

JOURNAL EDITOR JOINS FRUIT MEN AT ROUND-TABLE

Following the supper at the University club last evening, given in honor of B. F. Irvine, editor of the Oregon Journal, about fifty members of the club and the board of directors of the Fruitgrowers' league joined in the informal discussion with the editor concerning the valley fruit industry, and the co-operation received by local growers from Oregon State college.

days, when he made his home in the valley. Importance of the tests being made by the Oregon medical school to determine the vitamin content of pears was stressed by Mr. Irvine, who also highly commended Professor Henry Hartman of the Oregon State college for his research work carried on here and in the New York markets. The chemical analysis work is being conducted at the Oregon college was pointed out by the editor as being of importance. A member of the board of regents for Oregon State college for an extended period Mr. Irvine is familiar with the fruit industry here. During the evening, members of the league expressed their appreciation to him for the many times he aided them when the fruit business was in serious difficulty. Dean William A. Schoenfeld of Oregon State college was also a guest at the gathering, which was presided over by Edward W. Carlton, president of the Fruitgrowers' league.
