SEASON OF MUSIC SEEN ASSURED AT BANQUET MEETING

Forecasting with enthusiasm another successful year for the Southern Oregon Civic Music association, which will bring to this city during the coming season another series of splendid concerts, 80 officers and workers in the local association met at the Hotel Medford last night for the annual banquet which opened enrollment week. And the first announcement from headquarters at the chamber of commerce this morning brought the news that the enrollment has already exceeded the total, obtained at the close of the first three days' work last year.

With this very encouraging beginning as incentive, the workers are greeting music lovers in all sections of the city and valley and anticipating one of the greatest musical years in the history of southern Oregon.

Mrs. Gordon Voorhies, a charter member of the southern Oregon association, and one of the most ardent workers for advancement of good music, led the list this morning, having brought in 17 paid-up memberships.

Memberships in the association will be available until 10 o'clock Saturday night of this week. In accordance with the long-established custom of the Civic Music association, concerts will be open to members only.

The banquet last night at the Hotel Medford characterized by optimism, which has been lacking in all other events for some time, opened the annual campaign.

Wm. F. Isaacs, president for the second year of the association, presided at the beautifully decorated banquet table and expressed expectations of a larger membership than last year, and superior concerts.

He called upon several officers and workers and each responded with the same belief in the success of the coming year's musical activity.

Mrs. Edwin L. Knapp, who voiced the opinion of one not so long a resident of Medford, stated that she felt the civic music plan would bring to Medford the one desirable thing lacking in this section, and added that she was glad to join the project. She emphasized the claim that the need for music is even greater this year than during any previous period because of the mental anxiety, which has been prevalent.

Miss Harriett Baldwin, supervisor of music in the Medford schools, stated that she had already found a most enthusiastic response and that old members are anxious to renew their memberships.

Mrs. A. E. Woods of Ashland stressed the value of music in the home, the school and the church and repeated the statements of the first speaker to the effect that southern Oregon has the best climate, the best people and the best resources and should have the best music.

Miss Louise Woodruff of the Southern Oregon Normal school commended the spirit of neighboring cities, which have joined Medford in this movement.

Arthur W. Marnell, Pacific coast manager, the main speaker of the evening, introduced again the name of Dema Harshbarger, organizer of civic music, "who has done for music what Carnegie did for books." He traced the progress of her project, showing that there are 250 cities in the United States with Civic Music associations and that these cities are located in 43 states.

The civic music plan, he showed, enables a community to obtain good concerts without the dangers of a deficit, formerly encountered. The value of the plan, he stated, is evidenced in the fact that all workers are volunteers, entering the project through their own desire to bring better music to the people.

The tables for the banquet last night were arranged by Mrs. C. H. Paske, dinner chairman, who was assisted by Miss Jane Suedicor. Invocation was read by Rev. Hugh Mitchelmore.

A partial list of those in attendance includes: Margaret Arnold, Harriet Baldwin, Roberta Ward Bebb, Mrs. C. R. Bowman, Emily Brown, Freida Ernestine Bratzel, Walter Frazier Brown, Maybelle Church, Mrs. G. A. Godding, Laura M. Crawford, Eleanor Curry, Mrs. C. D. Elhart, Mrs. H. H. Elhart, Mr. and Mrs. John H. "It's elasticity that makes your stockings wear. Every thread of a new stocking is like a tiny elastic band—it gives under strain without breaking. But wrong washing destroys elasticity—then runs apart. So I always wash my own stockings with LUX. And I wash them after every single wearing. LUX protects elasticity—protects 'difficult' colors—washes out all destructive perspiration acids. Use LUX and save your stockings—its my advice to every girl."
