

FALL RANGES OF STATE NEED RAIN, BUREAU REPORTS

PORTLAND, Sept. 16—Oregon fall ranges are good but rain is needed in a few places according to the report of the Division of Crop and Livestock Estimates. Low range feed is dry and there is a large crop of hay. Cattle and sheep are in good flesh. Cows and young cattle will be sold close, with the selling of ewe lambs depending primarily on finances.

Oregon high ranges are very good but low ranges are getting dry. The usual fall rains will make for excellent prospects for range feed. The present water supply is ample with the winter supply depending on fall storms. Western ranges generally carry a good supply of feed in marked contrast to last year's drought. Hot dry weather during August did some damage to lower ranges. West of the Continental Divide, ranges are good, carrying more feed than in several years. The states west of the Divide have large crops of hay and feed grains with good field pastures. In the northern area east of the Divide, range feed was damaged by hot dry weather during August. Montana, western Wyoming, western South Dakota and western Colorado have a good supply of range feed. Ranges are dry and short in parts of North Dakota, central north central and southeastern Wyoming, south western Nebraska, and western Kansas. Eastern Colorado has a poor supply of range feed and short crops of hay and other feeds.

A seasonal decline is seen in the condition of Oregon cattle but an above average condition is maintained. Western cattle are generally in good condition and will move to market in better flesh than last fall. August shipments of western cattle and calves were smaller than in August, 1931, with increased shipments from Kansas and Oklahoma. Fall shipments are expected to carry a larger proportion of calves and young steers than last fall, with a tendency to hold cows and heifers. The volume of the fall shipments in several areas will depend on finances, and forced sales, but there will be little liquidation.

Oregon sheep are in average condition and should go into the winter in good flesh. Sheep and lambs are generally in good condition as summer and higher ranges have been good. Lambs have made good gains and late shipments will carry a much smaller proportion of feeder lambs than last fall. The August, 1932, movement of western lambs was considerably smaller than in August, 1931, when the drought forced early shipping. There is a desire to hold ewe lambs in some sections, but the holding of ewe lambs will depend on finances. The large number of old ewes cannot find sale at prices to permit shipment, so will probably be held. Texas sheep sections have very good feed. Lamb contracting has been rather limited, being confined to mostly Wyoming and a few northern areas. Lamb feeding in the Arkansas Valley and Northern Colorado sections of Colorado will be reduced from last year's numbers. The movement of feeder and stocker sheep and lambs into the leading Corn Belt states, including Nebraska, from the markets during July and August was 46 per cent of July and August 1931, and 60 per cent of July and August, 1930.

RESEARCH REVEALS ALL-BRAN RICH IN HEALTH-ELEMENTS

Helps Correct Constipation with "Bulk" and Vitamin B; Also Has Iron

Recent scientific research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains two things needed to overcome temporary and recurring constipation. It has "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

These two important food-elements promote regular habits, and help do away with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy, so often the result of constipation.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild in action—much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming? Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's daily—enough for most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Besides, ALL-BRAN brings your body twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Equally tasty as a cereal with milk or cream, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

THE HOME OF BREAD LIKE MOTHER MADE

Here is Finest of all Pear Recipes

TAKE eight pounds of pears, peel, core and grind through food chopper. Add four pounds of sugar, two pounds of crushed pineapple, and one sliced lemon. Boil until transparent, jar and seal. The finished product is one of the tastiest of fruit spreads—Not excessively sweet—much better for the children than those containing an excess of sugar.

Best of all, it won't cost much. Sugar is cheap—pears are in abundance and may be had at the packing houses for the asking.

The pineapple we have, and at a ridiculous price—No. 10 cans of Swift's Premium Crushed Pineapple (each holding 6½ pounds, at a cost of 6 cents a pound).

The recipe will fill 6 or 7 pint jars. The finished product will cost about 5c a pint and is the daintiest of fruit spreads—excellent as a sauce—and delicious with baked ham and other meats.
