Ye Smudge Pot
By Arthur Perry
Money continues scarce for everything but the grim necessities, such as gasoline, hunting trips, football tickets, and betting on the pool.

Dr. Daniel Crosby, noted health authority, who has to speak on "How to Keep Well" could not appear because of illness. (Alameda, Calif. Times-Star.)

Rain fell Wed. and enhanced the chances of getting shot for a deer. Prospects of sufficient rain to cause the farmers to plant until after the election, are not bright.

The Young Democrats of the valley are feeling their oats. They fearlessly, like the boy upon the burning deck, plunge into discussions of the tariff, finance, and generally admitted thinker, once declared, "the tariff is too much for me."

AND ALL ENJOY IT
(New York Herald-Tribune)
"The rising tide of this 'agin' sentiment in the United States—radical sentiment, agin' sentiment, everything that can be grouped within the term non-conservative, is a very new thing."

Hiram Hobbs, once a good citizen of Clifton, but now a traveling salesman, was here for a week-end visit. (Paisley Items.)

"TALK GIVES MARK TO SHOOT AT" (Del. Norie Triplicate.) But they never do.
Who can remember when the purchaser of 200 pounds of grapes sneaked out of the grocery store like his wife was going to make some grape jelly, etc. etc. etc.?

"Roose severely scolded his son for shooting at him for a deer, on Round Top Plate" (Paisley Items.) Dad gets rough with the boy.

As in the spring, the dance will be the feature of the campaign meetings, and there seems no way to stop the political shindigs, unless the candidates are all compelled to dance, only with their duly wedded deputies. This will produce a bunch of officials who will stop cutting the taxes any time, when elected, to step on a pretty schoolma'am's feet. Or, on the other hand, some of the voters may possess the fool notion that they want work, instead of a wage. A good male dancer is seldom good for anything else, and invariably desires to make dancing his life work—the same as a confirmed fisherman doesn't want to do anything but fish. Science also claims that if a man is an adept with his feet, the other and more important end of him is apt to suffer. The ability to two-step and fox-trot is a social asset, but many people with votes have deep-seated prejudices against the dance. To all such the campaign dance is not a dance, it's a Shaker revival. All candidates have adopted as their slogan the stirring cry: "Great Shakes!"

JEWELLED CLIP HAS NEW FAVOR IN PARIS
PARIS—(AP)—The most elaborate and glittering clips which Paris has yet devised brighten the evening mode this year. The new designs, made of genuine jewels, are worn in unexpected places. They swing suspended from the middle of an intricate crown-strap back decollete, they nestle in the folds of material over one hip, or they gleam in the flat folds of a girdle. Occasionally they are clamped to one side of the front decollete.

On Vacation—Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Bremer plan to leave in the morning on a vacation trip to Boise, Idaho.

Believe It or Not!

THE government has appropriated nearly $4,000,000 for highway construction in Oregon, for two years: TO IMPROVE THE HIGHWAY SYSTEM of this state, as a part of the national highway system. TO RELIEVE UNEMPLOYMENT,—give work to men who have none, and thus reduce suffering and distress.

ACCORDING to present plans Jackson county's share of this sum is $455,000, over 10 per cent of the total—a generous share and greatly needed to reduce local unemployment. A more worthy and beneficial project could to our mind scarcely be imagined. It means not only an added payroll here through the coming winter, which means wages for men who otherwise would be idle; food and clothing and warmth for the women and children. It ALSO means, an improvement in the Pacific Highway, which is greatly needed, and which will pay steady dividends, in increased tourist travel, and more money for our farmers and merchants, THROUGHOUT THE YEARS TO COME.

THAT there should be any organized opposition to such a plan, is simply incredible. Yet there is such opposition. And even more incredible, it now is claimed by the newspaper leading this opposition that the entire move is a political frame-up—"one of the holdest pre-election canards, ever published in Jackson county."

What does this mean? It means that opponents of this highway improvement are injecting partisan politics into this project in a final desperate effort to defeat it. AND WHAT WILL ITS DEFEAT MEAN? Simply this: the $455,000, allocated to Jackson county, will be taken away, and spent somewhere else—probably in Multnomah county,—and of the $4,000,000 given to this state, Jackson county, with winter approaching and at a time of its greatest need, WILL NOT GET A DIME.

WHAT price politics! What price "Clean up!" Can it be that the people of Jackson county are willing to pay such a price? We don't think so. We fail to see how any sane person can think so.

For reports to the contrary, notwithstanding, THIS $4,000,000 HAS BEEN APPROPRIATED. It is going to be spent for highway improvement in Oregon. If none of it is spent here, all of it will be spent somewhere else.

More than that. If none is spent here, the people of Jackson county will have to assume the same financial obligation that would be incurred, IF EVERY PENNY WERE SPENT HERE. Or to express it in another way, the financial obligation of Jackson county remains precisely the same, whether it gets $455,000 for good road construction or doesn't get a cent.

HOW is that? What is this financial obligation? The financial obligation is Jackson county's share of federal taxes, and its share of state taxes—a fixed sum which will be precisely the same, whether this money is spent to improve our own roads, and relieve our own unemployment; or is spent to improve roads, or relieve unemployment, in Multnomah or Marion counties.

THAT IS ALL. The expenditure of this $455,000 here WILL NOT RAISE LOCAL TAXES ONE CENT. The expenditure of it elsewhere will not LOWER them one cent.

For the bill giving Oregon nearly $4,000,000 for road construction as federal aid for the relief of unemployment, HAS BEEN PASSED. The money has been appropriated. Approval or disapproval of this federal action, has nothing to do with the case. That money is going to be spent, and is going to be spent in this state.

The entire question, therefore, simmers down to simply this: As a part of the state of Oregon, and as a part of the United States, the people of Jackson county MUST ASSUME their share of the financial obligation involved in this appropriation of $4,000,000, regardless of in what section of their state that money is spent. Do the people of Jackson county wish to assume that obligation, and get $455,000 in return; or do they wish to assume it, and get NOTHING in return?

If we were not in the midst of one of the craziest political campaigns in local history, even to PUT such a question, would be an insult to the people's intelligence.

Lindy Is for Hoover

THE leaders of the Republican party are straining every nerve to re-elect President Hoover. They admit it is a hard job. According to press reports Wall Street odds on the result, are even.

If the Republican national committee would only consult us, we could tell them how those odds could be switched to 10 to 1 in President Hoover's favor, and the elephant win in a walk.

How? EXTREMELY SIMPLE! Merely persuade Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, to hop into his plane and take the stump. Let him fly from city to city, hamlet to hamlet, and merely tell the people what he told President Hoover in his wire, delivered to the Presidential Special on October 5th at Ft. Wayne, Indiana:

"Will you please accept my best wishes for the success of your campaign, for re-election. Your single purpose of devotion to the service of the American people, deserves every support. Your experience, your courage and vision are, IN MY OPINION, needed to pilot us safely out of the world-wide depression from which we are now emerging."

What a cinch! There would be "Lindy," and there would be the Republican party's case in a nutshell. President Hoover's single purpose of devotion to the American people, DOES deserve every support. President Hoover's experience, courage and vision, ARE needed to pilot this country out of the world wide depression, from which we have just started to emerge.

With such a personality in such a campaign; with such an ally in such a cause, President Hoover's triumph at the polls in November, would make the Duke of Wellington's Waterloo, look like a drawn battle in a Front Street checker game.

Order Extraition. SALEM, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Extradition papers were issued by Governor Julius L. Meier today for the return of P. Christian to Benton county, Washington, where he is wanted on first degree forgery charges. Phone 543. We'll haul away your refuse. City Sanitary Service.

Don't Forget to Register

THIS is no year to waste a vote. So don't overlook the fact that the registration books will close tomorrow night. After that time, only voters PROPERLY REGISTERED can mark a ballot on November 8th.

The practice of swearing in voters on election day, was done away with a few years ago,—incidentally a very proper and much needed reform. So if you aren't registered, get busy. The registration offices at the court house will be kept open until 8 tomorrow night, as a special accommodation to late arrivals.

Personal Health Service

By William Brady, M. D.

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady in care of The Mail Tribune.

THE MANUFACTURE OF GALLSTONES

Gallstones and stones in the kidney or bladder have nothing whatever in common and should never be confused. Why people have gallstones is still in part a speculative question and in part a matter of scientific knowledge. In nearly if not quite all cases there is a nidus of bacteria upon which the substance from the bile are deposited in successive layers until a concretion is formed. The concretion may be the size of a grain of sand or any size from that up to the size of a walnut. Usually there are many such stones present, but sometimes just one large stone. They form in the gallbladder or in the bile ducts.

Normally the bile ducts and the gall-bladder are sterile so far as disease-producing germs or bacteria are concerned. In various illnesses such germs may be eliminated through the bile apparatus or a colony of pathogenic germs may become established in a focus of infection in the gallbladder. Typhoid fever is notorious for this. Many a typhoid "carrier" owes his state to the persistent multiplication of typhoid bacilli in his gallbladder, perhaps years after the original attack of typhoid fever. Many a victim of gallstones owes his trouble to an attack of typhoid years ago. In some instances typhoid bacilli have been found in the center of a gallstone more than 30 years after the attack of typhoid fever.

Whether gallstones can or do form from other causes than bacterial infection, I am unable to learn. Because women who are fat and forty are particularly subject to gallstone disease, and because most of these sufferers have two bad habits, namely, doing work, play or exercise and wearing stays, corsets, girdles and other belly-repressing accoutrements, it seems to me that the sins indicated may contribute to the trouble. We shall refer to this factor in more detail in a later talk.

Gallstones are composed of cholesterol, or of lime salts, or both, with some coloring matter. The substances entering into their formation being derived from the bile, in which they are normally present. Gallstones composed chiefly of cholesterol are softer and less easily detected by x-ray examination than are stones containing considerable calcium. Anyone, particularly a woman, who begins at middle age to have flatulent dyspepsia should go to a physician for careful examination for evidences of cardiovascular disease, gallstones or cancer. The common colon bacillus, a normal inhabitant of the intestine which under certain abnormal circumstances becomes capable of causing disease, is often found at the center of a gallstone. The notorious streptococcus is another germ that may provide the nidus for the formation of a gallstone, the streptococcus reaching the bile tract from some septic focus elsewhere in the body.

In the great majority of cases gallstones produce digestive disturbances only and in only one out of five cases does the patient suffer with jaundice or biliary colic. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS Safe Milk. Would not a drop or two of tincture of iodine in the quart of milk make ordinary market milk as safe as pasteurized milk?—M. S. K. Answer—I don't know. A drop or two of tincture of iodine in a quart of doubtful water makes the water safe to drink after the mixture has stood 20 minutes, in an emergency. But if you are doubtful about the purity of the market milk, I suggest that you boil it five minutes, and then it will be as safe as pasteurized milk. Or if you have a special thermometer, you can pasteurize the milk yourself—that is, heat it to 145 degrees F. and keep it at that temperature 20 minutes, then cool again. This is pasteurization, and such pasteurizing is sufficient to kill tuberculosis, diphtheria, scarlet fever or typhoid germs which might be in the milk.

Paint to Conceal Blemishes. Some time ago you gave a prescription for a paint to cover white patches in the skin. Would it be good to conceal red scars?—Miss E. A. Answer—Any blemish that is level with the skin surface may be concealed with the paint. Mix 1/2 ounce of zinc oxide and calcamine powder with three drams (3 teaspoonfuls) of glycerin and a pint of water. To this add, drop by drop, till it is thin to match your normal skin is obtained, ichthyol. Usually not more than a dram of ichthyol is required. Varicose Veins. Veins on the leg which stand out. Editorial Comment

Their Big Program Winter pears from Oregon's Jackson county contain more vitamin A than bacon, dried beans, cereals, lean fish and many other foods. They contain more vitamin C than cereals, meats, canned corn, eggs or milk. And, after the pears have been six months in cold storage!

They have an alkaline excess which counteracts excess of acidity in the body. And excess of acidity in the body, or acidosis, is a frequent cause of rheumatism and kindred ailments. This amazing discovery of the value of pears as a food was made at the instance of Jackson county fruit growers and by a study carried on in the University of Oregon medical school. The information should be known to the consumption of Oregon pears in Oregon.

Do you admire the go-get-'em spirit? Do you admire good will? Then take a look at the Southern Oregon spirit. And contemplate cooperation by certain Oregon and Washington pear growers.

The pear growers have contributed a fund of $8300 to be used by Oregon State college as part of the cost of a new and highly advanced study of the preparation, storage and marketing of winter pears. This contribution is the go-get-'em spirit. The spirit undertaking by Oregon and Washington growers is the good will co-operation.

The plan is extraordinary. The secrets in the ripening and care of the luscious winter pear of Oregon are still hidden. We know its keeping qualities, its mellowed, juicy texture and wonderful flavor even after months of storage. But our pears do not carry all these virtues when they reach our pear buyers in the East and in Europe. Further discoveries are necessary as to methods of handling, time of picking and processes of treatment on and before arrival at distant destinations.

Dealers, for instance, in New York sell the fruit to consumers without the handling and treatment to give it the marvellous sweetness and flavor with which it comes to our dining tables in Oregon.

It is to deliver the millions' worth of winter pears in the two states to distant customers in the same delicious condition as that in which they come to us, that a super-study is about to begin. Doubtless the

FAVOR M'LARNIN TO TAKE BENNY

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Back to pugilism's "big money" crashes Benny Leonard tonight in what may be the last stand of his courageous fight to regain the flat heights he once knew. The former lightweight champion, now 36 years old and more than a little bald, will meet tough—and before everything else, young—Jimmy McLarnin, belting waterweight from Vancouver, in a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden.

McLarnin, a 25-year-old "veteran" of the ring war and known for several years as one of the hardest punchers in the business, rates a 2 to 1 favorite in the betting, despite his unimpressive showing against Lou Broillard in his last appearance here.

Two Fatalities Oregon Industry SALEM, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Two fatalities resulted from accidents in Oregon industry the past week, it was announced today by the state accidents commission. A total of 433 accidents were reported. Those who died from injuries were A. R. Hogue, Jefferson laborer, and P. W. Brosa, hook tender of Astoria.

McKee Also Out O'Brien's selection appeared also to have put a definite limit to the major functions of Joseph V. McKee of the Bronx, who became mayor by succession from his presidency of the board of aldermen. Mayor McKee's chief political sponsor, Edward J. Flynn, one of those who seconded the O'Brien nomination in the packed garden last night.

The p o l i t i c a l significance of O'Brien's selection was variously interpreted today. Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt had retired at the executive mansion in Albany when the nomination was made, and had made no comment early today. Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, however, was understood to have favored the selection of the 59-year-old air-rogate, and John Curry, Tammany chief, as well as party leaders of all other boroughs, endorsed him.

Walker Refuses to Run From the platform it was announced that former Mayor Walker, en route home from a short European vacation, had called a request that his name be not offered as a candidate. The cablegram referred to the hearing of charges against him by Governor Roosevelt—a hearing that was suddenly terminated by Walker's resignation—and pointed out that if he were nominated it would mean a campaign of vindication during which he would feel obliged to speak his mind about the conduct of the Albany hearing.

"I cannot see," the cablegram said, "how I could campaign without reciting the reasons for my resignation and without daily facing the public of the unfair nature of the hearings conducted by the governor or of our state."

Curry Power Boosted O'Brien's nomination was accepted generally as strengthening the Tammany leadership—a leadership which earlier in the week had failed at Albany to prevent the Democratic nomination for governor of Herbert H. Lehman, who was supported by Governor Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith.

There was a possibility that the legality of last night's convention might be challenged by a taxpayer's action on the ground that the law states a candidate thus named by a convention must be certified to the election board not later than the fifth Tuesday before the election. This would have been last Tuesday. Mayor McKee indicated he would not challenge the convention's legality.

Jenkins' Comment (Continued from Page One) FOLLOWING this system, he was able to retire with a competence. What those who played with him required with cannot at this distance be stated positively, but it was probably a headache. That is usually the reward of innocents who play with professional gamblers.
