What Neighbor Editors Say

JACKSONVILLE AWAKES
Groaning, worrying, a flock of miscarriages of justice, libel suits no end and recall petitions for honest judges who step on lawbreakers' toes--for which we had always supposed judges were for--and right in the middle of all this dark, dank despair and gloom future a little town, for years lying quiet and sleepy where hills and valley meet, does a Rip Van Winkle, wakes up not only herself but the entire state, and stages the gosh dingdest, biggest and best celebration ever witnessed in southern Oregon and considering the town's colorful past, that's saying a lot--Jacksonville Miner.

PEACHES AT CONVENTION
When the American Legion convention is held in Portland next month Jackson county is getting a real break in having space in the lobby of the Benson Hotel provided for a Jackson county products display. There will be many thousand Legionnaires from all over the nation at the convention--it will be an opportunity to advertise southern Oregon which should be utilized to the fullest extent.

The Bagley Cannery is sending many cases of the famous tomato juice, the Medford chamber of commerce is sending quantities of pears, and Ashland wants to send a quantity of peaches. Peach growers of the Ashland district have a superior product--they will have an opportunity of displaying that product before thousands, and they will be performing a real community service if they contribute toward this peach display. A few boxes from each grower would make this Ashland participation something which will be talked about--Ashland Tidings.

A RETURN ON RELIEF
The Bend Bulletin editorially notes that Klamath Falls and Bend both stand now on the same principle of relief--that no one shall get help who does not give something in return. Thinking people of both communities, says the Bulletin,

All pupils are to report to their respective schools on the opening day. Tuition for pupils, grades 1 to 8, whose parents or legal guardians do not reside in the district is fixed the same as last year at $6.00 per month.

Local Intellectuals attended a lecture Wed. at the subjects being "How to Breathe". Some breathe so improperly that it is a wonder they made it this far. The present method of breathing is antiquated, but it is better than no way at all, and it is not hard to keep up once a person gets the swing of it.

New York's Interborough Rapid Transit company, which operates subways, has gone into the hands of a receiver. Captain Kidd and the lesser pirates would pay a willing tribute to the manner in which high minded American gentlemen-financiers have robbed, gutted, bedevilled and exploited that company and its stockholders.

Whoever was responsible for the management and mismanagement of that company, in the beginning possesses a record of his own. The late George Harvey, once ambassador to England, knew some of the gentlemen that left large fortunes, based on New York street car robbery.

It amused him to tell how streaks of rusty rails were laid down on Thirty-fourth street's level surface, and charged to the company at a rate per mile higher than the cost of building a railroad over any part of the Rocky mountains.

Moving pictures show strange things, elephants trumpeting, tails held straight up, crocodiles, hippopotamuses, scenes in the air, on land and water, ladies in pajamas in "fishable Long Island homes" or "Park Avenue pent houses," gangsters killing each other, young ladies struggling to fame and glorification through the follies.

Warner Brothers develop a new idea. They have produced a film telling how "life begins" showing one ward in a maternity hospital.

There is a lady from the night club not all joyful when the doctor tells her "Madam, the x-ray shows that you will have twins." She remarks "That would happen to me."

There is a poor, demented woman who steals a baby just born, and there is the young mother, innocent of course, wrongly sentenced to life imprisonment, who is told by the doctors, "we can save your life or the life of your child, not both, choose."

Dr. Vera Koehring, of the Washington Bureau of Fisheries says oysters suffer, when the shells are opened violently. She advocates a law compelling the use of an anesthetic, a little carbon dioxide, lactic acid or boric acid, to make the oysters sleep, with shells open.

The oyster's suffering, if it does suffer and knows that it suffers, would interest oyster men little. But Dr. Koehring adds that her method would make it possible to shuck oysters for about two cents a gallon, against the present price of twenty-five cents. That will interest the oyster man.

When men are more civilized they will forbid, without anesthetics, the intensely painful operations performed on millions of young animals, with nervous systems, fully developed, young horses, lambs, pigs, calves, all the suffering of vivisection, fur trapping, bull fighting as nothing compared with the suffering inflicted upon young animals, in the course of commercial stock raising.

Several thousand feet up, on the Polish Carpathian mountains, a colony of one hundred, that included thirteen doctors, organized an experiment in communism, with what the colony called "free love" as a side line. The idea was "by a novel experiment" to demonstrate important truths and prove the folly of our present marriage system.

Police locked up the thirteen doctors, and four women, scattered the rest. There was nothing novel about it. Such colonies existed a million years ago, in the tree tops. It was communism, because the nuts and

Personal Health Service

EVERYBODY SHOULD HAVE CANCER PHOBIA

The time to be afraid of cancer is before you get cancer. A certain amount of cancer phobia is a good thing for everybody. Once a reader saw something in this column that made him fear he had cancer. In great perturbation he hurried to his physician. The doctor made an examination and found there was no cancer, only a neglected case of hemorrhoids.

Cancer begins as a spot where the normal cells are changed by injury or prolonged irritation to abnormal cells and by abnormal growth the abnormal cells become cancer. In the early stage this is all a localized condition. If the individual affected is fortunate enough to take alarm and find the cancer before it is well advanced, the chance of cure is excellent.

There is a movement at present to teach the public that every woman should have a health examination twice a year including pelvic examination, as a protection against cancer. I think this is a silly idea.

Women who become sufficiently alarmed at the discovery of a little lump in the breast to go at once to the physician for examination learn fruits belonged to any monkey that could get them first, and the monkey ladies belonged to the monkeys that could get THEM first.

The real novelty is marriage, only a few thousand years ago, and a wonderful training school for men, not yet good enough for it.

Vice President J. J. Ryan, of the Third National Bank of Tilden, Nebraska, writes "this is one for the book. We shipped $500.00 of gold to the Federal Reserve Bank of Omaha for credit and on receipt of same they gave us credit for $499.00, charging us $1.00 for abrasion.

James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, celebrating his sixtieth birthday names the winner in the coming election and predicts that Germany's former crown prince will come back as a German ruler.

Italy's only two remaining battleships have been called into port, their crews scattered. They will never, in case of war, offer convenient targets to bombing planes or submarines.

Very fast destroyers, and destructive cruisers may still play their part in eliminating enemy trade ships but the surface battleship is as extinct as the hansom cab.

In the wars to come, only attacks from above the clouds, and below the water will be important.

Paralysis Death Taking Horses in Valley Pastures
Leaving a wake of stricken mules and horses, a devastating epidemic of the California brain disease, scientifically known as Encephalomyelitis, has swept north from California and is now reported as over the whole of Oregon.

The disease, which is a kind of paralysis, has caused great concern among horse and mule owners of the two states, and although the Rogue river valley has escaped with a comparatively light touch of the epidemic, a considerable loss has resulted.

The symptoms, according to Dr. G. A. Gitten, local veterinarian, are sleepiness or an inclination to walk continually, which inevitably terminates in paralysis. He stated that a grinding of the teeth is also a sign of the approaching malady. Although no absolute preventative had been known up until ten days ago, the local veterinarian has developed an original jugular injection which seems to be a satisfactory cure, as only two deaths have been reported since its use, while only three out of ten cases were saved prior to its discovery.

Horse and mule owners have been warned to keep a close watch over their animals, and any peculiar actions should be reported at once, as immediate treatments seem to get satisfactory results. Dr. Gitten's injection is being adopted through the entire state as the best remedy, and Dr. Lytle, state veterinarian, is expected to arrive here Monday to investigate the new cure.

Although there have been as many as 30 or 40 cases a day in some parts of California, a satisfactory control of the disease seems to have been re-established in the Medford area.

Ye Smudge Pot
By Arthur Perry

Jackson county was last week only shaken once to its very foundations, and the wigging was not sufficient to knock any more conspiracies out of the tops of the pear trees.

The hunt for young Democrats continues in our midst and two or three have been caught, who are too young to vote, which renders them practically useless for the purposes for which they are sought.

The new chise will be dedicated next Thursday, and is the first excuse the weatherman has had to be ornery in a long time, so it will probably rain. The speakers, croaks, eul-throats, scallawags, rascals, cut-throats, and descendants of Jesse James, that were duly elected have started to move in. Once, all were saints and holy men of politics, like those who will take their places.

Judge Crews and Del Getchell collided in an argument Thursday, but it did not amount to much as both the combatants are suave.

Jacksonville staged a 1-p-r-earing time Sat. a week. It was not learned what was ripped, and why the roars.

Corb Edgell is still running around leaving the impression that he is all tugged out from his own efforts.

Greg Campbell, the 6-toothed Scotchman was downtown in mid-week, and tried to twist a foot off the John Grieve boy, but was deterred. Greg was kissed by seven married women, and left just in time to escape a candidate who was eyeing him.

Transient indigents continue to swarm here, and have walked off with everything but a 5-room bungalow.

F. Bybee, the Jville serf, traded in town Fri. The serf says that when his brother-farmers of Iowa, who are marching, reach the end of their march, he will not throw anything in the hat to pay their way back to their farms, on the train and auto buses. Mr. Bybee then marched into the bank, and when he marched out looked like he got what he marched in for. He is a farming farmer, and does not fish, fool, hunt, orate, and cuss. He figures that the American government will last as long as anything or anybody. In spite of all this he is a Democrat.

Yokohama Yamahita, the Nipponese mopplod, had three grand kids walk in on him from Seattle the last of the week, and so excited him that he tripped over his own mop handle.

Dr. Duffie on Sugar Test
I feel I could not afford to have the doctor make a sugar test every week. I wrote and asked Dr. Duffie about it. He replied that the management of diabetes on one sugar test a week is about as hopeful as trying to put on weight on one meal a week.

I am happy to tell you that your treatment for cramps in the limbs (one half teaspoonful of saleratus, baking soda, bicarbonate of soda, taken in a little water) has proved very good. Many thanks for your helpful advice. (Mrs. A. McQ.)

Answer--Other readers who have any experience with this remedy for leg cramps please write in.

Much interested in your statement that candy or sugar cure, or cures fatigue or exhaustion. Does "same principle apply when a person takes some candy or other sweet before participating in a strenuous game?" (Miss H. K.)

Answer--Yes. Better educated coaches advise football players to take some candy or sugar in one form or another in the intervals between playing periods. Old time coaches are still trowling on indulgence in such food, but the old time coach is a comedy figure anyway.

I deferred answering your interesting editorial of August 16th to give myself time to look up this man who has made such a wonderful success in farming.

It is certain that the government's promise to pay under ordinary conditions is better than a piece of gold, for there is no "abrasion" about the government's promise. High finance can answer Mr. Ryan's question.

Those that have seen the former crown prince, and know the intelligence of the Germans would say "probably not."

If the thing did happen, after the horrible sacrifices that Germany has made to be rid of the Hohenolerna, it would be a sad day for Germany. That country might learn something from the fact that Germany, victorious over France's Napoleon third, was driven to her knees, in the shameful treaty of Versailles by the republic that followed Napoleon third.
