each federal reserve district, which will take part, can spread employment by shortening working hours but also by speeding business activity.

Misunderstanding Seen. The president was said to feel that some misunderstanding has developed concerning the nature of the conference since leaders of various business groups have sought representation at the conference. Mr. Hoover was said to desire that the gathering attack a limited field rather than the entire economic situation, with labor and agricultural organizations coming in for later attention.

Therefore, attendance has been limited to members of the business and industrial committees, comprised of outstanding men in each of the federal reserve districts.

Chairmen of these committees will meet in the capital next Thursday to discuss plans for the general conference. Although Mr. Hoover does not intend to meet with them, he will preside at the opening of the conference next Friday.

DEDICATION FIGHT CARD BRINGS HIGH PRICED BATTLERS

There will be no advance in prices for the big ring card September 1. Although the fight between Jimmy Byrne and Bearcat Baker on the new courthouse dedication date is by far the most expensive promotion venture staged by Mack Lillard in Medford, he stated today that the same bargain prices that have been in vogue would prevail.

Both of the heavyweights will do considerable training in Medford's open air training quarters, and the promoter is already busy seeking sparring partners for the pair. It is thought that Byrne will arrive Saturday, while Baker will make his local debut Monday.

Some of the new fight aspirants will be facing their first real tryout on this card. Most of the beginners are local brawlers who know little of the art of boxing but are willing to learn and should provide plenty of action.

Herb White will be given the acid test in meeting Babe Riddle, a stablemate of Byrne. This bout is billed as a six-round special to precede the main event.

Riddle is a slugger and makes little pretense at boxing. He depends on his ruggedness and ability to take more than the other fellow to win with his haymakers.

THEOSOPHIST RELATES TRUE-GHOST STORIES

"True Ghost Stories" was the topic of the final lecture by the Rt. Rev. Charles Hampton of Los Angeles last night at the music studio of Miss Florence Graves, 220 North Oakdale avenue. The lecture was preceded by a piano selection by Cyril Sander, which was much appreciated by the audience.

Bishop Hampton related a number of remarkable ghost stories, in all of which there was some tangible physical object which precluded the element of imagination, and gave substantial proof of the reality of life apart from the body. Bishop Hampton gave instances of difficult problems being solved during sleep, and declared that most people "are much wiser asleep than awake."

Some say it is caused from green alfalfa and others from the roots of the foxtail grass.

TWELVE DISTRICTS FOR HOME OWNER LOAN BANK PLAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24. — (AP) — The home loan banking system, inaugurated to aid small home owners, will divide the country into 12 districts, the maximum number allowed under the law.

Franklin W. Fort, chairman of the home loan board, said today the board had decided to establish the maximums under the law the minimum would have been eight.

Fort said the board would map out the districts as rapidly as possible and probably announce all of them at the same time. After the districts are selected, the sites for the regional banks will be determined.

The next step will be for the board to determine the minimum capitalization for each regional bank, select officials and open the stock books for 30 days. The banks cannot begin to operate until the end of the 30-day period and if the capital determined upon has not been subscribed the board can call upon the treasury to put up the remaining necessary money.

LOCAL GOLFERS HOT FOR TOURNEY

Southern Oregon golfers are getting "pleasurably good" was yesterday's report from the golf club, with an invitation to all residents of the city to play in the southern Oregon tournament.

H. B. Bentley, a new member of the Rogue River Valley club, shot a 69 on 18 holes Monday, and Chan Egan, the local champion, not to be outdone, shot a 67 yesterday, with a 35 on the first nine and a 32 on the second.

From all indications, Jack Hueston, professional at the club, reports the tournament is going to be a hot one, with much competition. Young golfers are especially urged to play in the tournament and Mr. Hueston emphasized the point that residence here is the only requirement for entry.

Contrary to rumors, I am secretary of the Siskiyou Memorial Park and a licensed salesman for the same.

GRIDIRON TACKLE SUBDUES SALMON

COLVILLE, Wash., Aug. 24. — (AP) — A salmon with a poor sense of direction got into trouble, Deputy Sheriff John Griffin of Spokane county, relates.

With a party of friends, the deputy climbed down on a ledge just below Kettle Falls to watch the big fish leap over the crest.

One of them, whose aim was poor, landed on the ledge at Griffin's feet. The officer tackled it, and for several minutes the battle was on.

Then Griffin slipped his fingers into the salmon's gills and knocked it out with a club. It weighed 44 pounds.
