NATION CROWDED BUT ITALY URGES POPULATION GAIN

Fascist Government Faces Grave Problem Finding Room for Teeming Millions—213 to Square Mile

ROME—(AP)—One of the fascist government's gravest problems—that of finding room for Italy's teeming millions—is rendered more vital by its own ceaseless battle to keep the population increasing.

Mussolini has been hurling the question of what to do with all his people at the world ever since he came into power. Simultaneously he urges these same people to augment their numbers.

It creates a situation that is magnified by the present delicately balanced division of Europe and which for that reason probably will be allowed to go unsoftened for the moment. But indications are that eventually it must force itself upon the world.

Statistics just completed show the density of population as 213 to the square mile. In 1921 it was only 200. The increase has been methodical since 1861, when the figure was 124.

Persons not of fascist Italy's way of thinking might see a ray of hope in the fact that in the last two years there has been a noteworthy decline in the number of births. The fascists, however, view the matter in just the opposite light.

They term the decline a "grave danger" and "suicidal tendency" and have set themselves to check it.

Large families win prizes. Prizes frequently are offered to families with the largest number of healthy children and Mussolini repeatedly tells the nation that a people must multiply to be in ascendancy.

The figures that caused the wave of alarm showed that in the first half of 1932 there were only 502,408 births in Italy, compared with 835,825 and 564,613 in the first six months of 1931 and 1930, respectively.

A noteworthy decline in the number of marriages also was revealed, the figures being 128,976 for the first half of 1932 and 137,979 and 151,750 for the same periods in 1931 and 1930.

2,500,000 Gain in Decade. There were 41,709,381 people in Italy when the last census was taken in April, 1931. This represented a gain of approximately 2,500,000 in 10 years.

All these people are crowded into an area almost half the size of Texas.

Italy has large colonial possessions in Africa, but they are mostly desert land incapable of supporting large populations.

Mussolini arrests that Italy was not given a just territorial award after the war and has consistently argued for revision of the peace treaties.
