Coming Sunday

GUILTY AS HELL

If you've gotten to the point—and many have—where you shudder each time you see a murder mystery advertised at a theater, you'll enjoy "Guilty As Hell," which opens at the Fox Craterian Sunday for three days. For here, at last, is a murder picture to end murder pictures. It "kicks" all the other murder pictures you've ever seen; it's really funny, and, at the same time, there's enough suspense in it to keep everybody happy.

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen, the battling buddies of "What Price Glory" and "The Cockeyed World," are starred with Richard Arlen in "Guilty As Hell."

They are cast as a reporter and a detective, respectively, who are called in to solve a murder that the audience sees committed at the opening of the film. The audience knows who's guilty of the crime, but McLaglen and Lowe don't. And their bungling efforts to solve it, though they're finally successful, are meanwhile highly amusing.

The southern Oregon pear packing championship will also be decided upon the Craterian stage tonight and Saturday, in connection with Buster Keaton's latest comedy.

Appendix Out—John T. Gilbert, who operates Gilbert's popcorn stand at the corner of West Main and Holly streets, is leaving for Portland tonight where he will undergo an appendicitis operation at the Veterans' hospital. Mr. Gilbert is a member of the Klamath Falls American Legion post, recently having come to Medford from that city.

Attend Meeting—Delegates from Grants Pass, as well as from other valley cities, attended the meeting of the I. O. O. F. Tuesday evening, when J. H. Jommus, grand master of the Odd Fellows of Oregon, and Earl H. Shank, grand patriarch of Oregon, were present while on their official tour. Interesting speeches and a social hour were enjoyed by those present.—Grants Pass Daily Courier.

Lister of Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Perry of Berkeley, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Berry of Los Banos, R. E. Hart of Montague, E. H. Piero of Willington, L. F. Lane, Miss E. Goldman and A.
